

TO BRING REAP INTO COURT

FIRE BOSS BEATTY WILL START PROCEEDINGS.

Trespass Suit and Probably an Action in Criminal Libel Will Result from Sunday's Sensational Scene in the Oliphant Catholic Church.

A suit in trespass will result from the sensational scene in the Oliphant Catholic church Sunday, when District Board member Stephen Beatty led a bolt of the mine workers of the congregation because the pastor, Rev. P. J. Murphy, refused to eject from the church a member of the congregation, Charles Beatty, who refuses to quit his position as fire boss at the Vandeyke colliery.

Mr. Beatty came to this city yesterday and after a conference with General Superintendent C. C. Rose, of the Delaware and Hudson company's coal department, waited upon two of the attorneys who are engaged to prosecute cases which are brought against the strikers at the instance of the companies.

The action in trespass will be based on the same principle of law on which the "effray" cases have their foundation. The actionable element of the offense is the holding up of a man to ridicule and robbing him of the respect of his community.

Reap, who led the movement, and as many of the others who joined in connecting the subterfuge that can be identified with the defendants. It is possible also that Reap will be prosecuted for criminal libel on account of his utterances against Beatty in the church.

None of the local mine workers' leaders would discuss the incident when seen yesterday. Their silence was of the kind that eloquently told they would not attempt to excuse or defend the conduct of the men who were responsible for it.

WHAT BISHOP HOBAN SAID. Bishop Hoban said to a Tribune reporter that he considered it the height of absurdity, "The Catholic church," he said, "enjoins on all its members to attend mass on Sunday under pain of sin. If Father Murphy had granted the demand he would have justified himself, and ridiculously, too. I regret the incident exceedingly and view it as a very ungrateful act towards Father Murphy, who, I believe sympathizes deeply with the miners. What could possess any one to do such a thing is difficult to understand."

The story that the operators are preparing to mass their available forces and beat the mining of coal at once, a few of the men who were responsible for it, at the beginning of the strike, they know no such movement. The story that the operators are preparing to get their men back, said that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company was re-shoeing the mules that were turned out shoeless, to pasture, at the beginning of the strike. The superintendents here say the big companies have not interested themselves in the Pardee & Co. movement further than to watch its outcome. As to the shoeing of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company's mules, Assistant Superintendent Tobey says it is done simply to save the hoofs of some mules which were found to be unable to go without shoes and not suffer cracked hoofs.

The engineers and pumpmen of Pittston and vicinity held a meeting Saturday and voted to return to work. Some were reinstated yesterday and others are to be reinstated today.

Following are the nominees for district officers of the United Mine Workers, to be held in Nanticoke, beginning next Monday:

Standing of Contestants.

Table listing names and scores of contestants for the Educational Contest. Top scorers include Oscar H. Kipp (295), Fred K. Gunster (231), Charles Burns (227), and A. J. Kelleman (226).

Oscar H. Kipp, of Elmhurst, won the $10 in gold offered as a special honor reward to the contestant who brought in the largest number of points in The Tribune's Educational Contest during the month of June. He had a total of 295 points during the month.

Fred K. Gunster, of Green Ridge, won the $5 in gold offered as the prize to the contestant who brought in the second largest number of points during the same period. Mr. Gunster's total score for the month was 231 points.

Charles Burns, of Vandling, was third in the list with a total of 155 points for the month. Although Mr. Burns failed to win a special prize he saved his position as leader of all the contestants and this morning is still in first place, although the three leaders who have been closest to him during the past month have dropped down considerably.

This morning Oscar H. Kipp, of Elmhurst, is in second place, with Fred K. Gunster, of Green Ridge, third, A. J. Kelleman dropped from second place to fourth and the other leaders down to ninth place are changed about considerably.

Miss Jane Mathewson, of Factoryville, advanced from thirty-first to twenty-fifth position, while Eddie Morris, of one of the best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and has been used sixty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. During the process of writing the value is incalculable. It relieves the child from pain, cures diarrhoea, grippe, the bowels, and wind-colic. By giving health to the child it roasts the mother. Price, twenty-five cents a bottle.

The prize for the contestant scoring the largest number of points during July will be a handsomely carved bird's-eye maple writing desk, valued at $25.00. The second prize will be a fountain pen. The desk will be on exhibition in The Tribune's window this afternoon. The points for this will be counted from this morning until 5 o'clock on Thursday evening, July 3.

A list of those who have scored the largest number of points will be published daily. It has been done during the last two contests. As has been stated before, this competition is independent of the main contest. The total scores of the July and June contestants will be published in this paper each morning as has been done since the first.

It is better for those who intend to try to win the special prize for July to begin early and secure a substantial lead, thereby having no much less to overcome in the last days of the month when each contestant is working double time to make a good showing. It should be kept constantly in mind that when a contestant reaches the many points in trying to win one of the special prizes that he is so much nearer the top of the list, and that is going to count with emphasis when the contest closes. It is better to win one of the special prizes, even if the contestant is not successful, than to win a greater number of points in the contest to choose from when the Educational Contest is over.

This is the standing of the six contestants who scored the largest number of points during June:
