NUPTIAL CEREMONY OF RARE SPLENDOR

It Marks the Wedding of Miss Helen Angella Patterson and Clarence Dalrymple, of Dunmore, at Noon at Berean Baptist Church—Wealth of Green and Laurel Ferns Beautiful Setting for Nuptial Tableau.

Rev. H. J. Whalen, D. D., the Officiating Clergyman.

A rarely splendid ceremony, one most happily in harmony with the eventful rappings of their young lives, marked the nuptial scene yesterday.

The wedding took place at noon in Berean Baptist church, amid surroundings that formed a beautiful setting for the tableaux that took place when the bridal party grouped before the floral pulpit, and while the impressive ceremonial was proceeding with by the pastor, Rev. Dr. H. J. Whalen.

The formation and procession of the bridal party were quite as artistic as the other arrangements. Precisely at noon the bride and groom, escorted by Mr. P. Thomas, ushered the six bridesmaids from the vestry room on the left.

Here, before the bank of green, the bridesmaids and ushers going to either side, while the bride with her father, the groom and the groomsmen, ranged in front of Dr. Whalen. The solemn, impressive ceremonial was commenced, and when the pastor inquired who it was who presented the bride, her father bestowed her on the groom and withdrew.

The blessing having been invoked on the union, the procession re-formed and moved down the right aisle to the North Church street vestibule. The flower girl was first, strewing the aisle with the sweet flowers that filled her basket.

The bride and the maids were all robed in white, which is most associated with a bride. The bride's gown was an exquisite white silk mull, trimmed with real Brussels lace.

Grape-Nuts is a crisp, dainty and delicious food, selected parts of the grain treated by heat, moisture and time to slowly and perfectly develop the diastase from the grain and transform the starch into grape sugar in the most perfect manner.

The bridesmaids presented a strikingly beautiful picture, in their gowns of white French lawn, and black picture hats. The whiteness of their dress was pleasingly broken by the roses of pink satin. They carried pink sashes and each wore a brooch, wreath with soft white tulle.

The maid of honor was gowned in white silk mull, trimmed with lace and a white satin sash. She wore a black picture hat, and a brooch similar to the other maids, and carried white bouquets.

The little flower girl was quite winsome in a costume of white organdie, trimmed with lace and pink ribbons.

After the ceremony, the reception followed at the Patterson home, 67 Lincoln avenue, continuing from 12:30 until 3 o'clock. The following assisted in receiving the guests who were seated at small tables:

Misses Jeannette Schlager, Chrystal Dalrymple, May Morgan, Marjorie Spencer, Mildred Patterson and Helen Hubbard.

The Patterson home was aglow throughout with decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Dalrymple left Carbondale over the Delaware and Hudson at 2:50 and will be absent two weeks, visiting among the cities of the east.

Among the guests from out of town were Misses Grace A. Cory, Eleanor Strongman, Frank Jenkins, Honesdale; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Porter, Miss Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walters, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlager, Miss Jeannette Schlager, Roswell H. Patterson, Scranton; H. W. Dalrymple, Miss Chrystal Dalrymple, Miss Christy E. Close, Miss Ruth Beidoo, the Misses Bone, William Bryden, Miss Lydia Farrar, Edward Farrar, the Misses Taft, Mrs. J. B. Boyle, Dunmore.

OTHER NUPTIALS. Steele-Quick. Rev. Dr. H. J. Whalen officiated at two marriage services yesterday. The second was at the union of Mrs. Leah Steele and Louis Quick, which was solemnized at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Daniel H. Foster, 69 Salem avenue.

A reception and supper followed. The bride and groom will spend a short time on a visit with friends in Honesdale and on returning will reside in Carbondale.

The groom, who has a wide acquaintance in the city, is an employe of the Delaware and Hudson company. Mrs. Quick has a wide circle of admiring friends.

