

Week's Social News

THE COUNTRY CLUB certainly put on its gala attire yesterday in honor of the tennis tournament and the first glimpse of the improved clubhouse. The day was so cool, so bright, that the mountains seemed but just beyond the touch. The beautiful turf, velvety, sweet, flecked with yellow sunshine, was never so lovely as this season. The breath of the pines was odorous in the air and the rich verdure of the forest for a background intensified the picturesque grouping about the tennis courts and porticoes. There were many brilliant red coats, and the color effect was charming.

The clubhouse itself, extending far out to the left into the pines in classic outlines, seems like an entirely new building, as the bowling alley, squash court and additional rooms produce such changes in the general effect. The work has been under the direction of Secretary A. G. Hunt, who has remained in town all summer to superintend details, and he deserves great credit for the superb success which has attended his efforts.

The interior of the club is radically changed. The large living rooms are hung in yellow burlap contrasting warmly with gobbins blue draperies and upholstery. There are many new pieces of furniture partaking of the oriental type which is also carried out in the rugs. Pleasant silk has been added in a number of places to match those already in use. Yesterday the great fireplace was surrounded by golden rods which adorned the mantel and gave a pleasing repetition of the color note.

The dining room is hung in a rich greenish blue with self-colored hangings. It is a bright, merry, gracious room that makes you glad to greet it again and again. The inner dining room has a forest scene for wall surface. The chairs are late colonial in Flemish oak and hand-woven seats are the whole scheme is splendidly effective. Mrs. W. W. Scranton and Miss Bellin comprised the furnishing committee, and to these ladies is due the credit for the tasteful interior of the beautiful club.

The entertainment committee, of which Miss Alice Matthews is chairman, received the guests yesterday, and gave a charming tea. Miss Matthews and Miss Lella Steell were assisted by Miss Helen Matthews and Miss Galpin. Today those assisting will be Mrs. F. I. Platt, Miss Dorothy Warren, Miss Gladys Watkins, Miss Janet Stokes, Miss Louise Smith, Miss May Clarke.

The country club now numbers about 450 members. The officers are:

President—Mr. T. H. Watkins.
Vice President—Mr. J. Bellin.
Secretary and Treasurer—Mr. Albert G. Hunt.
Directors—Messrs. J. B. Dimmick, E. L. Fullerton, W. W. Scranton, E. B. Sturges, H. Watkins, C. S. Weston, A. G. Hunt, N. G. Robertson, W. W. Scranton.
House Committee—Mr. T. H. Watkins, Mrs. Henry Bellin, Jr., Mrs. J. Bellin, Dimmick, Mrs. E. L. Fuller, Mrs. W. W. Scranton, Mrs. T. H. Watkins, Messrs. J. B. Dimmick, A. G. Hunt, N. G. Robertson, J. H. Torrey.
Greens Committee—Messrs. A. H. Storrs, James Blair, Jr., J. H. Brooks, F. C. Fuller, J. H. Torrey.
Entertainment Committee—Miss Alice Matthews, Mrs. J. G. Sanderson, Miss Augusta Archibald, Miss E. Allis Dale, Miss Jessie M. Peck, Miss Lella V. Steell.

The tennis tournament is attracting many members to the club. The new French chef is also an attraction. Table d'hôte dinner will be served tonight, as every Saturday.

What promises to be an interesting exhibit of paintings is to be held next week at Galt's art shop, the exhibitor being Douglas Arthur Teed, of Birmingham, one of the most successful of our younger American artists. In a recent issue of the Birmingham Republican Leon Mead thus wrote of a canvas by Mr. Teed, "The Cardinal's Palace":

"It was Coleridge who said: 'A picture is an intermediate something between thought and a thing.' The observation seems apposite to Douglas Arthur Teed's latest, and in many respects his best canvas, entitled, 'The Cardinal's Palace.' That there is thought, imagination and moral purpose in it even cavilers could not question; that it is 'the real thing,' as far as color makes anyone who has viewed it heartily admit.

