OPINION OF JUDGE VOSBURG IN WILLIAMS CASE.

Question as to What Constitutes the Gift of a Bank Account-Widow Wants the Two Sons to Include Her Deceased Husband's Bank Accounts in the Inventory of the Estate-They Refuse, on the Ground That the Accounts Were Given to Them.

the matter of the estate of John T. Williams, deceased, late of Carbondale. The contest is with respect to two deposits in banking institutions of the city of Carbondale, one in First Na-tional bank of $782, and one in the Miners and Mechanics bank of $3,129.64.

The executors did not include these deposits in the inventory filed by them, and the widow has filed exceptions to this inventory, alleging that they formed a part of the decedent's estate, and should therefore be included among the assets. The executors claim that the larger deposit was given by the testator to his son, Thomas, and the smaller one to his son, David; and they therefore contend that they were properly not included in the inventory. Considerable testimony has been taken on each side of this controversy. The case turns upon whether or not the acts of the testator constituted a gift of the bank accounts to his sons.

Judge Vosburg decides that the gifts vere made and completed, as contended by the sons, and that no act of their avalidated them.

The opinion accompanying the decision is an exhaustive one and deals with several questions on which there are o previous decisions.

Yarrington Injunction Case.

Judge A. A. Vosburg yesterday heard estimony in the injunction proceedings prought by the Protestant Episcopal and the First Presbyterian churches of Carbondale against W. L. Yarrington, rustee under the will of Jane Sweet Hunt, deceased. The petition alleges mismanagement of the estate under his care and asks that he be restrained rom making the sale of a certain piece of real estate at a figure for which an option had been given, and that he furilsh security and such other and further relief as is necessary to protect the interests of the petitioners.

Under the will of Mrs. Hunt the real estate was devised to Yarrington as trustee, the rents to be paid to her son, James Blair Hunt, during his lifetime and upon his death the balance to be divided between the churches. It is provided, however, that if necessary trustee has power to sell portions of the real estate to provide for the necessiles of the son.

Evidence was offered to show that he executor had disposed of one piece of real estate, as the petitioners allege, unnecessarily, at an inadequate price, and that he had given an option for the sale of a more valuable property at a figure which the petitioners claim was very inadequate. The respondent claims that his actions were at the solicitation of the son and as he belleved to meet the necessities of the case, and that he has performed his dusideration and Support of the ties as trustee with fidelity according People-Founded in 1872 It Has to his best judgment. Case Against John Nesbitt.

Concerning the case against John Nesbitt, reported in this column on June 23, Mr. Nesbitt makes the following statement:

"I was on my rounds Saturday evening and saw three or four boys stealing wood and carting it in an express wagon. Upon my appearance the boys ran away, leaving the wagon behind. I threw it on a lumber pile and told the foreman to give it to the boys if they returned as I had to make my rounds. The boys did not return but the next morning the father of one of the boys called upon me and with threats and abuse demanded the wagon. Considering the manner in which the demand was made, I told the man he would have to go to the company's office for the wagon. My arrest followed, but the ilderman promptly dismissed the case. Although Colonel L. A. BISHOP'S ADDRESS.

He congratulated the members of the graduating class and gave them some practical advice, which he declared he hoped would be of benefit to them in their course through life. "I proffer my best wishes for your success in life," he said. "You have had opportunities which other young ladies, graduated from some other, institutions, do not possess, for you have had chances to develop your consciences. "There is much talk in only a general way about morality, as though t were something which must be taken for granted. All other, sciences are aught, but study of the science of morality is omitted. I do not wish to say that morality is left out of these schools but the proper teaching of morality undoubtedly is.

"Young ladies, if after the training you have received, you are not better women, you do not deserve suc cess in the world. By your own life, you will be judged, and as will also the system under which you have been trained. Remember in your journey through life, that to love humanity you early in the morning and the other at must first love God, and recollect that p. m. Both trains were crowded. The that kind of humanity which is not based on a love of God, finally degenerates into pure, unadulterated selfishness." He concluded by asking God's blessing upon the graduates. A sacred chorus by the class concluded the exercises.
