

IF YOU ARE SICK

And need medicine for your Kidneys, Liver, Bladder or Blood, get the Best.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

If you are suffering from kidney or bladder disease, the doctor asks: Do you desire to urinate often, and are you compelled to get up frequently during the night? Does your back pain you? Does your urine stain linen? Is there a scalding pain in passing it, and is it difficult to hold the urine back? If so, your kidneys or bladder are diseased.

Walter D. Miller, of Delhi, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for years with kidney trouble and severe pains in my back, at times it was so bad I could hardly walk. My stomach ached, and I frequently had twinges of rheumatism. I suffered a great deal and received no benefit until I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. After taking it a short while it cured me."

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose. Sample bottle—enough for trial, free by mail. Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y.

SECOND IN THE REVIEW

General Corbin, Major General Wood and Paymaster Bates, of the United States army.

Review for Root. They are expected to arrive in Gettysburg at 12.05 o'clock, and will be escorted to division headquarters. Another review of the division will be held in their honor at 2.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A sham battle will take place.

Major C. P. Gearhart, of the Twelfth regiment, was brigade officer of the day today, and Captain E. H. F. Conrad, of Company A, was regimental officer of the day. Lieutenant Smith, of CAPTAIN E. H. F. CONRAD, Of Company A.

Company I, was officer of the guard. It is now about decided that the Thirtieth will break camp Saturday morning and leave here at 7.30 o'clock.

There was little work besides the review for the regiment today. Major Robling, however, conducted a drill of the Second battalion early this morning. General Gobin would have liked to put the Third brigade through a drill today, but was unable to secure the division parade ground, on account of the inspection of the First brigade, which was in progress. As none of the other grounds is large enough for brigade maneuvers, the entire week has passed without a single drill of the brigade, as a brigade, taking place.

Adjutant General Stewart rode a horse for the first time today since the accident to his leg last year. The homeward movement of the troops will begin tomorrow afternoon, and it is expected they will all be gone at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

CAMP NOTES.

Company B's regimental mascot, Billy, is of invaluable service in patrolling the company street. William is a sane, venerable looking goat, and up to date has eaten every scrap of paper and every particle of rubbish which the boys place before him.

Captain Fred Drake, of General J. P. S. Gobin's staff, is earning the general thanks and universal commendations of the visitors to headquarters these days, by his ability as a mixer of cool and refreshing drinks. Captain Drake, who formerly commanded Company I of the Thirtieth, is an adept at mixing that pleasant concoction, known as the "horse-neck." At nearly any hour, during the warm afternoons, a happy little group of officers may be encountered outside the captain's tent and General Gobin always explains their presence, by the laudable comment, "celebrating another officer's birthday, this afternoon, I suppose."

Frank Coffin, Company D's popular corporal, was nearly snatched from his cot Thursday night, by a number of the other boys, and dragged to the street pump, where he was soundly soiled. The episode was the result of some peculiar plots on Coffin's part, which were discovered by the others.

William Johnson, the non-com's clever cook, received a compliment from General Gobin this morning, which caused him to blush a rosy ebony. The general happened to pass the mess tent, and noticing Johnson's kitchen, stepped in and spoke of the bright and cleanly appearance. William was the proudest man in the camp today.

A spirited game of golf occurred in non-com's row last night. Sergeant Major Charles Adams, of the Third battalion, first expounded the principles of the game, and a match then took place, in which a number of the junior officers participated.

"Lieutenant Newberry, of the First battalion, can make a quarter go farther than any man I ever met." Major Robling remarked solemnly last night, and then added: "No reflection is intended on the adjutant's generosity. You know he is the man who sends up those Fourth of July balloons every night." (Much laughter, mingled with groans from the Eastern delegation.)

Lieutenant Ezra H. Rippe, Jr., of Company D, makes a very efficient instructor of the guard.

There are no less than four members of the Murphy family at present quartered with Company C. Ex-Lieutenant Thos. P. Murphy, of the United States army, is its captain, one of the brothers is a corporal, another a private, and still another is his guest.

"The wrath of Kellerman and Mulla," is the theme of a pathetic dirge sung today by Privates Bryden and Thomas, of Company C, who last night braved the wrath of the non-commissioned officers and today grieve over the punishment, swift and sure, which was meted out to them. The tale is long and sad, and to be properly appreciated should be heard from the eloquent lips of the company bard, "Father McCourt, son."

Last night the two privates annoyed and vexed Sergeants Mulla and Kellerman, until the latter two gave chase, pursued them about a mile and brought them back to camp in durango vile. They were then forced to promise never again to give offense, and mild punishment was inflicted. This took the form of haircuts, which removed only the growth on one side of the head. The privates vowed vengeance, and when the non-commissioned officers retired for the night, they found their cot were filled with pepper. Another stern chase ensued, and when the smoke of conflict had cleared away, the privates had been forced to eat a spoonful of pepper each, and in addition had been given a practical illustration of the workings of the water cure.

