

VAUDEVILLE HOUSE OPENED

BIG CROWD PRESENT IN DIXIE THEATRE. Public Was Much Pleased with the Appearance of the House and the Character of the Entertainment.

Scranton's new vaudeville house, the Dixie theater, was opened last night, and the opening was auspicious in every respect.

Exclamations of surprise and delight were heard from those who had their first glimpse of the handsome exterior. The transformation that the dingy old armory underwent was unanimously voted to be something marvelous.

One of the most representative audiences that could possibly be assembled at a Scranton theater at this season of the year was in attendance.

The opening night performance, while really excellent, was not the best by any means that the vaudeville world has to offer.

The performers last night were Miss Bertie Fowler, monologist and mimic; Sisson and Wallace, sketch artists; Snyder and Buckley, musicians and comedians; Grant and Grant, colored song and dance artists; McNamee, clay modeler; Fats and Fats, horizontal experts; and Charles Grapewin's trio.

Miss Fowler, who is a prime favorite here, has a number of good new stories and imitations. Sisson and Wallace introduced a novelty that made a big hit.

The popularity of the Academy is demonstrated by the fact that before 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon a dozen or more boys were gathered in front of the Academy, being determined to have the choice seats of the house when the doors opened.

The "King of Detectives" was the play presented last night by the Jacobs Stock company, which will be at the Academy all of this week.

This afternoon the company will repeat last night's play, and tonight "A Romance of Coon Hollow" will be the attraction.

A large audience was present at the Lyceum theatre last night to witness one of the most unique performances ever given at that popular playhouse.

"Alexander, the Crown Prince of Jerusalem," written by Jewish authors, acted by a Jewish company, with a talented Jewish actor as the star, and produced in a tongue unfamiliar to many of the audience, was the attraction.

The music was original and pleasing, and the various roles of the play were in the hands of competent actors.

The Lyceum presented a spick and span appearance, as the result of a thorough overhauling, and the ushers and theatre attendants bustled around in spiffy uniforms, looking as neat and dapper as the theatre appeared fresh and renovated.

Mabel Tallaferris will be in the company of J. E. Dodson and Annie Irish. W. J. Lemoine is to retire permanently from the stage on account of ill health.
