2. The West College.—The West College was ready for occupancy at the opening of the school year, Sept. 29, 1900. It is constructed of brick, four stories in height, and contains ninety-seven rooms, one of which is a hall for

3. The Observatory.—The observatory was erected in 1887 and is designed for the use of students in practical astronomy. The equipment represents the latest improvements in astronomical instruments. It consists of a Clark equatorial telescope of ten inches aperture and twelve and one-half feet focal length, furnished with a fine position micrometer and all the usual accessories; a spectroscope, with prism and grating by Bausch & Lomb; a three-inch pneumatic transit, with a thirteen-wire movable micrometer, a fourth chronograph, with Bond spring governor; a Waldo precision clock for sidereal time, with mercurial compensation, break circuiting apparatus, a mill's battery and telegraph sounder; a Seth Thomas clock

4. The Department for Women.—The buildings and campus of this department are set apart to the use of women taking courses in the college, in the institute and in the school of music.

(a) The main building contains, on the first floor, an office for the Principal and the Registrar, a reception room, the office of the Director of Music, five music rooms, two recitation rooms and a dining hall; on the second floor a school room and a parlor; on the third floor a library room, teachers' apartments and students' rooms.

(b) The South Hall, erected in 1889, is devoted to students' rooms, except the third story, which is used as a gymnasium. This gymnasium has been lately approved and equipped.

(c) The Bucknell Cottage stands to the southwest of the main building and is connected with it by an enclosed passage way. It is built of brick, in the Queen Anne style of architecture and has dimensions of thirty-three feet by one hundred feet. The interior is finished in natural wood and is equipped, in matters of light, heat and ventilation, with modern improvements. The portion allotted to students' rooms affords accommodations for forty occupants.

These rooms are in suites on the general plan of a center parlor, with bed rooms and closets on either side. In this building is the studio, a spacious room with such adjustments for the admission of light and supply of undecorated wall surfaces as adapt it for Courses of Study.

The College of Applied Arts of Bucknell University offers four courses of study leading to degrees in arts, philosophy and science. Each of the courses extends through four years.

I. The Classical Course, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, aims to furnish a liberal education in classical and modern literature, in the sciences and arts. Candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts must present at least three courses in German and French.

II. The Philosophical Course, with Latin or Greek in each of its two divisions, aims to furnish a thorough training in advanced studies to those who desire to pursue but one of the ancient languages. Those who have completed the studies of the course, including not less than four courses of French and German, are admitted to the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy.

III. The General Science Course, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science, is substantially the same as the Philosophical course, with the substitution of additional modern language and scientific studies for Latin and Greek. Candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science must present at least one year of German or French as requisites.

IV. Advanced Courses in Literature, Philosophy and Science have been established, leading respectively to the degrees of Master of Arts, Master of Philosophy and Master of Science.

The method of instruction in the college is of an advanced nature. Each professor of individual mode of imparting knowledge, and this in the result, is advantageous to the learner. In general, the aim is to discuss each subject as far as possible as the subject matter requires. Lectures, comparative and historical, with a view of leading the student to the apprehension of the subject as a whole and in its organic relations. The range and character of the instruction can be gathered from the following account of the different departments:

Departments of Instruction.

1. Department of Philosophy (John Howard Harris, Ph. D., LL. D., President, instructor).—The studies in this department are metaphysics, psychology, philosophy, ethics, teleology and education.

2. Department of Law.—The Bucknell College of Liberal Arts offers in its courses for the degrees in arts and sciences a number of subjects specially designed upon the study of law. Students prepared for college and having taken one year's work in liberal studies, will be admitted to the studies in law. The subjects offered are those usually given in the first year of the best law schools. The instruction is by textbook, lecture and study of cases. Among the lecturers in this department are Harold Murray, McClure, M. D., President; Judge, Seventeenth Judicial District, lecturer on contracts and practice; Frederic Evans Dancer, A. M., attorney-at-law, lecturer on crimes and torts; Albert William Johnson, A. M., attorney-at-law, lecturer on real property and equity.

3. Department of Economic and Political Science.—Ephraim M. Heim, Ph. D., professor.

4. Department of Logic and Sociology.—William Ernest Martin, A. M., professor.

5. Department of History.—Lincoln Bailey, Ph. D., professor.

6. The Greek Language and Literature.—Thomas Franklin Hamblin, A. M., professor.—There are four terms of required work in Greek in the classical course, and five in the Greek Philosophical course. The Greek may be taken either as an elective during the junior and senior years. Besides the elective courses a number of honor courses are offered. In the elective courses a year of poetry alternates with a year of prose.

7. The Latin Language and Literature.—Frank Ernest Stewart, A. M., professor; Albert Burns Stewart, A. M., instructor. There are four terms of elective work in Latin and eight of elective in the classical and Latin Philosophical Courses. Honor courses, subject to the approval of the President, are offered during the junior and senior years. Besides the elective courses a number of honor courses are offered. In the elective courses a year of poetry alternates with a year of prose.

8. The English Language and Literature.—Enoch Perrine, Litt. D., professor; Miss Jennie Davis, Ph. D., assistant; Miss Elizabeth Lillian Foust, Ph. M., reader.

9. Rhetoric and Oratory.—Llewellyn Phillips, A. M., professor; Thomas Johnson Morris, A. B., instructor. The aim is to train the student to speak effectively in the pulpit or upon the platform or at the bar. All instruction is based on the principle that impression precedes and determines expression. Each student receives individual attention during the first half of the course in elocution, during the latter half in oratory. Special attention is given to debate. Every student is urged to take an active part in the work of the literary societies and credit is given for work done in them.

10. Department of Modern Languages.—Guido Carl Leo Reimer, A. M., professor; Elysee Aviragnet, A. M., instructor in the romance languages; Ephraim M. Heim, Ph. D., instructor in German.

11. Department of Mathematics.—William Cyrus Bartol, Ph. D., professor; Albert Burns Stewart, A. M., instructor.

12. Department of Chemistry and Physics.—William Gundy Owens, A. M., professor.

13. Department of Organic Science.—George G. Groff, M. D., Ph. D., LL. D., professor; Nelson Fithian Davis, Sc. M., professor. It is the constant aim of this department to teach how to interpret nature. The student is guided in his investigations by lectures and laboratory manuals.

14. The Department of Medicine.—William Cyrus Bartol, Ph. D., instructor; Weber L. Gerhart, M. D., lecturer on anatomy; Charles Alexander Gundy, M. D., lecturer on pathology; George G. Groff, M. D., LL. D., professor of organic science; Nelson Fithian Davis, Sc. M., assistant professor of organic science; William Gundy Owens, A. M., professor of chemistry. For the present Bucknell University does not offer a full course of medical study nor confer degrees in medicine; but it does offer the preparatory studies and most of the non-clinical studies of the first two years of the courses required in the medical colleges. The student can select from the medical subjects offered at Bucknell University such as will be required for advanced standing in the medical college in which he may wish to complete his studies for the degree in medicine, and if his standing in such subjects averages not less than three, he will receive from the Department of Medicine in Bucknell University a certificate of proficiency in those subjects and in such other subjects related to medical studies as he may have completed at Bucknell.

The Libraries and Reading Room.

The General Library contains about 22,000 volumes, besides several thousand pamphlets. The reading room is connected with the library and offers facilities for reading, studying and writing. During term time both are open forenoon, afternoon and evening of each day, Sundays and holidays excepted, and both are maintained without extra charge to students. Students in all departments have free access to the shelves and may draw two books at one time and retain them for two weeks, with the privilege of one renewal, if desired.

For greater convenience of instructors and students, collections of special technical books are also kept in the laboratories of the Physical and Organical Sciences and in the Astronomical Observatory.

Public Worship.

The college duties of each day are opened with religious services in Bucknell Hall, which all the students of the college are required to attend. Attendance upon public worship in some church in town on Sunday morning is required. Students must attend the religious services held on Thanksgiving Day.

Health and Physical Culture.

The Tustin Gymnasium has been provided for the physical training and development of young men. Young women have opportunity for physical training in the gymnasium of the institute.

These are provided with the apparatus usually found in well-furnished gymnasiums. The directors of the gymnasium examine every student, taking and recording in a book his physical measurements and prescribe such exercise as may be required for his physical development. Regular exercise in the gymnasium is required of all students during the winter term.

Expenses.

The college charges amount to $80 per annum for those who room in the college building, and $80 for those who room in the town. Tuition is rated at $50 per annum. This charge is for the regular work; when a fourth study or honor study is taken, an extra charge is made. Graduation fee and diploma, $10. Degree of Master of Arts and diploma, $10.

The study rooms in the main college are so arranged that two students occupy the same study. The dormitories are intended to accommodate only one person, so that each student has his own private sleeping room. These are furnished with new spring bedsteads. The student must supply himself with all other furniture. Students are responsible for damage to their rooms, whether it be done when they are present in the room or absent from it. If a student occupy a study by himself, the charges for room rent and private fuel will be doubled. An extra charge ranging from $5 to $10 per term is charged for rooms in the West College. An additional charge is made for rooms cared for by the institution.

Students can board in clubs at a cost of from $3 to $25 per week. Excellent boarding can be obtained in private families at $3 or $4 per week, or at the table of the Bucknell Academy at $2 per week. Washing is done at 25 cents per week. No boarding is allowed in the college buildings.

The Tribune's Scholarship.

The Tribune has arranged for a scholarship in the college of Liberal Arts in Bucknell University, to be presented to some young man, which includes tuition, furnished room, heat, light, and care of room, for four months, and is valued at $520. The only expense of any moment which the student will be obliged to meet is that of meals, and these can be secured at a reasonable cost.
