WAS DROWNED WHILE BATHING. Casper Martin Met Death While Swimming in Lackawanna River. Casper Martin, a young man in the employ of Grocer Archibald Turnbull of 823 Capouse avenue, was drowned about 9:30 o'clock last night, while swimming in a pool in the Lackawanna river near the Scranton Nut and Bolt Works. He was suddenly seized with cramps, and sank to the bottom before any of his companions could come to his aid. Martin was 21 years of age and lived with the Turnbells. A mother and several brothers who reside on Stone avenue, survive him. He left the Turnbull residence about 7:30 o'clock last evening with Robert Turnbull, Alex. Hay, and two or three other young men. The party went to the pool, which was formerly a part of the Lackawanna, known as "the eddy," but is now detached from the main stream. They stripped and entered the water, and between 9 and 9:30 o'clock the attention of the others was attracted to Martin, who was making a series of grimaces and gasping for help. There had been a good deal of sky-larking in the water, previous to this, and at first the young men thought their friend was merely joking. They realized shortly, however, that he was really in agony, but before they could reach him he had sunk. For over an hour and a half futile attempts were made to recover the body, by Martin's companions and patrolmen, who were summoned. Shortly before 11 o'clock it was brought to the surface, and removed to the home of Mr. Martin on Stone avenue. Coroner J. F. Saltry was notified and was present when the body was removed from the water. MANY IMPROVEMENTS. They Are Being Made by the D., L. & W. Company or Are in Contemplation. The exclusive announcement in The Tribune, Monday, regarding the proposed new freight station, which the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad company contemplate erecting on Mattes street, caused quite a stir in railroad circles here, though such a change has been in view by the company officials for a long time. Their present building fronting on the alley in the rear of lower Lackawanna avenue is not large enough to accommodate the vast amount of freight which is handled daily. A large volume of this business is now handled in the transfer station near the West Lackawanna avenue crossing. The improvement is only one of the many contemplated by the company for this city, and within a few years a complete change will mark the situation of affairs which exist at the present time. Notable among these will be the viaduct over the West Lackawanna avenue railroad crossing. The plans and specifications for this much needed structure are now being prepared in City Engineer Phillip's department, and details in regard to the preliminary work are also being attended to. Owing to the scarcity of structural iron and steel, it is doubtful if work can be started on the viaduct before another year rolls around. Meantime everything else will be in readiness for the work. No less important, in fact, a change of more importance, as far as the company is concerned, than the construction of a viaduct, will be the erection of new car repairing and building shops, and also new motive power repairing and machine shops, which will mean the complete obliteration of the present shops in this city. From present indications, the car shops will be located on a site adjacent to the Keyser Valley branch railroad, lying between Timmes & Hecht's spike mill and the Capouse colliery of the Ontario & Western Coal company. The advantages of this location are greater than the site originally selected on the Bloomsburg division. The shops will be built on a large scale, and will enable the company to build the new equipment needed. This will give additional employment to a much larger force of men than is now employed, and enable the company to concentrate all of their repairs in this city. The plans and specifications for these shops are now being worked out by the company's architects and engineers and will soon be completed. Chief Engineer McFarlin visited the proposed site for the car shops recently and was much impressed with the location. The new machine shops and motive power department will be located on the site of the old North Side mill, and will include some of the most up-to-date machinery and electrical equipment in the world. This improvement will revolutionize the present motive power repairing plant in this city. The new round house in the Scranton rd is nearly under cover, but work has been temporarily suspended on it, owing to the scarcity of building material. Many minor improvements

APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED. New Jersey Receivers Appointed in Case of Atlantic Match Company. Judge R. W. Archibald of the district federal court yesterday confirmed the appointments of H. L. Holmes of Camden, N. J., and E. J. Patterson, of Plainfield, as receivers in the bankruptcy case of the Atlantic Match company, of Camden. The appointments were made Monday by Judge Andrew Kirkpatrick in the United States district court at Trenton. The company recently came into prominence by its single handed attempt to fight the match trust. The petition filed states that it is now losing money at the rate of $7,000 per month, and has $148,000 of debts either due, or already past due.

DEMOCRATIC POLITICS. Call for a Convention to Nominate a County Ticket Will Be Issued Soon. As yet the Democrats have not proceeded very far in shaping their lines for the fall campaign. As has been their wont they have lain idle until after the Republican nominations are made. The call for the committee to meet and fix the date of the convention can be expected now any day. The convention will likely not take place until August. Only one Democrat has been mentioned for congress. He is P. Mulherin, of Taylor, of the firm of Mulherin & Judge, contractors. Mr. Mulherin has said that he is disposed to seek the nomination and would, in all likelihood, accept it if it came to him. There are three outspoken candidates for orphans' court judge. They are T. R. Hoban, Hon. M. F. Sandu, and Mayor James J. O'Neill, of Carbondale. Mr. Hoban is the most aggressive of the trio. Four names are mentioned in connection with the nomination for county commissioner. It is conceded that County Commissioner John J. Durkin is to be one of the two nominees, and that he shall have some say in the selection of the remaining one. The Democrats are consequently restricted to one candidate. Common Councilman P. F. Calpin has no one openly opposing him, as yet, for the senatorial nomination. Several men of the party are, however, out with lightning rods, and before long Mr. Calpin may have opposition. Timothy D. Hayes, who was defeated by Hon. T. Jefferson Reynolds two years ago, has determined to make a try against Joseph Oliver. The chances are no one will attempt to deny him the opportunity. Joseph J. Brennan, of Carbondale, is talked of for the Democratic nomination for representative in the Fourth district. Hon. P. E. Timlin and Thomas Hendricks, of Jersey, are also candidates. John H. Bonner wants to try again for the legislature in the Third district. He is the only one thus far talked of. In the Second district, Common Councilman Fred Phillips is out for the nomination, and up to date has the field to himself.

