A Visit to Chickamaugua Park-Review of a Regiment Upon the Spot Where Desperate Fighting Occurred 39 Years Ago-The Band Played "Garry Owen"-Mr. Roosevelt Is Presented with a Cane-His Speech of Thanks.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 7.-Presjdent Roosevelt was the guest to-day of the citizens of Chattanooga and right royally they entertained him. He came to Chattanooga primarily to attend the national convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and to-morrow he will be the guest of the railroad men, but to-day Chattanooga entertained him. From early morning-until late this evening, he was taken from one historic place to another and the details of the battles that have made this city famous were explained to him by men who were participants in the struggle.

The battlefields of Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Orchard Knob and Lookout Mountain were driven over. To-night he attended services at the First Baptist church, of which Rev. J. W. Brougher is the pastor. The presidential train arrived here promptly at 8:30 a. m. A large crowd was at the station and notwithstanding the day was Sunday, the president was accorded a warm welcome.

A committee composed of Governor McMillin, Mayor A. W. Chambliss, Congressman John A. Moon, General H. V. Boynton, General A. P. Stewart and Captain J. P. Smart, members of ary Ride to Orchard Knob. Along the the Chickamauga Park commission route the President frequently was General A. W. Wylie and Captain J. greeted by groups of people, to whom W. Shipp entered the president's car and welcomed him to the city. Trolley one point of the road a number of cars were in waiting and after the children waved small American flags formal greeting, the start for the as the President passed.

Chickamauga battlefield was made. At When Orchard Knob was reached. the Seventh United States cavalry, under command of Colonel Baldwin, which to the foot of Lookout Mountain. At acted as the President's escort through dent, with General Boynton, president horses, and after the other members of the party had entered carriages, the dent proceeded to Point Lookout cavalcade was hardly under way before sharp trot and for a mile and a half, led the regiment a merry chase over the battlefield. The pace was so hot that several of the troopers were unhorsed and it was necessary to call the ambulance corps into service. Historic Localities.

After inspecting a portion of the field, the president stopped at the camping crounds and reviewed the regiment, together with the Third battery of field artillery, under command of Captain Niles. The review took place upon the spot where, thirty-nine years ago, on a Sunday morning, the Confederate brigade of General Manigault, of Hindman's division, was repulsed in a desperate charge by a portion of General Wilder's brigade of cavalry.

At the conclusion of the review, the seventh cavalry went through their new calisthenic drill. The troopers were dismounted and, to the accompaniment of the band, performed their evolutions. The president at first was disinclined to witness a drill on Sunflay, but, upon its being represented to him that the men were particularly auxious that he should see the drift. and as this was the only opportunity he would have to do so, he consented. Luncheon was served soon afterward. and then divine services, which the president attended, were held on the park grounds.

The services were conducted by Evangelist Porter and were of a very impressive nature. At their conclusion, the president made a short address to the soldiers. He complimented them upon their soldierly appearance and also for the splendid drill they had shown. His remarks were frequently interrupted by clapping, and when he concluded, the soldiers, led by Colonel Baldwin, gave him three hearty cheers The president also complimented the members of Troop B, of the State Guard, under command of Captain Fiffe, which formed a guard of honor at the station and which also accompanied him on his visit to Lookout

At the conclusion of the president's remarks, and as he was about to depart from the field, the soldiers called "Garry Owen," the selection to the strains of which the Seventh cavalry went into the battle of the Little Big Horn, where Custer and so many other brave men lost their lives.

