DONE BY WHITE SLAVES. The work in shop and field was done by white and colored slaves. Many of these were convicts, orphans or kidnapped persons. They served for a term of years. The limit for a single man was seven years; for a married man, five years. Others were sold for debt,

Everybody was let in on the ground floor yesterday morning. In other words, the different sections chased in and out of the cellar at the thunder of a fiendish gong that had some kind of a Mont Pelee fit every few minutes. Rev. Dr. R. F. Y. Pierce offered the ppening prayer yesterday morning. Professor Derman conducted the music that followed it. In the grammar and Intermediate section, Dr. Groff gave a valuable talk on "Our Common Rocks." At the same time Miss Connolly gave excellent advice on "Primary Arithmetic.'

A WONDERFUL ADDRESS. A general session followed, when Pro-lessor Monroe delivered a sequel to his address of the previous day on "Commerce." It was a wonderful address in a way, so full was it of valuable facts United States and Russia produces the world's supply of petroleum, and two companies control the output and fix rates. The United States is first in the production of silver, third in gold, first in copper and lead, third in salt, out among our disadvantages is that ke are in arrears in manufactured arlicles. Why? The skill is lacking. We ran buy better things in Europe. The quality of most of our manufactures is inferior.

Professor Monroe made an impassioned plea for the preservation of the forests. The appalling consumption of pur trees must surely prove disastrous. We need only to look at Spain to see the effects of having little forest land, In the decrease of rainfall and the barren, sterile surface. Denmark and Holland are also sufferers from a lack of The German government controls the forests, and before a woodland is cleared permission must be obtained and new trees must be planted. In Switzerland $ 000,000 trees were planted in one year. He spoke in favor of government ownership of the railways, because it facilitates development and commercial activities. The inefficient consular service of the United States was explained at length. Our consuls are sent abroad look after the commercial relations of the United States. They are poli-licians, who refuse with haughty scorn to learn the language of the country to which they are sent. Their work is done by hired clerks who are natives, and naturally more interested in the Miller, who translated the Declaration of Independence into European tongues; Pastorius, the famous early colonist, who was a linguist and scholar were Redemptioners. The Irish school teachers who came here under these conditions were the best teachers in the world. Much of the prosperity of this country is due to the fact that the best blood of Europe came to this country. Among descendants of Redemptioners who have become eminent in this state were Hoffecker and Rupp, the historians. A niece of Daniel DeFoe was sold as a slave, and her descendants belong to a distinguished Maryland family.

THE PRIMARY TEACHER.

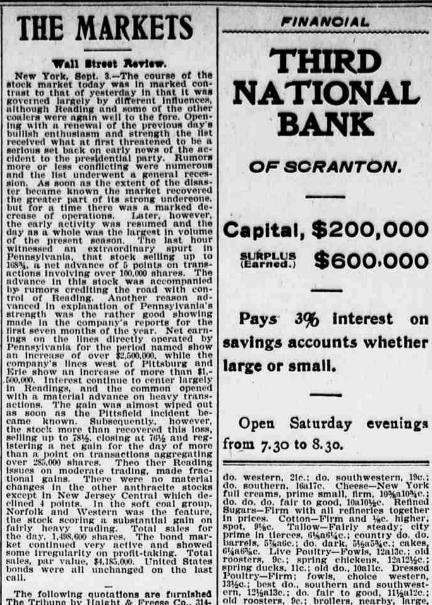

Miss Connolly said that she would change her subject from the "Culture" topic, "Plato's Republic, Moore's Utopia, and Other Ideal Societies," as she believed the assemblage present didn't need the literary talk, but possibly might need advice on teaching. She spoke, therefore, on "The Work of the Primary Teacher." Her talk was, as usual, bright and sparkling, keen with witty references, and noble in its womanliness and ideals. Among her suggestions was the significant one that it is not the business of the teachers in the High school or the other advanced grades to make the pupils love them, but rather to teach the love of God, of right and lofty puroose. She denounced as unwholesome the "sweet relations" that teachers sometimes encourage, and stated there s too much "nice boy," "pretty little dear," "little sweetheart" business from the primary grades up to the senior. anhattan et. TEXTILE TRAINING.

The value of training in textile employments and in commercial pursuits was emphasized, and the disadvantages of the miserable road-making in this country were commented upon briefly. In conclusion, Professor Monroe urged the encouragement of high-grade commercial schools to succeed the high school course. Miss Considine addressed the primary district court of Bisbutz, Austro-Hunteachers on the "Sympathetic Word gary, was yesterday examined before Method," and suggested its adoption.
