COUNCILS DEAL WITH SMALL-POX SITUATION

After a Most Animated Meeting, in Which Common Council Pitched Into Select Members for Not Confirming the Board of Health Appointees. It Was Voted to Sustain Mayor O'Neill in What He Had Done Towards Employing a Doctor and Nurse.

At a special joint meeting of councils last night, which, he candidly said, was far from keeping with the gravity of the situation, it was voted to sustain the action of Mayor O'Neill in employing a doctor and a nurse to look after the Thompsons, the two smallpox patients, and in providing the family with food, etc.

Councils also adopted a motion, which emanated from common council, directing the judiciary and legislation committee of select council to act in conjunction with Sanitary Police Commissioner in continuing the precautions and provisions taken by the mayor in treating and confining the disease.

What Mayor O'Neill did after the outbreak occurred, and which councils at this meeting sustained and directed to be continued, was the committee saw fit, was the employment of a physician, at a compensation of $20 per day; the employment of a nurse, at $20 per week; the employment of a night and a day watchman, and providing the afflicted family with necessary food, etc.

As indicated, before this action was taken, after an hour was wasted in an animated discussion, an exchange of feelings and at times a display of levity which, it would seem, should have no place in a meeting which was called to deal with a grave emergency, one which so affected the public welfare, regardless of the personal feeling of the members.

The failure of select council, or certain members thereof, to either confirm or reject Mayor O'Neill's appointees of the board of health, was the element that was responsible for the disturbance. The members of common council were of the one mind that it was the delinquency of select council that brought them face to face with the task of dealing with smallpox, and pitched into the select council, all of them, to do their worst.

The common members fairly bristled with opposition to the suggestion that they deal with the situation, and they stood united in every subordinate that was put forth to throw the work onto select council. They succeeded, finally, after defeating several motions from select council, to adjourn, and had the work put on the shoulders of the judiciary and legislation committee of select council.

Mr. Humphrey, of the Second, select council, was made chairman, on motion of Dr. Fletcher.

After Mr. Thompson had taken his seat, there arose a misunderstanding as to the object of the meeting. Common council members would not brook the suggestion that councils were to act the part of the board of health; while Mr. Mannion, of select, explained that, as he comprehended it, the object of the meeting was to draft an ordinance appropriating money from among several funds to defray the expense of this contingency.

Mr. Thompson opened up the fusillade on select council by sharply condemning the action of the mayor's appointees of the board of health, and said he was willing to take some action "to stop this injustice, when diseases like smallpox were flying around."

Mr. Masters said he could see no reason for common council taking any action in this matter, since select council had anything to do with select council's business and duty to deal, alone, with this situation.

Mr. Stone said councilmen had enough responsibility without acting as a board of health, and was only right to place the blame where it belonged on select council.

Dr. Fletcher's voice was the first to be heard from select council's side. He concurred in what the commoners said about the delinquency in confirming the appointees. It was a dangerous business, this half-way, suspension-like process, and could see no reason why his body, select council, did not act on the names two months ago. He believed that coffee drinking incapacitates some people for business at times.

A gentleman from McBain, Michigan, says: "Coffee drinking has cost me much, for during my life I have been afflicted times so thoroughly put out of condition that I have been compelled to abandon business for a day or two at a time. The attacks of headache would commence on the right side behind the ear and become so severe as to totally incapacitate me for any exercise, even mental. I have frequently had to take morphine to make me suffer. Sour stomach troubled me and I had a nervous heart that gave me a great deal of trouble."

Four years ago I saw an advertisement for Postum Food Coffee which rectified the ill effects of coffee on the nerves. I at once bought a box to make the change and leave off coffee for good. The result has been all that one could expect.

I am never constipated any more, the bilious attacks never come on except from some indiscretion such as drinking coffee, which I have learned enough to indulge in now and then. I have no more headaches, no more sour stomach and no bilious spells. I have not been sick to my stomach or had a nervous vomiting spell in three years. Am now 62 years old, and have better health and do a better business more comfortably than ever before in my life. I certainly attribute the change to leaving off coffee and using Postum for I have taken no medicine to aid in making the change.

The exponent as stated is absolutely true. I am willing, if necessary, to attach my affidavit to it. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Heved a large portion of select council would take action on these names at any time; and he would be willing to vote for the drafting of an ordinance to make the necessary appropriation in this case, provided the other members of select council would meet with him tomorrow night to confirm the mayor's board of health appointees.

Mr. Mannion said it was out of order to discuss the board of health status at this meeting, and to cut the discussion short, he moved that an ordinance be drafted to appropriate money to meet the expense of the small-pox cases. Later he made the motion read as an approval of the action of the mayor.

