TWO MEN HELD UP IN LONELY HOURS OF NIGHT

Fred Miller the First Victim of Footpads and William Brennan the Second-The Latter Robbed of a Few Dollars-Both Happenings Took Place in Dundaff Section, on the Same Spot and in Approved Highwaymen Style-No Clue as Yet.

That idleness begets vice and crime has been proven in Carbondale since the onset of the coal strike. Three hold-ups, and attempts at criminal assault, all as bold and desperate as any like happening in this city, have followed each other in guick succession within the last week.

The latest of these deplorable happenings were during the lonely hours of Monday and Wednesday night, when a man was held up in approved highwayman style, one of the victims being robbed of a few dollars, all that was netted by the robbers going through the man's pockets. The spot of the guarded, day and night. robberles is identical in each instance in the shaded darkness of Dundaff street, less than a stone's throw above the Delaware & Hudson railroad crossing.

The victim of the first lawlessness is Fred Miller, a brakeman on Conductor Swingle's Delaware & Hudson train. While returning from work about midnight, Monday night, three men stepped from behind a tree in front of the Carden property on Dundaff street, midway between the crossing and Cline's store. One of the trio held a revolver in front of Miller's face, commanded him to be silent and docile and demanded him to "shell out." Miller said he was willing to acquiesce, under the circumstances, but had nothing to "shell out."

"No bluffing." said the man behind the gun, in the same breath directing one of his companions to search Miller. This was not done, however, and when the trio could get no tobacco, they released Miller.

The happening was reported to the police department, through Special Policeman Harry Wills, to whom Miller told the happening. The matter was kept quiet in the hope that the parties might be entrapped.

The second happening, which bore all strations with crackers, as in other the ear marks of the first took place years.

early yesterday morning in exactly the same spot, in the darkness of the shade trees in front of the Carden property William Brennan, a young man about twenty years old, a neighbor of Miller was stopped by two masked men. One grabbed Brennan by the collar, pointed a revolver, and said if his victim said word his head would be shot off. "Jack, go through his pockets," said Deacon Moon, on Church street, will be the foot-pad to his companion. "Jack," in his search got all the money Brennan had, two one dollar bills, a quarter and a dime. He made a thorough search, going through Brennan's pockets, twice and even running his finger under his victims hat band. After satisfying themselves that they had all the money about Brennan, the highwaymen bade him go home and humorously enough, to stay there until today.

Brennan hastened home, apprised his

THE SMALL-POX SITUATION.

Thomas Thompson Now Out of Danger-Others Improving.

There were, no developments other than encouraging in the small-pox situation yesterday.

In the Thompson family all are showng improvement. Thomas, the son who was so bad, was yesterday considered to be out of danger. The second one taken down is almost well. while the last one to be afflicted with the dreaded discase is in a favorable condition. He has only varioloid, the mild form. He was vaccinated some days before the rash broke out and this is given credit for keeping the disease down to the lesser form. Mrs. Joseph Evans, the Fell township patient, is suffering the characteristic symptoms of the early stage of the disease, and is as comfortable as can be expected. The house is closely

There was such a noticeable dimuniion during yesterday of the noisy preiminaries of the Fourth of July that t was matter of comment on all sides. Usually an event like today casts its shadows before, but there was little yesterday, as in former years, to indicate the advent of the Fourth. Mr. Thomas, after a long and severe slege, was able about a week ago to sit up some of each day and it was hopefully predicted that he would be about within a brief period. The relapse, however, came Wednesday, and the hope that sustained his family has given way to apprehension. This will be depressing news to Mr. Thomas' friends, who had joined in the hopes of his family.