Hovey-Pfoor. Miss Carrie Hovey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hovey, of Belmont street, and Herman Pfoor, of Archbold, were wedded at 9 o'clock in the forenoon yesterday at the Methodist parsonage, by the pastor, Rev. A. F. Chaffee. Little Ethel Wagner and Lena Brandow, dressed in white and acting as flower girls, were the only attendants. The bride wore white organdie, with satin trimmings. There was a reception at the Hovey home, after which the couple left for New York and Brooklyn. They will reside in Dickinson City, where the groom is employed as station agent for the Ontario and Western. The bride has a wide circle of friends in Carbondale.

Miller-Taylor. Miss Anna May Miller and Henry Taylor, both well-known in Carbondale, were wedded on Sunday last at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. A. F. Chaffee.

HURRAH! CRESCENT! Our "Pets" Put the "Insurgents" to Rout in One of the Worst Defeats of the Season—23-0—Supremacy of Crescents Now Firmly Established and the Safety of Base Ball Sport Assured.

The death knell of Carbondale's "Insurgents" has been sounded. It was effectively delivered on Duffy's field yesterday afternoon by the Crescents, our noble "pets." It was a heartless, aye, merciless execution, the death blow that was dealt the "Insurgents," but the safety of the sport of base ball in Carbondale demanded it. It was an execution that was attended with few mourners. There were no banners to be placed about the corpse; there was not even a word of regret. While some thought it a pity that they had to witness such a slaughter, yet there were no pangs of sorrow. Even the most ardent of the supporters of the "Insurgents" took the passing of the "Insurgents" resignedly, yes, hook hands figuratively with the executioner, "Our Pets," our noble "Pets," and murmured, "It's for the better."

The scorer's card showed the Crescents received 23 runs; the "Insurgents" "nae had none." The scorer might have added a foot-note thus: "Our Pets" could have had a few more, but 23 was "quantum sufficit" as the doctor's prescription would say. How did it come to be thus? Well that's too long and too harrowing a tale. 'Twas done and done well. Briefly, the Crescents played the game as they knew how to play. The "Insurgents" well, what's the use of adding to the bitterness of the dose. Suffice to say they didn't do it. From the start they failed to make good. Somebody, yes it was Ferdinando Loftus, said as the crowd filed off the field of slaughter: "Now, what was that game anyhow? Seems to me it was a case of hoss and hoss between lawn tennis and ping pong. The papers oughtn't to make a mistake and announce a ball game, when it was something more like marbles."

That's it! 'Twas hard telling what the "Insurgents" were trying to get at.

Maybe they meant to play base ball, but they forgot and instead it was one of the games of childhood, more like "duck on the rock" than anything else.

The appended score table shows nineteen errors for the "Insurgents." But these were not all. The scorer, the two of them, could not keep up the pace of error marking and it's dollars to a bag of "Peanut" Nick's hickory nuts that they lost a half dozen more or less. Not a man on the "Insurgents" made less than one error, while two made three each and one had four to his discredit.

The Crescents made six errors, but there were not costly, the score shows that. The "Insurgents" got eight hits off McAndrew, but they were of the N. G. variety. Not a Crescent got as far as third base. There were opportunities for advancing that for, but stupid base runners would not take them.

Roster and Fleming of the "Insurgents" and possibly Cox, are alone deserving of any particular mention. Fleming is a ball player, every bit of him, but no man could pitch with the support he received from the team behind him.

Roster is fresh from the Canadian diamond, where he played a great game with the St. Michael's, college team, Toronto. He likewise played a great game yesterday. He has scarcely an equal in Carbondale as an all-round player and manager. Tappan, of the Crescents, would be wise to light on Roster as a member of the Crescents. He would be an invaluable aid to him. His catch of a fly in deep right, after a wild run, was remarkable.

Among the Crescents, Loftus covered himself with glory behind the bat, and acquitted himself in a manner that forced the cranks to exclaim with enthusiasm: "There is a ball player." Emmett did some slugging and good field work; also Cuff and Gallagher. A one-handed catch by McDonough of a high throw ball was a worthy achievement.