This was adopted. Then the question of appointing a committee to continue the work in conjunction with the health officer came up. Mr. Masters moved that three members be appointed from select council. The motion was carried and in the meantime a motion to adjourn was made by Mr. Mannion. It was voted down by a common council.

Chairman Humphrey sought to appoint the committee of three from select council, but all declined to act except Mr. Davis.

Mr. Nealon moved that a committee of five be appointed from common council. Here it was that the levity took place. The motion was voted down by a vote of 12 to 3. Nealon, Whitfield and Clark voted for it.

Mr. Masters then moved that the judiciary and legislation committee of select be appointed to act. This motion was about to be put, when Dr. Fletcher, of select, moved to adjourn. The latter motion was lost, however. Masters' motion was carried and the judiciary committee, Messrs. Mannion, Fletcher and Davis are to act with the sanitary policeman.

Though common council strongly prodded select council to act on the mayor's appointees, it was unsuccessful, and the board of health is still an absent factor.

An effort was made to have select council meet after the joint session to act on the appointees, but it was not successful.

No Change in Patients.

There is no change in the small-pox situation. The older of the two patients continues on the road to recovery, while the younger one, whose condition is critical, is about the same. His is the confluent type, the most dangerous kind. His body is covered with pustules, and at times he is quite delirious.

MISS JOSLIN RESIGNS.

Abandons Teaching Because of Her Mother's Poor Health. Miss Lucy Joslin, who is the oldest teacher in point of service in Carbondale, having taught for thirty years, has decided to relinquish her professional duties, because of the frail health of her mother, Mrs. P. S. Joslin, and will therefore not make application as a member of the High school faculty.

Miss Joslin's withdrawal from school life will meet with deep-seated regret, both from among the scholars and the teachers of the public schools. How Miss Joslin was regarded among the teachers was indicated by the High school faculty assembling at her home on Saturday evening and presenting her with three volumes of the works of Mrs. Mary E. Stone-Bassett, Van Dyke and Paul Leighton Dunbar. Many sincere words of regret at the severance of ties were passed among the teachers. Those present were: Professors W. D. Bryden and A. Wilson Gray and Misses Harriet Hutchins, Cora Estabrook, Kathryn Pace, Sarah Swigert and Angela Rice.

Miss Joslin has been teaching since 1870, continuously, with the exception of three and one-half years spent at New Jersey State Normal school. Her record is one which justifies a good deal of pride. Former State Superintendent Appar, of New Jersey, declared she was one of the best primary teachers in the state. Her influence will survive among the hundreds of children who shared in her honest, earnest and unselfish efforts, all of whom are her sincere well wishers.

Today's Nuptials.

Today occurs the marriage of Miss Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Moss Patterson, of Lincoln avenue, to Clayton P. Dairymple, of Dunmore. The ceremony will take place in the Berean Baptist church at high noon. Miss Patterson entertained her bridesmaids at tea on Friday last, when she

Those of Primary Grade Prove Delightful Hostesses. The city teachers of the High school and the intermediate grade passed a delightful evening last night as the guests of the teachers of the primary department.

The festivities were in the High school auditorium, which was resplendent with floral decorations, the handiwork of the more artistic ones of the primary teachers. There were various diversions to maintain interest and make the evening thoroughly enjoyable. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, salted almonds and bonbons were partaken of. A varied musical programme was provided.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

The street commissioners' attention is needed to repair the damages done by the recent heavy rains. Portions of Main street presents a deplorable condition. The quantity of loose stones and the washing away of the earth supporting the car rails. The culvert near the Delaware and Hudson station has been undermined, making it unsafe to drive over. The remedying of these defects might possibly save the borough damages.

Mrs. John Casler and daughter, Mrs. Leonard Rogers, and son, Leonard, former residents of Jermyrn, are visiting the former's daughter, Mrs. John Wilson, of West Mayfield. A game of base ball between Mendonson's Philipinos and Hendricks Tigers was played in Fowler's park yesterday afternoon and was won by the Tigers by the score of 24 to 17. Hendricks and Tollet were the battery for the Philipinos. Both pitchers did excellent work, but neither received the proper support, making it unsafe to drive over. The game was watched with considerable interest by a large crowd of spectators. The Century club will meet at the home of Mrs. W. S. Badger on Cemetery street Friday afternoon.

PRICEBURG. A meeting of the borough council will be held on Wednesday evening. William J. Oliver, of George Dingleberry will leave next Monday for South Africa. Their destination is the Kimberley gold fields. The boycott, issued by some of the individuals of the union, giving names of people that are working, has failed to have any effect. The business men are not running business on that line and they will use all alike that have the money. Twenty-one applicants were the number that applied for relief to Local 1919 last week. Company B, Thirtieth regiment, gave a clam bake on the rifle range on Friday night.

