TERRIFIC RAIN STORM

MUCH DAMAGE DONE YESTER-DAY AFTERNOON.

Rain Flooded the Streets Throughout the City and Transformed Many of Them Into Small-Sized Streams-Little Girl in Green Ridge Nearly Drowned While Attempting to Cross Columbia Avenue-Part of Ontario and Western Tracks Washed Out.

A terrific downpour of rain, which occurred yesterday afternoon, shortly throughout the city into miniature canals and caused more or less damage at many points. It began to rain shortly after noon and it kept up a sort of cross between a real, genuine shower and a drizzle until a little after 5 o'clock, when water literally began to pour from the overhanging clouds. A number of streets in the central city soon overflowed, the sewers prov-ing too small to carry off the water. Linden street was a good-sized lake from Adams to Penn avenues. A break in the pipe at the corner of the former thoroughfare caused a quicker overflow than usual. The water backed up on Washington avenue as far down as the Republican building, completely covering the sidewalk in front of the federal building. The basements of a number of busi ness places along Lackawanna avenue were flooded by water backing up from the sewer. A large stock of provisions in the basement of the Coyne house was destroyed by the water. Many streets in Green Ridge were flooded, also. Green Ridge street, below Sanderson avenue, resembled a river, and the water flowing down spread over the Green Ridge flats. A little girl named Dickson, whose parents live on Deacon street, attempted to cross Columbia avenue, near No. 27 school, and was carried off her feet by the swift current. She fell, and was struggling in the water when a passerby rescued her. Surface water swelled the creek running under the Ontario and Western tracks near the Love Road and washed away the embankment for a short space. Section hands repaired the damage in a few hours. None of the other roads experienced washouts. Street car traffic was blocked for an hour or more on several lines by the tracks being covered with dirt and causing cars to become derailed. Cars were off the track on the Dunmore Providence, Green Ridge Suburban and South Side lines. This occurred just at the time when big crowds are home ward bound and as a consequence there were hundreds of belated suppers.

Phelps street, between Washingto and Wyoming avenue, is always flooded during a heavy rainstorm, but it was never flooded as badly as it was yesterday afternoon. The inadequate sewer accommodations in the neighborhood cause the flooding. The storm seemed to have its center n Scranton. Rain fell eastward as far as Washington, N. J., and northward as far as Binghamton. Moosic, on the south, had no rain in the evening.

RECITAL OF PUPILS. It Was Given in St. Luke's Parish

House Last Night. This town will wake up one of these mornings to the realization that some extraordinarily fine voices are being developed in the vicinity of Scranton and that people with some natural vocal ability are now enjoying opportunitles here such as any city might well be proud to claim. The pupils of Madame Timberman-Randolph gave a recital last night at St. Luke's parish hall when seventeen soloists gave a fascinating programme Some of the singers have not been heard in public, and at least three of them fairly astonished the large audience present with the unexpected beauty of their voices. Nearly all have received the chief part of their musical instruction from Madame Timberman-Randolph and the marvelous progress which could be noted by those who have watched their advance for the past after 5 o'clock, turned many streets three or four years is indeed significant.

The choruses last night were directed by J. M. Chance and that is enough to say that they were the perfection of choruses. The brilliant "May queen" number and "O Blest Redeemer" were sung with exceeding smoothness and finish. A feature of the programme vas the presence of Charles Doersam, who played some of the accompaniments. Mrs. Genevieve Baker was accompanied most of the numbers, was very satisfactory in her work. Miss Grace Spencer again delighted her friends with her superb singing of

"Sommeil" solo and "Spanish the Romance." Miss Eleanor Reynolds who most certainly has a career for her choosing, made a sensation with her great solo, "O Divine Redeemer." Such a big round resonant contralto is seldom heard.

Miss Lida Garagan seems to sing with more charm every year. Her work in the trio and duet was no less excellent than in the splendid solo of "Delibes." so suited to her tones. Miss Elizabeth Bunnell sang most sweetly in the duct with Miss Garagan and gave a pleasing interpretation of the Rossini idea. Miss Ethel Shoemaker is one who will set be heard far beyond this communty. She has a singularly flexible and ovely soprano which has all the resonance which Madame Timberman-Randolph succeeds so well in imparting to her pupils. Miss Shoemaker is a iece of W. W. Berry.

