

ENDORSED HIS CANDIDACY

MEETING AT LYCEUM IN INTEREST OF COL. WATRES.

Resolution Unanimously Adopted Set Forth That Colonel Watres in an Eminent Degree Possesses the Qualities Which the People Have a Right to Expect in Their Standard Bearer—To Use All Honorable Means to Secure the Nomination of Their Favorite—Endorsement of Bar.

Despite the fact that the weather was uninviting to a large attendance at a theatre, a good sized crowd, not less than eight hundred, assembled at the Lyceum, last night, in mass meeting to endorse the candidacy of Forman Lieutenant Governor L. A. Watres for governor.

Hon. Joseph A. Scranton was chairman and the speakers were former Recorder James Moir, Hon. John R. Farr, Hon. John E. Barrett, A. J. Colborn and Major Everett Warren. Rev. Dr. James McLeod was also on the platform.

Mr. Scranton opened the meeting with an interesting review of the achievements of Lackawanna's successful sons and the part the county has played in state and national politics. He then went on to say:

I feel that you have come here tonight to learn of Colonel Watres' chances. You are all for him, everybody in Northeastern Pennsylvania is for him. But the delegates in convention are to name the candidate. I risk my reputation as a prophet in predicting that they will name Watres!

There are only three candidates, any one knows of, to come before the convention for the office of governor, Mr. Elkin, Colonel Watres and Judge Pennypacker. Mr. Elkin will not be nominated, because the things he stands for will not meet the approval of a majority of the convention. It must be the Pennypacker or Watres. The whole state knows what Watres' candidacy stands for. Judge Pennypacker has thus far failed to define his position. He relies upon Senator Quay to hand him the nomination. Will he do it? Can he do it?

Between Quay's domination and Elkin's combination, standard-bearer, non-factory, whose candidacy is not unacceptable to both of these wings of the party and whose success it may even Elkin might prefer to that of Pennypacker. Should the Elkin people declare after fully realizing their own defeat, would Quay invite a clash with the unknown Pennypacker against the Elkin? Would he not rather withdraw Pennypacker and give the stampede to Watres, who may thus win the nomination without a dissenting vote?

For the Elkin men and the Pennypacker men all say that Colonel Watres can be elected, hands down! I believe he is the coming man. We will go to Harrisburg with our banners flying, we will lower our crest to no man, we will remember that he is three armed whose cause is just. And we will return after the convention with our banners aloft and on them will be inscribed the Republican nominee for governor, Larry Arthur Watres, the next governor of Pennsylvania.

THE RESOLUTIONS. With a few prefatory remarks, Mr. Moir presented the following resolutions:

Whereas, The Republicans of Lackawanna county, mindful of the vital issues of this year's political campaign in Pennsylvania, and of the great importance of nominating a candidate for governor whose integrity, ability, experience, party fealty and freedom from factional entanglements give assurance of success at the polls, and being thoroughly convinced that the nomination of Colonel Louis Arthur Watres would dispel doubt, inspire confidence, allay dissensions and make success certain, and

Whereas, Colonel Watres possesses in an eminent degree the qualities which the people have a right to expect in their standard bearer and governors, a record beyond reproach in his public life, and an abiding belief in the rule of the majority through pure primaries and honest elections, and

Whereas, We are familiar with the sterling worth of Colonel Watres from boyhood and with his stainless record in trusted positions, at home and at Harrisburg, Therefore, We, the Republicans of Lackawanna county, in mass meeting assembled, pledge themselves to use all honorable means for the nomination of Colonel Watres as the Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, and to endorse that nomination with the party and lead it to an overwhelming victory at the polls.

Resolved, That in the nomination and election of Colonel Watres the Republican party would give the Keystone state a governor whose administration would subserve justice, safeguard and keep inviolate the state constitution, and uphold the honor of the commonwealth.

Resolved, That we regard with special satisfaction the unanimous declaration of the delegates and alternates chosen to represent Lackawanna county that they will stand unflinchingly by Colonel Watres at the state convention and carry out with zeal and fidelity the earnest purpose of this community in the effort to secure his nomination. We urge upon the members of the state committee similar earnestness and devotion to his candidacy to the end that the Republican sentiment of this section may be fully exercised and expressed in his behalf.

