THEY WERE MISREPRESENTED.

Misses Gruener Say They Did Not Retire to Avoid Creditors.

The Misses Victoria and Henrietta Gruener, who comprised the firm of Gruener & Company, engaged in the glass and crockery business at 205 Wyoming avenue yesterday denied most emphatically that they had gone out of business to escape creditors as set forth in an article in yesterday morning's Republican.

They denied that they were in danger of bankruptcy and moved their stock out during the night to avoid creditors. It was their desire to retire from business they said and having secured a purchaser they sold. The purchaser moved the goods away between 6 and 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Their rent and other bills had been paid and they had no long line of creditors at their store yesterday morning clamoring money.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

George Drop, of Dunmore, Wounded by Unexpected Discharge of a Revolver Yesterday.

George Drop, of East Drinker street, Dunmore, was accidentally shot yesterday afternoon at Birds-eye pond, while he was examining a revolver held by Frank Waring, his companion. The bullet entered his stomach and inflicted injuries of such a serious nature that Drop was later taken to the Lackawanna hospital.

An operation was performed upon him, and late last night he was reported to be resting easily. The accident took place about 2 o'clock and was the result of an effort to force a cartridge into a small calibre revolver.

In spite of his injuries Drop walked to his home, fully two miles distant, and when he reached there said nothing about his wound, which he had bandaged himself. About 5 o'clock a hemorrhage set in and Dr. Winters, of Dunmore, was summoned. The latter recommended his immediate removal to the Lackawanna hospital.

SHOTS WERE EXCHANGED BY THE POLICE AND MOB

Exciting Scenes Near William A. Colliery—Seven Coal and Iron Police Charged with Murder—Admitted to Bail.

Old Forge and Duryea were the scene of great turbulence and disorder yesterday. Early in the afternoon there was a running battle between the coal and iron police and a mob. Since the killing of Luigi Vinazza, close to the stockade surrounding the William A. Colliery late Monday night the Italians of that vicinity have been greatly wrought up. Sheriff Schadt and his deputies were on the scene nearly all Tuesday night and with them was F. Tiscar, the Italian consular agent in this city who lent himself earnestly to the task of inducing his countrymen to keep the peace.

District Attorney W. R. Lewis and County Detective W. W. Phillips were at Old Forge early yesterday morning and found a general clamor for the arrest of the deputies who were on duty when the shot was fired which killed Vinazza. Unless something was done in the way of making arrests it seemed certain that there would be a march of the strikers against the stockade with consequence terrible to contemplate.

County Detective Phillips came to this city on yesterday. C. A. Brown, who he swore to information against H. E. Smith, H. C. Bird, James P. Harke, R. H. Truran, D. J. Davis, William Hancock and W. R. Kline, members of the coal and iron police guarding the William A. Murder was the crime charged.

PLACED IN SHERIFF'S HANDS.

The warrants were placed in the hands of Sheriff Schadt and he was preparing to go to the scene to serve them when a telephone message conveyed the information that a battle was in progress nearby. The deputies gathered several of his deputies together and was rushed to the scene of the disturbance on a special train. The battle was over when he arrived and he quickly dispersed the crowd and prevented a further outbreak.

About 1 p. m. yesterday, C. A. Brown, a civil engineer for the Lehigh Valley coal company, who is now acting as a police officer, left the stockade and started for the end of the Wyoming Valley street car line some distance away. The big crowd that has hung about the vicinity of the colliery for days past gave chase and Brown drew his revolver and fired. The crowd responded with shots and twelve officers left the stockade and rushed to the assistance of Brown, who would undoubtedly have fared badly had he fallen into the hands of the mob whose blood had been stirred by the shooting.

The coal and iron police fired a volley and then most of the mob turned their attention from Brown to those flying to his assistance. A number of shots were exchanged between the police and the mob but the shots went wild and no one was struck.

BROWN ARRESTED.

