

WEST SCRANTON

James Black of Frink Street Arrested for Selling Liquor on Sunday—Other Matters of Interest.

James Black, of Frink street, who has been, times almost innumerable, hauled before the magistrates of the West Side for selling liquor without a license, appeared before Alderman John the other evening on the same old charge.

As on former occasions, Black persisted that he was permitted to sell intoxicants because he had a club license. But as Black was arrested for selling on Sunday, it seems that he will fare worse this time than heretofore. He was held in $500 bail, which was furnished by John McDonald, of Frink street.

Alderman Kellow's Court.

Before Alderman Kellow last evening, Mrs. Orellia Karresky, of 110 Lloyd street, appeared against Mrs. Mary Ureeta, in a case of disorderly conduct. Upon the conclusion of the testimony, the alderman decided that Mrs. Ureeta should pay the costs and upon her doing so, a fine which it previously had been decided to impose upon her was recommitted.

In another case, Mrs. Ureeta turned the tables on the Karreskys by having Anthony Karresky, husband of Mrs. Karresky arrested on the charge of assault and battery. Anthony was held in $200 bail, which was furnished by a friend.

School Deposits.

The last school deposits of the year were made yesterday afternoon in the West Side bank. Only one school, No. 19, made a deposit. They were as follows:

Exciting Foot Race.

The long-looked for foot race between George Evans, proprietor of the French Roof hotel, and Thomas Morgans, a well-known sprinter of this side, took place yesterday morning.

The race was for a purse of $10. It was a 100-yard dash. No official time was kept.

At the shot of the pistol, both contestants sprang forth as if shot from a gun.

SOUTH SCRANTON NOTES.

The office of Alderman John Lentes was filled with litigants for several hours last evening, but the matters for judicial adjustment were of a trivial nature, and nearly all were discharged. The first case was that of Veronica Dudek, who charged John Quinn, of $200, and Cooney, his bartender, for assault and battery on the prosecutor's husband, and had to furnish $300 bail to appear at the next quarter sessions.

Joseph Konecht was charged with assault and battery by Tommy Zumpah of Elm street. The evidence was insufficient, and the defendant was discharged. Ellen O'Hara and Anna

Mrs. Francis Podmore, President W. C. T. U., Saranac Lake, New York, Owes Her Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Read Her Letter.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For several years after my last child was born I felt a peculiar weakness, such as I never had experienced before, with severe pains in the ovaries and frequent headaches.

"I tried the doctor's medicines and found it money worse than wasted. A friend who had been cured through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it. I did so, also your Sanative Wash, and I must say I never experienced such relief before. Within six weeks I was like another woman. I felt young and strong and happy once more.

SECRETARY ROOT.

Most Forceful Man in the Cabinet. Tribute of a Senator.

E. A. Coolidge in Atlantic's.

He is no less a force under President Roosevelt, who turned to him for counsel and support, than he was when he was in the cabinet. He is a man of great force and energy, and his name is a synonym for power and authority.

There has been no man at the head of the war department since the days of Edwin M. Stanton who has been Mr. Root's equal. He has all of Stanton's firmness and force; all his patriotism, perseverance and courage, and, in addition, he has a tact and persuasiveness which Stanton altogether lacked.

With Stanton the iron hand was always in evidence. He was secretary of war during the time of great national stress, and for years he ruled the war department with a firm and steady hand.

His attitude of mind was always in opposition to the private citizen wherever the private citizen came in contact with the government. He acted justly, impulsively; frequently with injustice. He was a great lawyer, but there were times when he overrode all law.

"Root is just as strong and firm a character as Stanton was. He is as unswerving and as unflinching as his predecessor. He is actuated by motives as patriotic and as pure; but he has qualities which Stanton did not possess. He is a profound and conscientious student. He studies every question that comes before him searching and exhaustively, and when he reaches a conclusion his mind is made up to stay. He is courage personified. There is nothing which can swerve him from a position which he has taken after careful study, and he has a power of persuasion with which it is almost impossible to cope. He can state a proposition with greater clearness and force than any other man I have ever known, and he can state it with so much tact that even those who come to protest go away convinced and admiring. Without question he was the greatest force of the McKinley administration. There were times when it seemed as though he were the whole thing, and there were times, too—notably in the summer of 1900, when the president was in Canton and Secretary Hay was ill in New Hampshire—when Secretary Root was actually the government of the United States. Unaided and alone, he carried the administration through one of the most trying situations with which a government ever was confronted. He is an executive, a diplomat, a lawyer, a statesman. He has met problems, and solved them, none trying and more momentous than those which Chamberlain at the same time was trying to meet in England with poor success."
