Services in Various Churches Yesterday.

Funeral of John Davies—West Side Driving Club Races.

The heavy rains of yesterday made it very disagreeable for churchgoers and in consequence the attendance at the various services in the morning and afternoon was rather light. Larger crowds were out to the evening services, however, and at several churches there were large gatherings.

Among the visiting clergymen was the Rev. W. Morris, D. D., of Treorkey, Wales, who preached both morning and evening at the First Welsh Baptist church. At the morning service he preached a powerful Welsh sermon and in the evening spoke in English to a large congregation.

The Children's day exercises, which were announced for yesterday afternoon at the Sherman avenue mission Sunday school, were postponed on account of the rain, and will be held at a time to be announced later.

No services were held in the Chestnut Street German Presbyterian church yesterday, owing to the absence of the pastor, Rev. Jacob Schoettel, who is in Brooklyn, N. Y., attending a cornerstone laying.

At the Plymouth Congregational church, which is pastorless, the pulpit was supplied morning and evening by Rev. Harry Dougherty, of Shickelshiny. He has been here before, and made a very favorable impression. Both his sermons yesterday were able efforts.

Rev. L. L. Sprague, D. D., of Wyoming seminary, preached the morning sermon at the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church, and in the evening the pastor, Rev. H. C. McDermott, D. D., preached a timely sermon on "The Influence of the Gospel in Our National Life." The service was of a patriotic nature, with special music. Dr. Sprague also participated in the evening service.

Rev. James Benninger, pastor of the Embassy Methodist Episcopal church, preached a sermon yesterday morning on the subject "The Race and How Won," and in the evening pictured how Christ shed His blood on Calvary's mount for the salvation of sinners.

At the Jackson Street Baptist church, Dr. de Gruchy yesterday morning told how "Over Anxiety Is Cured," and after a prayer and song service in the evening, discoursed on the subject of "Contentment."

The usual services were held at the First Baptist, Washburn Street Presbyterian and Summer Avenue Presbyterian churches.

Rev. A. L. Ramer, Ph.D., at St. Mark's Lutheran church, preached in the morning on "Faithful Service Rewarded," and in the evening on "Pre-

To Float on Water.

Jacob Hess and Peter Yoo, two well-known artisans of this side, of an inventive turn of mind, have been at work for some time on a pair of shoes, which are designed not only to float, but to carry the wearer in safety on water. The shoes, much like small coffins in shape, are twenty-eight inches in length and fourteen inches in width, and are made of galvanized tin. They stand ten inches high, and are perfectly air tight and water tight, floating with great buoyancy.

In the center of each shoe is a compartment where the foot is fastened, although the wearer is able to free himself in case of accident. A pair of small paddles complete the outfit.

The inventors proceeded to Mountain Lake a few days ago to try the patent. Mr. Hess was the first to venture on the lake, and it did not take long to discover that the shoes were too short and that the foot-holes were too far forward, causing the wearer to lose his balance. A young son of Mr. Hess, however, had no difficulty in steering across the lake, as his height about corresponded to the length of the shoes.

Messrs. Yoo and Hess gained valuable experience in the trials, and will continue their experiments and hope to turn out a practical pair of water treaders.

John Miller, of the firm of Miller & Doehler, and Miss Sophie Grieser, of Willow street, were quietly married a few days ago. The wedding took place at the bride's house, and was performed by Rev. W. Last Thursday evening, another quiet wedding took place at the parsonage of the Hickory Street Presbyterian church. The principals were William Kroll and Miss Dora Puchs, and the knot was tied by Rev. W. A. Nord in the presence of Miss Wilhelmina Heir and Edwina Kroll, brothers of the groom.