While it is not a reproduction of any actual locality in Venice, no one would mistake it for a glimpse of any other place. The atmosphere, the architecture, the ancient canal, and other things in the painting at once suggest that storied city beloved by Titian. Yet the artist has produced a composite conception that is stronger and more subtle than mere resemblance; for in not mechanically copying a particular neighbor hood, but in introducing suggestions of many neighborhoods, he has revealed a bit of real Venice, which only a great artist may invent.

As to the color scheme in this picture, Mr. Teed has treated the glowing sunshine on the yellow and saffron facade of the old palace with charming; I had almost said astounding, skill. The glooms and shadows of the canal, and especially the reflections in it, are mysteriously conserved and veil. She carried a most beautiful shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

After the ceremony the family drove opposite the palace is seen a typical black gondola, which evidently the cardinal and his canon have just left—to take their way to some grand of merriment, or more accurately, perhaps, to stretch their legs on the quay.

The spectator sees only the backs of the two men, who make the picture of character in the attitude of the thoughtful cardinal as he strides forward! His red robe gives that focal dash of color, which relieves the sombre composition of so many modern pictures; though this one of Mr. Teed's is by no means sombre, but, on the contrary, steeped in golden splendor, and the sky is like 'a mighty hollowed turquoise for blueness.' Up there the air seems 'delicious enough,' quoting from Edgar Fawcett, 'to make one wish one might catch stores of it for future use.' Below, on the pavements, the atmosphere is more saturnine; and perhaps the haze referred to is what the English terms 'smog' or 'fog.' "The Cardinal's Palace" is a pleasure to behold and an inspiration to study. It expresses the brilliant development of an American artist, and is a masterpiece of technique of the atelier of Rome, and with a certain fondness for Italian traditions, it shows the modern painter's method of the brush-what he attempts with the brush-for such training, of course, can furnish no artist with originality. Emerson, the work here briefly noticed "is a fine efflorescence of fine powers."

A large and interested circle of friends gathered at St. Jude's church, Oakville, Canada, on Tuesday, Sept. 2, 1902, at 1:30 p. m., to witness the marriage of Lillian Isabel Heaven, eldest daughter of the late Arthur Geo. and Mrs. Heaven, of Glenora, Oakville, to Dr. Edgar Sturge, of this city. The church was profusely decorated with flowers and greenery. The bride, Lillian, was dressed in cream crepe, elaborately trimmed with lace, over blue silk, the bridesmaids' gowns being similar, two over white, and two over gold-colored silk. Their wide straw hats were trimmed with soft blue ribbons and carried lovely pearl pins, the gift of the bridegroom.

The fair, graceful bride wore a handsome gown of white satin with a berthe of rich lace, pearl ornaments, the gift of the bridegroom, fastened the corsage and veil. She carried a most beautiful shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

After the ceremony the family drove to Glenora, to an informal dejeuner. Later there was a reception, when the bride and groom received the congratulations of their many friends, and a collation was served.

Among those present, besides the many Oakville guests, were several from Toronto, Alfred Lewis, of Buffalo, and J. A. Stephens, of Bridport, England.

Dr. and Mrs. Sturge left Glenora at dusk amid a shower of rice, and the good wishes of their friends, which will follow them to their home here. They were the recipients of a large number of very handsome presents.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Gessler were tendered a surprise on Thursday evening at their home, 1433 Olive street, by a number of friends, in honor of the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding. The congratulations and esteem of their friends were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Gessler in the presentation of a handsome cut-glass service. The present were: Rev. and Mrs. G. Bohlin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hetzel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schank, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kaufhold, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ban, Mr. and Mrs. William Gundlach, Mrs. L. Kaufhold, Miss Mary Slantz, Louise Slantz, Mame Hezel, Hattie Baumann, Anna Berghauer, Helen Schank, Lillian Walter, Percy Hughes, Robert Haag, Edgar Kaufhold, Charles Haendiges.