In the meantime a fraction of the mob had crossed the colliery and the county line into Luzerne county where he was placed under arrest by Chief of Police Cosgrove of Duryea on a charge of discharging a fire arm. He was followed to the lockup by a great crowd and Chief Cosgrove had some difficulty in keeping the crowd away from him. When Brown was searched he had four revolvers on his person and about 200 cartridges.

When the other police officers saw Brown in the hands of the authorities they withdrew to the stockade. After Sheriff Schadt had dispersed the crowd and restored order he went to the stockade and served his warrants on the men against whom they were directed. They constitute the entire force that was on duty at the time of the shooting. As the sheriff marched his men toward the railroad station a sullen-browed crowd lined the road on either side. Suddenly one man cried "kill them." The shout was taken up by others and it looked as if the sheriff would have to fight a battle to protect the prisoners was averted. A consular agent Tiscar, jumped to the porch of Peter Tonnet's saloon and in an impassioned speech in Italian begged his countrymen to be calm and let the law take its course. The crowd quieted down and the danger of an attack on the prisoners was averted. A number of the Italians came to this city with Mr. Tiscar to learn what would be done with the prisoners.

ENTERED BAIL.

The sheriff took his men to Alderman Howe's office where they waived a hearing by advice of their attorneys, Joseph O'Brien and C. P. O'Malley. F. G. Chase, general superintendent of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, accompanied the party to this city and was present at the alderman's office.

After the prisoners had waived a hearing and been formally committed to jail they were taken before Judge J. P. Kelly in chambers. District Attorney Lewis was present and said that it was not a first degree murder and he would therefore consent to have the accused admitted to bail. Judge Kelly asked if $5,000 in each case would be satisfactory to the district attorney and Mr. Lewis said it would be. Bail was accordingly fixed at that amount and the officers entered bail.

After the officers entered bail, they were taken back to the William A. colliery on a special train. It was feared there would be a demonstration if they got off at the station and the train was run down close to the mine and the men got off a short distance from the stockade. They were met by a number of other police officers, when they alighted from the train, and safely escorted within the stockade.

BROWN COMMITTED TO JAIL.

Brown was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Burlington at Duryea last night, and in default of $5,000 bail was committed to jail to answer the charge of inciting riot, firing a revolver and carrying concealed weapons. He was taken to Wilkes-Barre last night, handcuffed to a constable, and lodged in the Luzerne county jail. An effort will be made today to have him released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Sheriff Schadt went down to Old Forge last evening about 6 o'clock and found everything quiet and peaceful there. He left several deputies there for the night and returned to this city. Governor Saltyr, assisted by Dr. S. P. Longstreet and Dr. J. F. McGrath, made another effort yesterday to find the bullet that entered the head of Vinazza and killed him, but met with no success. After spending several hours in thoroughly dissecting the head, they had to acknowledge that they were unable to find the much-desired bullet.

This adds another item of mystery to an extremely puzzling case. Vinazza's skull was one-third thinner than the skull of an ordinary man, and Drs. Saltyr and Longstreet agree that if a bullet had struck Vinazza's skull, it would have come direct from a Winchester rifle, or even a large revolver at short range, the bullet would have gone right through the head. The ball entered below the right ear and took an upward course through the head. It had not force enough to pierce the skull at the forehead, but slightly cracked the bone when it struck it and was stopped. What became of it after that is the mystery.

If Vinazza was killed by a bullet from a Winchester, as his friends believe, the bullet must have struck something and been deflected other than the way it was found. The fact that the bullet took an upward course would seem to indicate that the shot which killed did not come from the stockade, as that is higher ground, and the bullet would have taken a downward, instead of an upward course.

HAD NO REVOLVER.

At the house where Vinazza boarded, it is asserted that he did not own a revolver and did not carry one, and that the weapon with the empty shells found in his body did not belong to him. They also claim that Vinazza was killed more than fifty feet from where the body was found, and point to the crossed legs and general position of the body when found as entirely different from what they would have been had he fallen dead while running away from the mob shooting.

