THE STRIKESS

DAMAGES ASKED BY MEN HUNG IN EFFIGY.

Three Lackawanna Employes Bring Sixteen Actions Against Twelve Strikers for Damages Aggregating $80,000-Raft of Warrants Issued at the Instance of Coal Companies for Strikers Who Have Been Molesting Workmen-Firemen Quit Work at Duryea.

Christian and Otto Schillinger and Daniel Morgans, of Keyser Valley, who are working at the Hampton colliery of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, brought sixteen suits yesterday, against twelve strikers for aggregating $80,000. The plaintiffs claim they have been hung in effigy and their homes pelted with stones, by crowds in which the defendants were conspicuous, and that by reason of these acts, the plaintiffs have suffered damage in reputation to the extent of sums named.

Thomas Mahon, Michael English, Roger Campbell and William Crosser are the defendants named in the suits brought by Christian and Otto Schil-

In the suits brought by Morgans there are eight defendants, as follows: Thomas Mahon, Michael McNamara, Lawrence Sweeney, Leo Vanston, Martin Lawless, John Sweeney, Louis Hennans and Arthur Bird.

Each of the defendants will be required to furnish $1,000 bail to answer at court. In case of fallure to furnish bail they will have to go to jail. The sheriff has been directed to bring them nto court.

The declarations in the several cases are substantially alike. That in the Morgans' cases reads as follows:

THE DECLARATION. Plaintiff in this suit complains of the defendant herein, and avers that for a month previous to the seventh day of June, 1902, there existed what is commonly known as a strike in the anthracite region, and particularly in the county aforesaid and the county of Luzerne, involving the united quitting of work, on a day appointed, of the great majority of employes of the anthracite coal mines, and especially such employes as are members of labor unions formed of a combination of miners, ostensibly for their own protection, and furtherance of their supposed interests. That the striking miners seek to control the choice, and stille the free will of all employes at said mines, and arbitrarily and irrespective of conditions and consequences, violently and threateningly declaim against any of their fellow-workmen, the necessities of whom and their families require a continuance of work; and in thus seeking to command and control workmen, other than themselves, the said striking miners resort to various scandalous, disreputable and even criminal methods; and in the execution of their designs the more reckless and lawless go so far as to hang in effigy their fellow workmen, who, notwithstanding strike, continue at work. That an effigy is usually made of stuffed clothing or clothing material arranged so as to present a ludicrous and farcical and absurd appearance, and popularly intended to