The Band Played "Garry Owen." "Yes, give us 'Garry Owen,' " said the president. The band struck up the spirited march and rendered it, amid the cheers of the crowd. A very pleasing incident occurred shortly before the president resumed his inspection of the battle field. A Relegation of citizens of Georg. a. headed by H. R. Harper, of Rome, presented to him a cane cut from the Chickamaugua battlefield. It is of bickory, with a silver head and band, uitably inscribed. On the head is the

The Seventh Georgia disbattle trict was the home of President Roose-velt's mother, and he alluded to this fact in accepting the gift. The presentation speech was made by Hon. Moses Wright, of Rome, to which the presi-dent responded as follows:

My Dear Mr. Wright: I cannot say how touched and pleased I am. I can imagine no gift that would have pleased me more than to have the young men from my mother's state present me this cane with the name of six generals, three of whom wore the blue and three of whom wore the gray, but whose descendants and kinsfolk are equally loy-al to the flag as it now is. I want to mention one curious thing. You have on here General Wheeler's name. I served under him at Santiago. General Hood fought in command of the southern army. One of his sons was in my regiment and fought with great gallantry. I am so much obliged I cannot tell you how I appreciate it. No gift could have been more appropriate and given in pleasanter spirits exactly at the right time. I thank you most warmly.

When he resumed his inspection of with the cavalry escort and entered a carriage with General Boynton, Secretary Cortelyou and acting Grand Master Hannahan, of the Brotherhood of will begin here to-morrow. Spodgrass tower, which is seventy feet high, was soon reached and notwithstanding the warm weather, the President walked to the top, where a splendid view of the battlefield was obtained, General Boynton and Captain Smart pointed out the many points of interest and explained the positions occupied by the different commmands. The president was greatly interested in many of the monuments which mark the battlefield, and after reading the inscription on that erected by the State of Kentucky, had Assistant Secretary Barnes make a copy of it.

Greeted by the Children. The drive extended through Missionhe responded by raising his hat. At the entrance to Chickamauga Park, the President walked through it to the trolley cars which conveyed the party the top of the mountain a large crowd the park, was drawn up. The Presi- had assembled, which cheered the President as he left the car. Accomof the park commission, mounted panied by General Boynton and the other members of his party, the Presidrive through the park began. The where a magnificent view of the valley of the Tennessee and surrounding counthe President started his horse at a try was had. Here General Boynton welcomed him in the following words: "I am glad to welcome an American prince this time, and doubly glad to see you and your secretary here after the accident of last week."

The president responded with a smile and a bow.

General Boynton then described to the president briefly, but graphically, the different operations connected with the battles about Chattanooga, He found the president an attentive listener, who frequently interrupted the story to ask questions. When General Boynton had concluded, the president remarked:

"It is a wonderful battlefield." Dinner on the Mountain.

Dinner was served on the mountain and then the party returned to the city During the progress of the tri down the mountain side, a number of children threw two large bunches of golder rod to the president, who stood on the front platform of the car. He caught one of them and waved his thanks to the little people. An immense crowd was assembled about the station and they cheered the president as he alighted from his carriage.

One of the incidents of the day which pleased the president very much was the meeting of three members of his old command, who served with him in Cuba. They were Lieutenants Cartwell and Palmer, of the Seventh cavalry, both serving with him as privates, and Mr. Crocker, of Georgia, who was with the president at San Juan.

The president tomorrow will address the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and also the citizens of Chattanooga, from a stand erected near the court house. He will eave for Knoxville tomorrow after-

Lines Between Operator and Miner Still Tightly Drawn—Rumors That Men Will Resume Work.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Sept. 7.-The anthracite mine workers' strike enters upon its drawn almost as tightly as when the Rumors are current and, in fact, statements have been made by prominent men both in and out of the coal trade. month. President Mitchell, of the union, maintains he knows nothing of a possible early ending of the trouble, and organizations. says he knows nothing of any negotiations on foot looking to that end.

Last week more coal left the mining region than in any previous week since the strike began. Statements have been made by the mining officials that the shipments for the last six working days aggregated 100,000 tons. The normal weekly output is a little more than 1,000,000 tons. The strikers and their officials dispute the claim of the mining superintendents and maintain that most of the coal now going to market is "washed" from the great culm piles. and the remainder is the coal that had been blasted before the strike began, or which fell through the breaking of otten timbering during the idleness. All the fuel that is leaving the coal fields is not reaching the markets. A considerable quantity is being taken by the railroads for their own uses.