District President Nicholls said yesterday afternoon: "It seems to me that the coal and iron police, who are causing the disturbances hereabouts, are receiving more protection from the local officials than the people who are not officers are trying to incite to trouble. No one has been safe since Old Forge recently from an attack at the hands of these coal and iron police officers. We have retained counsel and will make an effort to see that this state of affairs does not continue. The killing of Vinazza was deliberate murder."

ARRESTS AT HUGHESTOWN.

Chief of Police Schmutz, of Hughestown, Pittston, was informed Tuesday night shortly before 11 o'clock that the deputies at No. 10 colliery of the Pennsylvania company were having a high old time with whiskey and two respectable women. With three assistants the chief made a raid on the place, and found two women in a shanty on the property. They and a deputy were arrested. They were taken before Burgess Hunt for a hearing which was continued until this evening. There is no convincing evidence against the prisoners and they will be discharged.

The Erie company has started up another washery near Pittston, that at No. 8 colliery, making two now in operation. It is reported that the Hillside company has received additional help and will start up a third washery in operations at the Butler washery. Several engineers who have applied for work at some of the collieries here have been denied their old positions, the companies refusing to discharge the men who took the places of the men when they struck.

PROF. KEMP ELECTED.

Elected Principal of Stroudsburg State Normal School.

At the meeting Thursday afternoon of the trustees of the State normal school, in East Stroudsburg, Prof. Ellwood L. Kemp, A. M., was elected principal of the school.

Prof. Ellwood L. Kemp, the newly elected principal of the State normal school, was born at Hamburg, Berks county, Pennsylvania, in 1857. His first attempt at school teaching was in 1878, when he secured a position as teacher in the schools at Orwigsburg, Schuylkill county, not far from his native home. He taught there for two years and privately prepared for college in that time, entered the junior class of Franklin and Marshall college and graduated at the head of his class in 1881.

He was elected professor of Latin and Greek in the Keystone State Normal school at Kutztown, the year of his graduation from college. After holding that position for two years he was elected to teach psychology, pedagogy and literature in the same institution. After serving five years in that professorship he left the Keystone State Normal school to take charge of Wichita university, at Wichita, Kansas.

He was at the head of that university for three years. Then he was elected principal of the Palantian college, at Meyerstown, and after remaining there two years he was elected vice principal of the State normal school at East Stroudsburg when it was opened and has occupied that chair ever since.

In 1886 he was ordained a minister in the Reformed church and served two mission churches in Kansas in connection with the duties in the university of Wichita.

CARNIVAL HAND ARRESTED.

Charles Spence Accused of Fighting and Disorderly Conduct.

Patrolman Flax yesterday arrested a young man named Charles Spence for fighting and acting in a disorderly manner at the Elk carnival grounds. Spence is employed by the Hookstock people, and was attired in a uniform. He acted in a very disagreeable manner throughout the day.

"That fellow I was arrested for hitting," said Spence impressively to Sergeant Ridgeway, "deserved it. He's the bucks that ought to have been pulled. He insulted me, insulted my honor, and I did perfectly right in punishing him proper."

After which exclamation of indignation, he cursed softly and resigned himself patiently to his fate.

TYPHOID FEVER VICTIM.

William Sheffield Died at the Lackawanna Hospital.

William Sheffield, of Pine Brook, died yesterday at the Lackawanna hospital of typhoid fever. He was received into the hospital two days ago. Sheffield was about thirty-five years of age, and was formerly employed in the machine shops of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad company.

He is survived by a wife. There is one other typhoid patient at the hospital. It is very early for typhoid cases to develop and the hospital authorities are at a loss to understand the reason for it.

WEDDED IN LIONS CAGE.

Frederick Leroy and Anna Binkley United in Marriage by Rev. Dr. Spencer at Elk's Carnival.

