

WEST SCRANTON

Property Holders of West Park Have an Open-Air Meeting to Discuss Improvements—Other Matters of Interest.

A hundred or more residents of West Park gathered in an open field on North Main avenue last evening, for the purpose of finding out how the general condition of things could be improved, as that part of the city is rapidly becoming one of its finest residence centers. Those owning properties there want the city to do something towards furnishing electric lights, proper grades, sewers and pavements.

At present cows are allowed to run wild and as a result one man had a fine front lawn ruined. The city has an ordinance forbidding people to allow cattle to run loose, but at the time of its passage West Park was a farming center and in consequence the Twenty-first ward was cut out of the ordinance. The property holders desire the ordinance amended so that the Twenty-first ward will be included.

West Park is situated on a side hill, and on account of the lack of sewers all the water from over fifty acres runs down Ocean boulevard to Main avenue, thus keeping the street almost impassable. The only way to remedy this would be to install a complete system of sewers.

Of course, nothing can be done in the city until the plot is accepted, and the present reason for its non-acceptance lies in the fact that the land company refuses to clear the grade of its street to suit the city engineer, unless the city will agree to become liable for all damages caused by change of grade.

J. J. McAndrew, the select councilman from the Twenty-first ward, was present and addressed the meeting. Mr. McAndrew said that he was doing all in his power to further the interests of West Park, but until the plot was accepted nothing could be done in council for the paving there of fire alarm boxes or electric lights.

The agent of the land company also spoke, and assured the residents that if the city would only become responsible for damages the land company would gladly and at any time change the grade of the streets. The land company has been trying to get the property holders on Pettibone street to sign a release, so that the street could be properly fixed. Thus far the land owners have absolutely refused to sign a release.

Director of Public Works Roche was present, and assured the property holders of his hearty co-operation in their plans for the betterment of the present conditions. After a general discussion as to ways and means, the matter was left in the hands of the following committee with full power to act: Griffith Davis, chairman; Frank Shedd, William Bloom, Emil Knox, William Watkins and Attorney Charles E. Oliver.

Elected Officers.

The following officers have been elected by the Alumni Athletic association: President, Forbes Eaton; vice-president, William Thomas; secretary, William Diehl; treasurer, Ben Eynon; executive committee, William Elias, chairman; Reese Powell, William Jenkins; athletic council, George Harrington, chairman; Samuel Phillips, Bert Baldwin.

The next meeting will be held at the home of William Jenkins, on Price street.

Jumping on Cars.

Yesterday afternoon Special Officer Snyder, of the Scranton Railway company, arrested a small boy for jumping on a moving car on the South Main avenue line. The youngster was taken to the police station, and released after a time.

Porch Party at the Y. W. C. A. in Honor of Miss Louise Russell, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

A large number of young women met at the Young Women's Christian association Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Louise Russell, of Brooklyn, N. Y. For some months past Miss Russell has been the guest of relatives in Green Ridge, and during that time she has been a frequent visitor at "the rooms" and has become a general favorite there. She expects to make the secretaryship of a Young Women's Christian association her life work and leaves Sunday night for Milwaukee, where she will begin a course of training and study.

The porch and stands in the yard were covered with rugs and porch cushions and most of the evening was spent out of doors, where the girls sang a number of college songs with good effect. Miss Amelia Evans was present with her zither and graciously responded whenever there was a request for a solo. Miss Millie Pierce also played and sang a number of selections which were highly appreciated. Aside from the other entertainment of the evening the following programs were rendered:

Piano Solo.....Miss Pierce
Reading.....Miss White
Vocal Solo.....Miss Telford