KILLED BY D. & H. TRAIN. FOUR-YEAR-OLD MARCUS DILLON VICTIM OF COLLISION. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dover, of Capouse Avenue, Were Out Driving with Dillon Child When Struck by Delaware and Hudson Train at Parker Street Crossing in Green Ridge—Mrs. Dover's Condition Was Reported as Serious Last Night—Dover's Arm Was Broken. A collision between the 8:05 Delaware and Hudson train, running to Carbondale, and the horse and buggy of Henry Dover, of 842 Capouse avenue, at the Parker street crossing last night, resulted in the death of four-year-old Marcus Dillon, and serious injuries to Mr. and Mrs. Dover. The Dillon child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dillon, who live in the same building as the Dovers, and had been taken out for a drive by Mr. and Mrs. Dover. The accident occurred about 8:10 o'clock, and in addition to the injuries already mentioned, Dover's horse was killed and his buggy ruined. Dover and his wife were removed to the Lackawanna hospital, where the former's injuries were stated as consisting of a broken left arm. Mrs. Dover sustained a concussion of the brain, and severe scalp wounds. Mr. and Mrs. Dover have frequently taken the Dillon child out driving, and therefore when the little one requested them to take him along last night, they gladly acquiesced. They drove through Providence, and it was on their return home that the accident took place. As Mr. Dover drew near the crossing, a large building shut off his view of the track and he knew nothing of the approaching train until he suddenly heard its whistle. His horse then gave a wild dash, and Dover was utterly unable to control it. There was an awful crash as the engine struck the buggy, and when Dover regained consciousness he found himself under his dead horse, with his wife lying nearby, stunned and unconscious. The child was groaning feebly, and died soon afterwards. Coroner J. F. Saltry and Dr. Bessey and Dr. Peck were summoned, and the Dovers were then removed to the hospital. Dover left after his arm was set, but Mrs. Dover's condition was reported as very serious at the Lackawanna early this morning.

DREYER SONG RECITAL. He Was Heard Last Night in St. Luke's Parish House. Henry P. Dreyer, now of Boston, assisted by Mr. Doersman, gave a song recital last night at St. Luke's parish hall, which perhaps as an artistic success has not been surpassed in this city. Mr. Dreyer is a young man of distinguished personal appearance and possessing unmistakable temperament. To a certain degree he resembles Ernest Seton-Thompson. His voice is a clear, resonant baritone of full range. There is a marked lyrical quality in his tones which affords delight to the ear. In the aria from "L'Ebreo," his strong dramatic ability was well brought out. He sang a group of Schumann's songs, beginning with the May song and concluding with "Ich Grolle Nacht," which showed rare taste. The little Brahm's song was one of the most poetic in its rendering, while Tschalkowsky's Philgrin's song gave a glimpse of the delicate interpretation of which he is capable. Mr. Doersman played delightfully two great solos, the Greek "Bridal Procession" and the Polonaise in A major by Chopin. He played superbly and his advance in his choice of music must certainly be a great satisfaction to his friends who are so many in Scranton. His rendering of the Chopin number was notably artistic and his brilliant execution was marked. The vocal programme concluded with three English numbers. Mr. Dreyer received many encores and it is hoped he will be heard here again when the weather will permit attendance of all the lovers of really good music.

CORAY SMITH. (Communicated.) There has gone out from this community the spirit of a man—a man who at his best was almost unknown to the world—but one whose acquaintance was a help, inspiring and elevating influence. A bachelor, and of a quiet, studious nature, he had for some years lived almost the life of a hermit, living by himself in a house that he had built on the part of his father's estate which fell to his share, at some distance back from the street and from the village. Here, with his books, his music and his flowers and plants, he lived from all appearances, contented and happy. There has, perhaps, never been in this part of the country a man more conversant with standard literature, better read in the classical and more proficient in higher mathematics than this man, who lived almost unappreciated for the best that was in him. Beside his knowledge of books, he was a musician, although he never owned an instrument upon which to sound the harmony that evolved from his brain—for he was a composer of a high order—music which local musicians confessed their inability to interpret. Lack of funds to secure publication and a diffidence and modesty which belongs to the man whose music is in his soul and demands an outlet through his pen, just for its own sake, prevented the