Resolved, That in accordance with the declared purpose of Colonel L. A. Watres, in announcing his candidacy to the entire party and not to any faction thereof, we cordially invite the Republicans of Pennsylvania to rally to his standard, as that of the only non-factional candidate for governor now in the field, fully confident that his nomination would insure Republican unity and place Republican victory beyond the possibility of doubt at the polls.

PRaise UNNECESSARY. Mr. Moir said it was wholly unnecessary in this city to praise or commend Colonel Watres for we all know him and the sterling qualities that have won success for him in life. Colonel Watres has a laudable ambition to be governor, the speaker said, and we are here to endorse his aspirations and to say to the people of the state that we not only endorse his candidacy but commend him to their consideration.

"Colonel Watres believes in law and order," continuing the speaker. "His title indicates that for it means that he is a commander of a regiment of the state troop, which are organized not to oppress laboring men, as some seem to believe, but to protect the life and property of rich and poor alike, to prevent anarchy from doing its fell work. I am satisfied that if Colonel Watres is elected governor, and believe he will be, he will be glad to urge the passage of laws that will put an end to the clashes between capital and labor we so frequently witness in this state."

The resolutions were then put by Chairman Scranton and enthusiastically adopted.

Hon. John H. Farr was the next speaker. He was gratified to see such a large audience, he said, because it showed esteem for Lackawanna's candidate for governor and interest in politics. The good American citizen is the active citizen who goes to the primaries and casts his ballot. The boss exists through the apathy of the American citizen and the evils that now exist in this state were wrought by the people submissively allowing the men whom they placed in power to become their masters. Mr. Farr said that in Mr. Watres they have a candidate who would do nothing to infringe on the rights of the people, and also a man who is the peer of any man seeking the office. His experience as senator and lieutenant governor eminently fit him for the office of governor.

MAJORITIES DECREASING. Continuing, Mr. Farr called attention to the diminishing majorities in Pennsylvania and attributed this to the condition of affairs at Harrisburg. It is time for the people to awaken, he said, and rally around the standard of a man of merit, ability and experience of Colonel Watres, a man who is opposed to "rippers" and "franchise grabs."

No laboring men need hesitate to support Colonel Watres, the speaker declared. Watres is a laboring man. Labor interests need have nothing to fear from a man who started life as a slatepicker. Elect Watres and congress will be saved to the Republicans.

Dr. Arthur J. Willson testified that he was assistant house surgeon at the Lackawanna hospital on Dec. 9, 1901, when Daniel McAuliffe was received at that institution suffering from a gun shot wound in the left leg below the knee. The bullet struck the outside of the leg and passed almost through the leg at a downward angle of 45 degrees, striking and splintering the fibula in its course.

The bullet lodged about an inch below the skin on the inside of the leg, the point of lodgement being from three and one-half to four inches lower than the point of entry. The leg was swollen from knee to ankle but by means of the X-ray the bullet was located and it was also discovered that the fibula bone was splintered. McAuliffe's breath and condition indicated that he had been drinking.

Dr. Willson cut in and removed the bullet. On Dec. 11 there were signs of gangrene and Dr. A. J. Connell, chief surgeon of the hospital staff, opened the wound, scraped away the gangrenous tissue, took a piece of the splintered bone out and redressed the wound.

The next day the gangrene was so pronounced that it was decided to amputate the leg. Dr. Connell had been called from the city and Dr. Reed Burns performed the operation. McAuliffe continued to grow worse after the operation and died on Dec. 18.

The doctor gave it as his opinion that a gun shot wound was the predisposing cause of McAuliffe's death. On cross-examination Major Warren laid great stress on the fact that the ball which wounded McAuliffe must have been held at what Dr. Willson described as pointing toward the ground at an angle of 45 degrees provided the McAuliffe was standing up at the time.

Dr. A. J. Connell, who followed Dr. Willson gave it as his opinion that the revolver must have been held at an angle of sixty degrees. His testimony concerning McAuliffe and his condition was practically the same as Dr. Willson's. Court adjourned after Dr. Connell's examination was concluded.