The marriage of Miss Lydia Luther to Mr. Herbert C. Warner, of Green Ridge, will take place October 8, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Luther, on Irving avenue.

Law Watkins has so far recovered from the effects of his recent alarming illness that he will be able to go to the country today with Mr. and Mrs. Watkins. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Brady, Jr., who have been occupying Mr. Watkins' country place at Glenburn, returned yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Clarke have returned, after a pleasant summer spend at East Hampton, L. I.

Karl H. Beck, of the Dime bank, and Miss Bertha M. Banbrunt, daughter of W. L. Banbrunt, of Moscow, were united in marriage, Wednesday evening, at the bride's home, by Rev. Mr. Birch, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Daleville.

Joseph Haverstick, best man, and Miss Rachel Banbrunt, maid of the bride, were bridesmaids. A reception followed the ceremony, at which there was present a large company of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Beck will reside on Prescott avenue, this city.

The groom is a son of Hon. W. K. Beck and brother of Deputy Prothonotary Thomas A. Beck. The bride is one of Moscow's most charming young women.

Edward Dolan, stepson of Joseph Morgan, of 1815 Jackson street, was united in marriage to Miss Catherine Mannion, of 1617 Hemlock street, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mannion, of Kilkenny, Ireland, at St. Peter's church, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, by Rev. J. A. O'Reilly.

Miss Ellen Gardner was bridesmaid, while John Timlin was best man. The bride was attired in a becoming gown of steel gray, with hat to match, and carried a prayer book. Her maid was similarly attired.

At the conclusion of the service the contracting parties were driven to the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Phelan, of Hemlock street, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Dolan later left for Richmond, Va., where the groom is employed in the Richmond ship yard.

Delos McIlwain returned yesterday afternoon from a four months' experience at Thunder Mountain. The mining season there has been closed by heavy snow fall and little can be done until the weather handicap shall be lifted next spring. Mr. McIlwain was more than ordinarily successful for a "lifterfoot," having, with his partners, secured three claims which are believed to possess considerable value. He is delighted with the experiences of mining life and expresses the conviction that the Thunder Mountain district will be the scene of great developments in the near future.

MUSICAL GOSSIP

MRS. OSCAR SIBSON. wife of Manager Sibson, of the Dixie theater, may now be numbered among the resident vocalists of Scranton. Mr. and Mrs. Sibson first appeared here at an entertainment given by the Electric City Wheelmen, and at once became favorites. They also gave a funny sketch at Dixie's on the opening week. Mrs. Sibson, who is known upon the stage as "Esther Wallace," will go to Elmira next week to fill an engagement as singer of illustrated songs. She has a charming personality and possesses a mezzo-soprano voice of wide range and great power, and the almost perfect enunciation necessary for success in the rendition of descriptive music.

The Conservatory of Music will begin its seventh year on Thursday of next week. The "Conservatory Review" for September announces a specified course of examinations; weekly interpretation lessons; the Parish house by the director, Professor Pennington, for all students; the formation of practice clubs and club recitals; public student recitals in the Parish house, directed by Professor Pennington, other members of the faculty and advanced students. The equipment of the Conservatory is most complete. There are thirty pianos in the various studios for class and private instruction, and four in the Parish house. The office, which has been moved to a larger room, is newly equipped with desks and office fittings. A special feature in the office is a case containing twenty-six large volumes, in which is bound selections of set music made from the classical and best modern composers. These books contain probably more than 2,000 pieces and to these the teachers refer in the selection of music for the students. The number of volumes doubled this summer and will be added to every year.

Mme. Blauvelt, who has been singing at Newport and New Rochelle this summer, will be the soloist at the first concert of the Philharmonic orchestra, to be given at Convention hall, Buffalo, on Sept. 7.