A boxing match between Private Bryden and Captain Murphy, of Company C, aroused a good deal of interest early Tuesday evening. The match resulted in a draw.

C. H. Derby, a former Scrantonian, is in camp with Company M of the Ninth regiment.

Dr. A. J. Wilson, of the Lackawanna hospital, is attached to the hospital corps of the Twelfth regiment, of Williamsport. Dr. Wilson's home is there.

A number of quiet little games of polo, have been going on in the company streets, and many and wild are the points which are heard, of big bets and strangely grotesque bets. The story is of a game in C street. A prominent Scrantonian guest was one of the party and was the heaviest loser. At one time he thought he was a betting pretty heavily on a full house, which consisted of a quintette of fives and trays. All that was out against him at the time were another full house, with three kings as the stellar components and four little Jacks. Today the victor has a headache.

Mrs. B. Rush Field, of Easton, has been the guest of will, and the commander of the First battalion.

A laughable scene occurred last night at the regimental band concert. Sergeant Bauer and his men were playing in front of headquarters, when Drummer Mike Tighe, just liberated from the guard house, slowly approached to take his place. There was a nod by Sergeant "Bob," and with a crash, the band broke into the strains of "Hail to the Chief," despite the fact that this selection is usually played only for the governor or some dignitary of equal rank. Tighe's face was immediately wreathed in smiles and the crowd laughed and cheered with a vigorous good will, which showed its own feelings in the matter.

NEW STREET SIGNS. It is Expected They Will be in Place Before October 1.

Before October 1, it is confidently expected by Director of Public Works Roche, every street and avenue intersection in the city will be indexed with a substantial and readily legible "sign-board."

The sign adopted is that manufactured by Benham & Brother, of Milford, Mich. It is a patented contrivance comprising both post and sign-boards. The post is of iron pipe, two inches in diameter, with a jacket extending eighteen inches above grade to give it additional support. It extends into the ground two and a half feet and rests on an anchor imbedded in cement. The "sign-boards" are a little over seven feet above the grade. They are of 16 gauge galvanized iron. In two sheets clamped about a rod, extending from the top of the post. Between the upper and lower "boards" is a rather arrangement of the projecting rod, which permits of the signs being placed at any angle at which the streets may intersect.

The names of the streets are painted in black on a white background. These colors are the most legible and the points best withstand the weather. Every street and avenue intersection in the city will have one of these standard plants at one of its corners. This means every street intersection on the map, whether or not it is traveled or has to be located with the aid of surveyors. The map shows 1,059 intersections. The money to be appropriated, $2,000, will buy 1,176 of the signs, the cost being $1.70 apiece, in place. This will leave 128 signs available for marking the courts.

The resolution authorizing the signs has passed select council and the streets and bridges committee of common council. It will likely be made a law in the course of two weeks. Benham & Brother say they can put all the signs in place in forty-five days.

GAS ORDINANCE AGAIN DELAYED

CLERICAL ERROR RESULTED IN ITS GOING OVER.

Three Attempts to Amend Its Provisions Were Defeated by Its "Fourteen Friends"—Messrs. Chittenden and Merriman Make Further Allusions to the Allegation That the Similar Ordinance Passed Last Year, and Voted by the Recorder Was Corruptly Passed.

At last week's special meeting of select council, the Consumers' Gas company franchise ordinance was tabled by the action of its friends in voting to table an amendment to it which its foes had presented, forgetting that if an amendment is tabled the original measure is also tabled.

The ordinance and its amendment was taken from the table at last night's regular meeting and passed on first reading by a vote of 14 to 7, after it had been freed of this amendment and several others which the opposition attempted to attach to it. The vote was divided as follows:

For the ordinance—Messrs. Von Bergen, Costello, Morgan, Evans, Regan, Maloney, Nagell, Schneider, Quinlan, Cosgrove, Coleman, O'Boyle, Coyne, McAndrew—11.

Against the ordinance—Messrs. Ross, Melvin, Chittenden, Merriman, Clemons, Vaughan, Oliver—7.

After the amendment limiting the term of the franchise to forty years had been duly killed, Mr. Merriman, all undaunted, proposed another which would fix the maximum price to be charged for gas at 90 cents and, after the defeat of this, still another which aimed to compel the company to lay pipes to all city buildings in the Eighth, Ninth, Sixteenth and Seventeenth wards, within a specified time, so as to make effective the clause at present in the ordinance, which provides that free gas shall be furnished to all city buildings along the line of the company's mains. The last amendment was killed by a vote of 11 to 10. Messrs. Von Bergen, Schneider and Coyne voted with the minority seven.

A CLERICAL ERROR.

Mr. Clemons called attention to the fact that there was a clerical error in the clause levying a tax on the company's gross receipts. To carry out the evident intention of the ordinance it should be amended by inserting the words "and every year thereafter," following the clause levying a tax for the first year in which it is proposed to tax the company. The friends of the ordinance had quite determined to put the measure through without amendments.