The much advertised wedding in a lion's den took place at the Elk's carnival yesterday afternoon before a large crowd consisting mainly of women and children. The incident was far more interesting than thrilling, although every promised feature from the lions to the bridal veil were decidedly present.

The contracting couple's names appear on the marriage license as Frederick Leroy, superintendent and Anna Binkley, clerk. The ceremony was performed by Rev. David Spencer of the Blakely Baptist church.

Occupying a coach and preceded by a band the couple and clergyman approached the den which had been wheeled into the center of the midway. The door having been partly opened the trio squeezed in, the masculine portion of the spectators bared their heads and the marriage ceremony was immediately performed. Two animal men with heavy iron rods in hand were present for the purpose of disuading any of the kings of the forest from showing too strong an inclination to dine on "bride."

The animals were decidedly quiet during the ceremony although one of them struck at a trainer who was locking the door after the wedding party left the cage.

Last night was the brilliant session of the carnival, thus far in its career. Crowds are absolutely essential to such a spectacle, being in a measure a large part of the show, and as fully five thousand people were present last evening, the spectacular side of the exposition was much improved.

On Monday evening last a young lady living in Pine Brook lost a gold watch. A small notice of the loss was inserted in each of the daily papers with the result that the watch was returned to its owner last evening by a Miss Johnson, of the same avenue, who found the watch shortly after it was lost.

On July 4 the carnival will be in progress from 8 o'clock in the morning.

CASING A WATCH.

How Ordinary Watch Works May Be Made More Efficient and How Finer Ones May Be Preserved.

Ordinary watch works may generally be made effective timekeepers by careful and strong casing. The finest grades of watch works require very strong casing to protect their delicate mechanism. The best of all cases for either class is the Jas. Boss Stiffened Gold Watch Case.

This is a gold case stiffened in the center with plate of hard metal to prevent it getting thin and weak and bending down on the works, as a gold case does after a few years' wear.

The outside plate of gold is very heavy, much more than is every worn from a solid gold case and much more than can be worn off in a third of a century's hard service. In fact this outside plate of gold is a quarter of an inch thick when the process of rolling down commences. At any rate, the Jas. Boss Case is guaranteed 25 years, and none was ever known to wear out.

The styles of the Jas. Boss case are very elegant—the same as the finest solid gold cases—beautifully hand-crafted, superbly finished—very thin or very massive, as fancy may dictate—and in all sizes, for men and women's wear. The price is much lower than that asked for a solid gold case—the reason is that the Jas. Boss case saves you paying for gold that is never seen and never used.

Jewelers everywhere keep a full stock of these elegant cases—they have sold more than 7,000,000 of them in the last 35 years. Ask your dealer to see them, or for the book showing why a Jas. Boss Stiffened Gold Case is better than a solid gold case, write to the Keystone Watch Case company, Philadelphia.

Poems on Esau.

Florey & Brooks have received hundreds of poems in answer to their request having the subject "Improve on the poem on Esau. One of the clever ones received yesterday follows:

I saw Esau, he saw me,
And all the Elks did Esau see
We saw Esau, 'tis no lie
We saw Esau eat some pie!
What we saw Esau do we saw, sir,
Esau drank tea from a saucer,
We saw Esau had no tail
To see Esau eat that fall,
Darwin saw Esau in his dreams.
He's the missing link, it seems.
Esau does everything but talk
But how since he has learned to walk
To talk may yet be in his span
For Esau is the coming man.

An Anecdote of General Bragg.

General Bragg was an unfortunate commander at best, and perhaps no better idea can be given of why this was so than the following story, which is vouched for by an eminent soldier. When a young man Bragg was commandant and commissary of a certain Western post. As commandant he made requisition upon the commissary for certain supplies. As commissary he refused the requisition, and as commandant he insisted upon having the supplies. All of this, reduced to writing, was finally referred to the commander of the department, who, upon discovering its purport, exclaimed: "My God, Captain Bragg, you have quarreled with every officer in the army, and now you are quarreling with yourself!"—Woman's Home Companion.
