"Devil's Island."

The Mottenthal Brothers have secured the rights to produce throughout the country. De Noie and Hall's scenic melodrama, "Devil's Island." The plot of this piece is derived from the events of the most famous government intrigue of recent years, the Dreyfus case.
It presents, during the course of the

It presents, during the course of the play, the Place de la Concorde, where the unhappy Dreyfus was publicly degraded, the steel cage on "Devil's Island," where he spent three years of his sentence, the great yacht scene at open sea, a tableau which always causes the greatest enthusiasm among the assembled spectators, lasm among the assembled spectators, and the court martial at Rennes, where Dreyfus is set at liberty after enduring the most miserable disgrace ever inflicted upon man. "Devil's Island" is to be presented at the Lyceum this afternoon and evening. Diagram now open. Prices—Matinee. 25c to any part of the house; children, ibc. Night prices, 15c, 25c, 35c and 56c.

"My Antoinette."

The first scene of the second act of Alfred E. Aarons' and George H. Mur-ray's production of "My Antoinette," which comes to the Lyceum Saturday af-ternoon and evening, is laid in a drawing room of an aristocratic house in London, England, where a reception is supposed to be taking place. It can safely be said that the brilliancy of this scene has never been equalled or seen since the elaborate pink ball-room scene in the opera of

The dresses will undoubtedly form a subject of comment and gossip to the ladies in the audience, while the brilliant effect of dazzling light, and enticing music cannot but appeal to the senses of every one who witnesses this vista obeauty. In this, as in every other scen of the musical comedy, the accessories are handled with a care and complete-ness that is very rarely found in such productions. The diagram opens this morning at 9 o'clock.

"The Head Waiters."

Those prime favorites with the laughterloving public, Ward and Vokes, will be seen at the Lyceum next Monday night, when they will bring their new edition of "The Head Waiters." The production will be an entirely new one, and the wardrobe has been thoroughly changed and brought up to date. Of course, the specialty features have been carefully selected, and this is the backbone of the entertainment. The music is all new and specially written for this year's edition. The company surrounding Ward and Vokes is made up of such able exponents of this kind of entertainment as Lucy Daly, Margaret Daly Vokes, Allen Curtis, Joe Kelly, Tony Williams, Smirl and Kessner, Addie Kessner, Johnny Whalen, May Murray, the Tuxedo Ladies' band, and a chorus of forty pretty girls and well-voiced young fellows.

Mr. Dixie's Poetic Friend.