Previous to the strike, teamsters got forty cents per load for hauling coal for parties. Now they charge seventy-five cents per load, and the coal is sold at a profit. Nearly all of the employees—firemen and pump-rammers—at Johnson colliery, are back at work again. William J. Oliver, one of our business men engaged in the butcher business, was served with a list of people that are working at the different mines hereabouts, and was also informed that pickets would be on the lookout for people going to and from the different stores. He responded by closing up his place of business, and our people, both union and non-union, went to the colliery, walking to Olyphant to get meat for their Sunday dinner.

The quarantine against small-pox has been relaxed. Annie Harwin was arrested on Saturday by Constables Barron and Brozlosky. When her place was searched, material consisting of nine frogs, ralls, fish-plates, piping and various other things, was found on her premises. She was held in bond on Friday evening her two sons were taught in the act of carrying away an axle of a mine car from the Johnson colliery by Constable Barron, and were held in ball for court.

FOUR PALMISTS IN WILLIAMSPORT They Call Upon Mayor Laedlein and Cause His Honor Some Uneasiness. From the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin. Mayor Laedlein, was seated in his office Monday afternoon, going over some official documents, when four sleek-looking strangers sauntered slowly into the room. The dignified head of the municipality looked up from his desk, and perfunctorily requested them to be seated. One of the visitors approached the mayor, and said: "Mister Mayor, we are experts in palmistry and want a license to practice in your city. We are game birds and on the square, and having operated in all the principal cities of Europe, as well as America, can furnish all the necessary credentials and recommendations to prove our reliability and expertness in the profession—a profession, sir, in which we excel."

Mayor Laedlein eyed the visitors closely, and then informed them that he did not believe in palmistry and could not license them to practice such a profession. He said, furthermore, that not long since a well-known member of the bar had been palmed out of a diamond stud, and still later another had parted with a well-filled wallet through the agency of similar practitioners, and under the circumstances he would not countenance such a doubtful business in this city.

"But, Mr. Mayor," said the spokesman, "we are strictly on the square." "That makes no difference," replied the mayor. "We don't want any of your palmistry in this city." Then the mayor sat down and tried to resume his work. He shifted uneasily in his chair, and manifested the fact that he was being bored. But the palmists were not to be put off so easily. They insisted on a license, and finally the mayor said he had no authority to issue one, even if he desired. "Go to the city solicitor," he said, "and get a written opinion as to my right, and then I will consider your application."

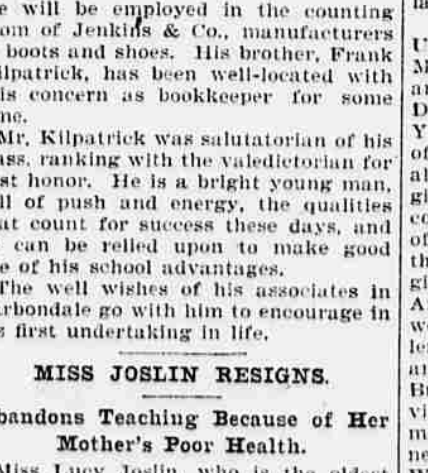

"But, Your Honor," replied the spokesman, "the city solicitor can be easily faked. We will toss him a hundred and he'll give a satisfactory opinion and you'll have to issue the license. Now, why not take the hundred yourself?" "Sir!" thundered the mayor, arising quickly. "Now, don't get excited, Mr. Mayor," said the chief palmist. "For, you see, we have had these experiences before. Here you have a chance to turn a hundred yourself, whereby if we go to the city solicitor and he should divy with you, why your share could not be over fifty, sir?"

"By this time the mayor was making a movement as if to summon the police, when one of the other palmists stepped in front and impeded his passage, at the same time requesting an opportunity to read the official's palm. Taking his hand, he said: "Why, how do you do, Mr. Mayor?" "Who are you?" queried the mayor, becoming suspicious that he was being made the victim of a practical joke. "Let me introduce you to Mayor Price, of Wilkes-Barre," said the sleek palmist, who, by the way, was E. R. W. Searle, of Scranton, clerk of the United States court, and he presented the original applicant for the palmistry license. In turn he introduced John Shea, of Wilkes-Barre, and Superintendent of Public Buildings Reilly, of Scranton, and there were peals of laughter, and hearty handshakings all around. "That is one on me, gentlemen," said Mayor Laedlein, and he led the palmists out and there was an exchange of the compliment made famous by the governor of South Carolina, in his intercourse with the governor of North Carolina. Mayor Laedlein entertained his visitors with notable hospitality during the rest of the day. TAYLOR.
