

WHY DAVIS KILLED KING

his two companions entered the place. Daniel Cotter began to sing a song, and when it was finished, Davis walked over to a table where King was seated and they began to quarrel.

CAME TO THIS CITY. Harvey Decker said that on the day preceding the shooting he met Michael Davis about noon in Moosie, and they came to Scranton, where Davis purchased a revolver, for which he paid $5.

King crowded in between the men at the bar and Davis, who was over in the corner, said "That's a regular brute of a trick."

Witness did not see any person beating Davis, but noticed after the affray was over that he was bleeding from the side of his face.

Martin McDonough said that Davis said to King: "Come over here, you big brute, and I'll fix you."

COTTER THE SINGER. Daniel Cotter, whose song preceded the murder, did not see the shooting.

Michael Tool was in the barroom, but did not pay any attention to what was being said until he heard the shots fired.

Patrick Martin, of River street, this city, was in Sullivan's saloon from 10 o'clock p. m. until the shooting.

William Hart lives near Sullivan's place and was in there the night of the shooting for a number of hours.

A STRONG WITNESS. Patrick Loftus was another who was present at the time of the shooting.

County Detective W. A. Phillips was recalled to prove that the only weapon found in the clothes of King was a small pocket knife.

Michael Davis, the defendant, was put on the stand at the close of Mr. Murphy's opening.

KING'S SALUTATION. He saw Peter King when he went in the place, and King drank with him and spit blood by the mouthful.

Mr. G. W. Martin, of Moody, Mo., was troubled with a very severe cough and spit blood by the mouthful.

Decker, King said: "You haven't a subpoena, have you?" Witness said no, and King told him that he could not take him even if he had a subpoena or warrant.

William Martin grabbed witness by the arm, and he told Martin to let go of him, and if he wanted to hold any one to hold King, who was making trouble.

King applied some vile names and expressions to witness and at the same time started for him.

While he was firing the second shot King grabbed him by the wrist with one hand and struck him on the forehead with the other hand.

THE MARKETS

Wall Street Review.

New York, June 10.—There was some improvement in the demand for stocks today and upward progress was made by prices, but the market was still dull and narrow to a degree.

There was some concentrated buying of Southern Railway which easily led the whole list, and the price advanced to 40 1/2. This was a general expectation that the monthly crop estimate of the government would be published until after the stock exchange closed.

Canadian accounts from the same sources as the recent active manipulation of the stock. The traders were inclined to take a hopeful view of the prospect of an early settlement of the coal strike or of the resumption of operations and earnings by the companies.

The market closed steady. Total sales were dull and narrow with an irregularity of prices.
