PECULIAR INDUSTRY CONDUCT-ED BY FARMER BILLINGS.

Feathers from the Young Crows Are Used in Adorning Women's Hats, and There Is Already a Heavy Demand-Belled Heron Seen Near Starrucca-Whitney Contributes a Really Truly Snake Story.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Susquehanna, Aug. 1.-The only crow farm in the United States is operated by a farmer named Billings, at Brookdale, a few miles from this place. The industry is a new one, but it is evidently a paying one.

Crows generally have no place on a farm as they are the bane to the existence of many chickens, and the idea of a farmer starting a farm for their own particular benefit is truly a novelty, but Farmer Billings is a speculator as well as a farmer, and the reason of as well as a farmer, and the reason of his interest in crows is that they are will furnish affidavits, if necessary. a salable commodity.

Within fifteen days after, the young crows are hatched. Two weeks later they are in condition to be beheaded. The head and fonthers of the birds are sold to milliners to be used in the decoration of women's hats.

Already there has been an exceedingly heavy demand for the product of the farm, and Mr. Billings anticipates a generous return on his investment.

THE FAMOUS BELLED HERON. The famous belled heron, which for ten years or more has frequented Itenn-sylvania and New Jersey, was seen near Starrucca on Tuesday. In some manner a bell has become attached to the bird's neck, and as it passes swiftly through the air a weird sound is produced. Superstitious people believe that the coming of the bird is a forerunner of war, pestilence and famine.

BANQUET FOR THE GODS.

C. E. Whitney, a well known newspaper man who is preparing to give a banquet to his friends within the next few weeks at which rattlesnakes on toast will be the principal delicacy, has just succeeded in capturing another monster rattler, and the success of the feast is now assured. "Whit," as he is popularly called, feels confident that he will be able to fatten the latest acquisition, for the reptile is eating voraclously, whereas, the pair of rattlers captured some time ago have refused to eat for more than two months.

"Whit's" new snake is one of the argest ever captured in this locality. t measures nearly eight feet in length. s about twenty inches in circumfernce and carries twenty-seven rattles. The snake made a desperate fight when captured, and on account of his hostile proclivities "Whit" has named him 'Outlaw Tracy." of Relief to Miners.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Pittson, Aug. 3.-Considerable stir vas caused in labor circles here yesterday by the trouble which has arisen in Clear Spring local, of the United Mine Workers of America. The committee which had charge of the distribution of relief, it is alleged, were openly accused of trying to secure a "graft" from grocers for supply orders which were given. According to the story told the Tribune correspondent by M. Felter, a West Pittston merchant, the committee called on him one day last week with the announcement that several orders would be placed with him provided he would give the committee a five per cent. "rake off." The committee exhibited bills and receipts from two other merchants, showing where they had secured the required 'graft," but Mr. Felter positively refused to have anything to do with the committee. A member of the Clear Spring local, who is putting in his spare time working as a painter, was at work in Mr. Felter's store at the time and overheard the conversation. The matter was reported to the local and special meetings were held Friday night and Saturday morning. The session was a lively one and the committee was thoroughly raked over the coals, and were ordered to return the five per cent, secured from the two merchants. It is said several fistic encounters took place during the meeting and a couple of the members were ejected from the hall. Another special will take in the circuitt. Two excellent meeting will be held Monday morning. It is said the Warnke washery will make another attempt tomorrow to resume work at its plant at Duryea, and