Coal is being cut in some of the mines, but as far as can be learned much of it is being done by "bosses," who are experienced miners. The coal ompanies say they have long lists of names of men who are ready to return to work, but are unwilling to take the because they fear violence, With the coming of cooler weather, the companies look for a break, believing that the relief now coming to the mine workers will not hold out long and that they will be compelled to return to prepare for the winter, which is usually a rigorous one in the mountain regions. Company officials do not look for a apid decline in the price of coal after the strike is over, because the demand will be greater than the supply. It is

BARTHOLIN'S BODY FOUND

The Murderer of Minnie Mitchell Committed Suicide in a Flax Field.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Riceville, Iowa, Sept. 7 .- The body which was buried here yesterday morning and which was believed to be that of William Bartholin, was exhumed this afternoon and positively identified as that of the Chicago double murderer.

The indentification was made by William Mitchell, a brother of one of Bartholin's victims, and Detective Andrew Rohan, of Chicago, who arrived here this morning from Chicago. Dr. A. J. Coey, of Chicago, who came here with Detective Rohan, cut out the lower jaw of the dead murderer, which contained the two gold crowned teeth, which have figured so largely in the description sent broadcast throughout the country for purposes of identification. The jaw will be taken to Chicago by the detective.

Bartholin's body was found last Friday afternoon about six miles from Riceville by J. G. Gratt, a resident of Riceville. Mr. Gratt was driving to Elma and when passing a flax field, saw the body lying against a stack of saw the man still there and upon investigation discovered he was with a revolver lying by his left hand. Coroner T. S. Carpenter was notified and the body was removed to an undertaking establishment at Riceville. There it was discovered that the dead man bore a striking resemblance to the published pictures of the Chicago mur-

The text of the confession left by the suicide as made public by Dr. T. S. Carpenter, coroner of Howard county, follows:

To whom it may concern: I want to state I am the Bartholin the police are looking for. Also wish to cer-tify I had no assistance of any kind from any one. Thompson, Claffy and Counsel-man are all as innocent as an unborn child and should be freed at once.

all, but I can't get my mind centered, Even my handwriting is disgraceful. But above all things, I ask to clear everybody from under suspicion. is no second party, I am the last, W. J. Bartholin.

Inquiry here developed the fact that Bartholin came to Riceville August 6, before the bodies of Mrs. Bartholin and Miss Mitchell were discovered. Thomas Fee, a contractor, doing some work here for the Great Western road, advertised for laborers in Chicago on August 5, offering free transportation to the place of work. Among those who responded was Bartholin, who hired under the name of George Edwards. He worked at the construction out half a day, and afterward was working on a threshing machine and in the harvest fields, until last Sunday norning, when he was last seen leaving Riceville in the direction of the place where his body was found. Chicago, Sept. 7 .- "The charges preferred by the police against Claffy, Thompson and Counseman will be heard by the next grand jury, which convenes a week from Tuesday," said an attache of the state attorney's office today. "The confession of Barthoin does not affect them. The fact that Bartholin killed three people, including himself, will add no great weight to this piece of written testimony he left behind. There may be other strong evidence involving these three men. This evidence must be heard, therefore the accused must remain in jail, in default of bail, unless released on habeas corpus, and I hardly believe that is possible."

The United States naval officer was especially instructed to prevent interference with commerce, and in the execution of those orders he was obliged to warn the rebel admiral that he must not search foreign shipping or else the Machais would use her force against him. The threat was effectual only so long as the Machais remained in Haytien waters, and as soon as she headed northward, Killick held up the German steamer, Markomannia and seized her cargo of arms. While the state department has not adopted the German view that Killick was a pirate, it has, on the basis of its own instructions to Commander Mc-
