PITTSTON.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Pitston, August 13.-Nanticoke's base ball nine and the Brothers gave an interesting exhibition of ball playing at the Hamtown grounds yesterday afternoon to a crowd of fully three thousand people. The victory was the Brothers' by a score of 7-2. Powell was in the box for Nanticoke and pitched a star game, but was poorly supported. It was victory No. 22 for

The resignation of N. D. Smith, of West Pittston, as superintendent of the Scranton; F. E. Beers, Scranton; Mr local branch of the People's Telephone company, was handed in to the company yesterday and becomes effective August 27. Mr. Smith resigns to accept a much better position with a company whose headquarters are at Jackson, Tenn., and which is constructing an extensive telephone system at that place. The company is composed mostly of Pittston capitalists. Mr. Smith's work in this city and vicinity during the past few years is sufficient proof of his ability as a superintendent of a business of this kind. He is well worthy of the trust imposed in him by the local capitalists who have seen in him one well fitted to look after the establishment of a strictly up-to-date telephone system in Jackson. From a small affair with 81 connections and two exchange operators the business of the People's company here has increased to Mr. L. Army and family, Philadelphia, an exchange with over 600 connections requiring the services of nine operators under a two years' management by Mr. Smith. An energetic hustler bending every effort towards furthering the interest of his employers, Mr. Smitl. is well thought of by the officials People's company as well as by ployes under him. Mr. Smith under the heading of "selfmen, and by his own efforts has risen from a place of obscurity to position of prominence. His host of is in this vicinity wish him every ble success in his new sphere of Aness.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

By All Odds the Cleverest Politician in Europe.

A. Maurice Low in the Forum. The German emperor is undoubtedly the eleverest politician in Europe at the present time. Any one who makes a close study of his character must be impressed by the fact that the man whom not so many years ago it was the fashion to call many years ago it was the fashion to call impetuous, rash and undisciplined is really one of those extraordinarily clever men who do nothing on the spur of the moment, although their methods create the contrary impression, and who, when they altimore contrary impression, and who, when they altimore . do a thing do it because they have a definite object in view. It is frequently supposed by spectators who take a view range of the game, who are unable to follow all the moves or to estimate their correct value, that the German em-peror is a rash and reckless player. Noth-ing could be more false. He plays the game of politics with unusual deliberation, and he makes each stroke tell. Germany, scarcely more than a second-rate power when he came to the throne, is to-day one of the greatest powers in the world. Germany was feared for its army and its military prestige, and the rest of the world dreaded that this young manwho had never submitted himself straint, who had dismissed Bismarck without a mement's hesitation, who had shown his ill-concealed dislike for his mother's relatives and his contempt for the Germany across the seas, the United States-would soon plunge into war merely for the pleasure of putting his huge army motion.

He has done none of the things the world anticipated. He has kept the peace, although there was provocation to break it. He has established a fairly good enente with France; he has won the hearts of the English by the emotion he dis-played at the grave of their queen; he has renewed the triple alliance with Austria and Italy, and, doubtless remembering Bismarck even although he dismissed him, has a secret agreement with Russia; he has won the friendship of the sultan and has been given a free hand in Asia Minor; he forced Lord Salisbury into making a convention as to China which making a convention as to China which gave Germany everything and Great Britain nothing; he ranged himself on the side of France and Russia after the Chinese-Japanese war, and wrested from Japan the spoils of victory; he had Count Waldersee made commander-in-chief of the allied forces in China; and, quite recently, he has discovered the United cently, he has discovered the United States and wiped out the memories of the past by his exuberant expressions of good will. In a word, nothing is done these days without the German emperor first eing consulted. In every quarter of the neing consulted. In every quarter of the globe the hand of Germany is seen and red shop, rod shop, tank shop, turning felt. Germany is not the great shop, rod shop, tank shop, turning litically. And this position has been won