The committee, having in charge the organization of the Scranton United Choral society has about completed all arrangements for the first concert of the choir, which will be held next Wednesday evening at Music hall. The members of the choir have been selected by invitation from among Scranton's best singers, and the choir is to be distinctively a representative one. Its object is to attend the Arion's musical festival in Brooklyn, Nov. 1, and compete for the $1,000 prize and, if possible, bring it to Scranton. The Hon. H. M. Edwards, Messrs. E. E. Robinson, Silas Walters, John M. Edwards, John Reynolds, James E. Watkins and D. E. Johns are the active committee. The names of the executive committee will appear after the next meeting. Mr. J. T. Watkins has been prevailed upon to conduct this fine chorus, and Mrs. D. B. Thomas will direct the Ladies' choir. Scranton will be represented at Brooklyn. Success to the new organization. It is in excellent hands.

Ellison Van Hoeser, whose triumphs last season have placed him in the front rank of our very best tenors, will arrive from Europe on Sept. 19, and immediately leave for Maine, where he will sing at the state festival, which will be given in Portland and Bangor; after this he will be heard at the Vermont and New Hampshire festivals. The other leading artists at these three festivals are Shanna Cummings, soprano; Isabel Bouton, contralto; Gwilym Miles, baritone.

The Lackawanna and Wyoming County Musical Alliance will hold its annual meetings the week of October 13-17. An evening concert will be directed entirely to English songs and ballads, and an entire scene in costume from a light opera. The programme for the final concert will be made up of choruses from the grand opera. The names of the solo performers will be announced later. Miss Florence H. Richmond will be the pianist and Mr. J. T. Watkins will direct the Festival Chorus.

Miss Mabel French, one of the Conservatory's most popular teachers, has returned to Scranton today from her home in Newport, R. I. Miss French has been spending the summer in Europe and landed in New York only a few days ago.

She visited London, Paris, Belgium and Holland, spending considerable time in London and Paris.

Miss Susan A. Crane, of Boston, arrived in Scranton today from a summer sojourn in New Hampshire and Maine. Miss Crane is one of this year's additions to the Conservatory faculty. She is a graduate of the Follen Montessori School, Boston, and has been a member of the faculty of that famous school for the past two years.

Mr. J. T. Watkins, preceptor at the First Presbyterian church, after two months' vacation, will sing tomorrow the baritone solo, "As the Hart," by Frances Alliston, and "Pregiera," by Tosti.

"My Antoinette," which will be seen at the Lyceum this afternoon and evening, is said to be one of the brightest and merriest musical comedies on the road. The musical comedy, "My Antoinette," last season, seems to think that "My Antoinette" is fully up to the standard of the play in which Hart & DeMar have been so successful.

Miss Clara Stephenson, the soloist, whose engagement at the Dixie theater will close this evening, is a member of the well known Stephenson quartette, now located at Philadelphia. She has studied abroad with some of the masters of the instrument. While under management of the Redpath Lyceum bureau, the Stephenson quartette acquired a reputation that extended throughout the land, and Miss Clara is

J. Alfred Pennington begins tomorrow his eighth year of service as organist of Elm Park church. He has made the programme for the organ and choir for the entire year in advance, with the exception of the Christmas and Easter services, and the solo by the members of the quartette. These will be filled in next week. There will not be a single repetition of any of the numbers, a considerable quantity of music used last year has been temporarily laid aside and new music has been put in its place. This is true of the solo numbers as well as the quartettes. The selections include 12 anthems and hymn-anthems; 50 vocal solos, 22 duets and 28 selections consisting of preludes, offertories and postludes for the organ. The programme for the new organization. It is in excellent hands.

Theodore Presser, music publisher of Philadelphia, has just issued two songs composed by Alfred Wooler of this city. One is secular, entitled, "Love's Whispering," and the other sacred, entitled, "Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken." Both compositions possess marked merit both in melody and harmony and are among Mr. Wooler's best songs. They will undoubtedly add to his reputation as a writer of first class songs.