Up to the sixth inning the score was 6 to 0 in favor of the Crescents. In the sixth "Our Pets" went on full time, and hammered the ball when and how they pleased, the wild errors and generally poor childish playing of the "Insurgents" piling up the runs in sixes and sevens, stacked.

This game settles effectively the issue over the two teams in Carbondale. It demonstrated beyond a doubt that there is only one team in the town that can represent Carbondale; that team is the Crescents. Whatever doubt there was over this issue was settled beyond all question by yesterday's game. The Crescents came out away ahead, and there is now no question that they are the recognized players.

It will be well now for Manager Tappan to secure enough players of the good ones outside of the Crescents to strengthen the weak among the "Pets." There are some weak spots, but they can readily be removed, and then in "Our Pets" Carbondale will have a team that will be a winner.

FAREWELL TO MR. BLY. Well-Known Local Musician Leaves for Syracuse. Leon J. Bly, who leaves today for a summer resort near Syracuse, N. Y., where he has an engagement in an orchestra for the summer, was tendered a farewell last evening by John B. Evans at the Evans home, on Seventh avenue.

The young men who made up the party are all musicians, orchestra players, and are close associates of Mr. Bly. They delighted in this opportunity to felicitate their companion on his good fortune and to wish him the greatest measure of success while away. The evening was most pleasantly passed, music being a prominent feature of the night's pleasures. Refreshments were served just before the happy gathering dispersed. Mr. Bly's absence from the city will be greatly missed, as he has been of valued service to the Mozart orchestra recently.

Those present at the farewell were: Fred Frank, L. L. Loveland, Arch Brink, Leon Bly, Robert Gardner, Ned Mills, Gordon Dimock, John B. Evans.

THOMPSON GROWING WORSE. Thomas Thompson, the more serious of the smallpox sufferers, is growing worse. His temperature is rising and the pustules in his mouth and throat are increasing. Utahlyphant. The marriage of Miss Anna Probert, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Mary Probert and Dr. David J. Jenkins, of West Scranton, was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother on Delaware street, last evening, and was one of the prettiest affairs that have taken place here for some time. The parlor was artistically decorated with flowers and palms, and at 8:30 o'clock the bridal procession entered the room from the hall, led by Misses Mary Whitty and Mary Edwards, nieces of the bride, wearing white swiss dresses. The groom and his best man, Palmer Williams, of West Scranton, followed and then came the bride and her maid, Miss Jennie Jenkins, a sister of the groom. Anthony Jones, of Kingston, played a selection from Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party proceeded to the parlor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. D. Hopkins, of West Scranton, in the presence of a large company of guests. The bride wore a gown of white mousseline de soie, trimmed with ribbon, and carried white roses. Her maid was attired in white Persian lawn, with lace trimmings, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Immediately after the ceremony had concluded the bride and groom received congratulations, after which a wedding supper was served. They were remembered by many beautiful and costly gifts. Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins left on the midnight train for the Thousand Islands and Albany to spend their honeymoon. On their return they will reside in a newly furnished house in West Scranton. The bride is one of the most estimable and popular young ladies of this place, while the groom is one of West Scranton's leading young physicians.

Mrs. David Williams and daughter, Miss Maggie A. Williams attended the wedding of a relative at South Scranton, yesterday.

The commencement exercises of St. Patrick's academy will be held in the Father Mathew Opera house at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

Fashionable Summer Clothes, Coat and Trousers.

The cloth qualities in such clothes are important, but the construction is without doubt the most difficult problem in the tailoring business. The experts behind the now famous "Atterbury System" have solved this problem, constructing light weight suits so that the perfect shape is retained throughout their entire life. We control this registered system of clothes making. While you may be able to get the cloth pattern that suits you elsewhere, you'll find it impossible to secure the scientific method of construction as shown in our summer clothes for this season.
