MONTROSE.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Montrose, June 3.—Montrose is daily becoming more glorious in appearance and will soon be at its zenith. The people from the cities who come here for rest and recreation during the heated term have commenced to arrive and before the end of this month the town will be filled with visitors and there would be hundreds more this year did the town but possess a well-appointed summer hotel, for it is only the lack of proper accommodations that is keeping away many who would otherwise come here to spend the summer months. That such a situation exists is indeed a pity and many of our people earnestly pray that some shrewd capitalists will see what an advantageous opportunity is here presented for the profitable investment of capital. Whoever is first in the field with an up-to-date and commodious hotel for the entertainment of summer guests will reap a rich harvest.

Among the noted arrivals here on Saturday evening were Mrs. Sampson, widow of the late Admiral Sampson, her daughter and son and three servants, two negresses and one white woman. The Sampsons went directly to the Post house on High street, which they have leased for four months. These distinguished guests will be warmly welcomed to Montrose society and our people will conspire to make their first visit to Montrose a memorable and pleasant one.

While at work painting on the roof of the residence of Druggist Frank D. Morris, on Lake avenue, yesterday, shortly before noon, Andrew Arnold, a well known painter and paper hanger of this place, lost his balance and was precipitated to the earth. He struck the roof to a porch in his descent, striking his shoulder and bouncing from there to the ground where he struck his head on a stone, and lost consciousness. Help was quickly on hand and Dr. E. R. Gardner was hastily summoned. The unfortunate man was taken in a wagon to his home on South Cherry street, where he has since lain in South Cherry street, where he has since lain in an extremely critical condition. The doctor's examination revealed a fracture of the skull, several inches in length, and it is feared that there are serious internal injuries. It is feared that his injuries will result fatally. Mr. Arnold has a wife and a large family of children.

Chronic Diarrhoea.

This disease is generally regarded as incurable, mainly for the reason that the remedies usually employed are ineffectual. That it can be cured, however, has been fully proven in many cases. The following tells of one of them: Mr. T. W. Greathouse, of Prattsburg, Ga., says: "I had been suffering from chronic diarrhoea for seven years. Last year I began taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and it has entirely cured me. I had spent lots of money for doctors' medicine in the run of seven years. If it had not been for this remedy I would have been dead now, and I feel that I can never say too much in its favor or recommend it too highly." Sold by All Druggists.