The defense is bringing out the angle at which the pistol was held pointing toward the ground to disprove the theory of the crowd that Cosgrove and the men with him fired point blank into the crowd.

Before Judge Newcomb. The jury in the case of John Tuffy, which went into Monday to deliberate, returned a verdict of not guilty yesterday and placed the costs on the county.

Henry Price, colored, was convicted of aggravated assault and battery in connection with an attempt he made to kill Laura Paine, while in Raymond court on March 17 last, when he slashed her in terrible fashion with a razor about the arms and hands and was in the act of slashing her across the neck when he was interfered with. The woman went on the stand and swore that Price did not assault her or cut her, but fortunately there were other witnesses to the affray, and Price did not escape as the woman intended he should.

William Bushinsky, a junk dealer, of Price street, was tried on a charge of purchasing brass dogs stolen from the carriages at the Mt. Pleasant colliery. Thomas Watkins, Ernest Watkins and Joseph Gaughan testified that they stole the brass and sold it to Bushinsky. He denied the truth of the boys' statement. The jury went out to consider the case at adjourning hour.

The indictment charging Frank Dupka with assault and battery on John McGowan, a public singer, was quashed for the reason that the commitment charged escape from a public officer.

Liquor Dealers Organize. An application was made yesterday to the court for a charter for the Retail Liquor Dealers association of Lackawanna and Luzerne counties. Its purpose is the mutual protection of the members, and it is to be managed by a board of twenty-five directors, made up as follows:

Scranton—Fred Dilleher, M. P. Riley, P. H. Durkin, Robert Allen, Stephen McDaniel, John Rusick.

Wilkes-Barre—Paul H. Steidle, W. G. Salvia, John H. Rice.

Suit for $20,000 Damages. Walter Gorman, of Penn avenue, was made the defendant yesterday in an action for damages brought by Attorney Edward W. Thayer for Edward Harwick, who conducted a store in a building at 135 Penn avenue, owned by Mr. Gorman.

The plaintiff alleges that on May 17, although he was not then indebted to the defendant for any rent, the latter seized upon his goods and effects and on May 21 sold them. For this injury to his credit and destruction of his business Harwick wants $20,000 damages.

DIRECTION OF THE BULLET

IT WILL BE AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN COSGROVE CASE.

Dr. Willson Testified That the Pistol from Which the Ball That Struck McAuliffe Came Must Have Been Held Pointed Toward the Ground at an Angle of Forty-five Degrees. Dr. Connell Says the Angle Was Sixty Degrees—Cases Heard Before Judge Newcomb.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a jury had been secured in the Cosgrove murder case but not until after the regular panel had been exhausted and twenty talesmen summoned. The four jurors selected yesterday were Thomas Walkey, harnessmaker, Scranton; Thomas R. Jones, miner, Scranton; M. J. Kearney, driver boss, Archbald; W. J. Stephens, farmer, North Abington. The case of the commonwealth was opened to the jury by Attorney R. J. Murray immediately after the jury was secured. County Surveyor M. P. Mitchell was the first witness put on the stand and identified drawings that he made of the interior and exterior of the Moran saloon on Luzerne street where Daniel McAuliffe was shot and fatally injured.

Dr. Arthur J. Willson testified that he was assistant house surgeon at the Lackawanna hospital on Dec. 9, 1901, when Daniel McAuliffe was received at that institution suffering from a gun shot wound in the left leg below the knee. The bullet struck the outside of the leg and passed almost through the leg at a downward angle of 45 degrees, striking and splintering the fibula in its course.

Connolly & Wallace Scranton's Shopping Center.

The White Sale is a busy time, and this store is the busiest of all. The right goods and the right prices make us busy. It's the goods behind the advertising that make a store—though some stores seem to think advertising is all that's necessary.

The Great White Sale Still Going On.

Muslin, cambric and nainsook underclothes. Fresh lots added today—pay as much as you can—though even the cheapest are good. Perhaps the most satisfactory garments are the middle grade—simple, rather plain, but dainty, underclothes of soft fine cambric and nainsook. Scarcely a garment in the sale that isn't unusual in some way. The only time of the day now that the underwear department is empty is before the store opens and after it closes—but the least crowded time is before 9.30, between 1 and 2, and after 5 o'clock.