Miss Alice Burns was among the most attractive soloists. She sang two prety little songs in a sweet and limpid oice which shows many possibilities. Miss Rose D. Gallen made a distinct with her solo, "Protestations," hit with Mr. Widmayer's violin obligato. Her lower register is particularly musical and attractive. Mrs. Bertha Colvin Lister, who

such a favorite soloist in the city, sang spring song exceedingly well. Miss Isabel Clarke, stately and beautiful, sang that exquisite "Song of Thanksgiving," by Allitsen, with remarkable charming effect. Her voice has so many possibilities that it is interesting to watch its development and she is heard far too seldom in our city. Miss Henrietta Harris is a little maid of sixteen but she has temperament and a beauty of tone that made her songs among the favorites of last evening. Miss Clara Langford of West Pittston, who has frequently been heard here and always with pleasure, gave the solo, "Grass and Roses," with excellent effect. Mr. Widmayer played an obligato for this number. Mrs. T. C. von Storch has an exceptionally sweet and vibrant voice. She sang two numbers, "Du Bist Wie Eine Blume," and the beautiful "In Blossom Time," by Needham, and her songs were among the distinct successes of the programme.

Assistant District Attorney Thomas Said That There Seemed to Be Nothing to Definitely Connect Him with the Murder of Mary Quinn and Refused to Appear Against Him-Superintendent Day Advised Discharge - Attorney Scragg Said Police Acted Hastily.

Bert Anderson, of Keyser avenue, who was arrested on Sunday, on suspicion of having been implicated in the murder of Mary Quinn, was discharged from custody late yesterday afternoor by Magistrate Millar at the request of Superintendent of Police Day, who made the arrest.

The police court room in the municipal building was crowded with interested spectators when the case was called before Magistrate Millar. Anderson, when brought out from his cell, was exceedingly self-possessed and seemed to be bored by the proceedings, for he yawned several times in a tired sort of way.

Assistant District Attorney W. Gaylord Thomas had been called up to the municipal building to represent the commonwealth at the hearing. He had a conference with City Solicitor Watson and Superintendent Day. When the evidence against Anderson was outlined to him he refused to have anything to do with the case, insisting that it would be a waste of time to bother with a hearing.

City Solicitor Watson, on behalf of Superintendent Day, said that the latter had no desire to have the case go to a hearing. It had been decided, he said, that the evidence against Anderson was not at all sufficient to hold him on. There were discrepancies in the statements regarding his whereabouts on the night of the murder and his actions at that time, which looked suspicious, but the police had nothing more to offer than these "naked statements," he said. The man's home and all the buildings in the rear of it had been searched by the police, but nothing of an incriminating nature was found. Attorney John F. Scragg, who appeared for Anderson, said that while he did not like to criticize the police, he nevertheless believed that they acted too hastily in this case. They should have been thoroughly assured that they had sufficient evidence to hold Anderson before arresting him. The injury done to his reputation by the arrest i one which it will take years to repair he said.

"If the police." said he, "go on ar resting every Tom, Dick and Harry they will weaken their case. It is a well-established fact that the more in nocent men you arrest charged with committing a specific crime, the more 2162. you weaken your case against the guilty man, should he ever be caught. These gossips who brought these stories to the police should be censured, too. Bert Anderson is as innocent of the murder of Mary Quinn as I am, and I ask his discharge." Magistrate Millar took occasion to remark that the police only did their duty in arresting Anderson, and complimented them for being "active, zcalous and faithful" in the discharge of their duties. He discharged Anderson, who was immediately surrounded by a crowd of sympathizing friends and relatives.

A few things to learn and remember.

Your Umbrella will last twice as long,

Don't stand your Umbrella point down to dry-the cloth being in a bunch retains water longer and soon rots it. Turn the handle down with frame not tightly closed.

Never dry a wet umbrella by leaving it up. The effect of drying and tension cuts the cloth.
