NEW SEMINARY OPENS TODAY

BISHOP HOBAN WILL CELEBRATE A HIGH MASS.

It Will Be Known as Mt. St. Mary's Seminary of Scranton and Will Also Be the Mother House or Home of the Community of the Immaculate Heart of the Scranton Diocese. Description of the Building—Its Location Most Slightly—History of the Order.

Years of patient work and planning will culminate this morning when the Mount St. Mary's Seminary of Scranton will be formally opened with a solemn high mass, which will be celebrated at 8 o'clock by Rt. Rev. Bishop Hoban in the presence of a large number of the priests of the diocese as well as representatives from each convent of the order in the diocese.

Sept. 8 is the feast of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the patron of the seminary, and was selected as an appropriate date for the opening. Each year the seminary will begin its school year on that date.

In addition to being a seminary for the education of the young the building will be the head of the community of the Order of the Immaculate Heart of the Scranton diocese and the home of other at convenient intervals. The furnishings throughout the building are all new and of a character in keeping with the building.

the mother-superior, an office now filled with singular ability by Mother Cyril. Here, also, will be the home of the postulants and novices during the period of probation and study which precedes their admission to the sisterhood.

To meet the needs of the institution there are two wings each 175x40 feet, joined by a central building 200 feet long and 50 feet deep. The building is of stone and brick, four stories high and fronts Adams avenue in the northern part of the city, being situated on a tract of thirty acres of land. The building has a most slightly location on the brow of a hill overlooking the valley and from the tower which surmounts the structure a panorama of wonderful impressiveness and beauty spreads itself before the eye. A handsome garden is being laid out on the grounds about the building in a way that suggests great future attractiveness.

DESCRIPTION OF BUILDING.

The building is of the modern Renaissance style of architecture, solid and impressive in appearance. It was erected by Conrad Schroeder from the plans of John A. Duckworth. Within the building everything has been planned to make the place roomy, home-like and thoroughly safe.

The main entrance has a dignity in keeping with the building, being approached by stone steps and a portico which consists of four graceful Roman arches. From the tiled vestibule, reception rooms open on either side, and passing through the vestibule the visitor is in a great-reception hall done in the style of the building. From this hall rise two graceful staircases leading to the upper floors, and the doors leading to the chapel also open from this apartment. The chapel is a separate brick building erected between the two wings and will seat four hundred persons. The altar is of the most noble type, made of marble and all of the stained glass windows will be in position. It is above the altar and under the gift of Martin Maloney, of Philadelphia. The window is one of the best efforts of the Munich artists and represents Christ appearing to Blessed Margaret Mary. The face of Blessed Margaret Mary is a representation of that of Mother Mary, mother superior of the order, who died some time ago.

The other stained glass windows near the chapel, eight in number, have also been donated.

COMMUNITY WING.

The right wing of the building is for the community, and on the first floor are the reception rooms, suite of apartments for the bishop when he visits there on the occasion of receptions, professions and commencements; the refectory, parlors and kitchen. The second floor has the mother superior's office, library for the professed Sisters, their living rooms and their sleeping apartments, each Sister having a small room furnished with great simplicity. There is also an infirmary for the Sisters, novices and postulants on this floor, quarters for nurse, lavatories, etc.

The third floor of this wing has the library, study rooms, living room and sleeping apartments for the novices and postulants. The fourth floor will be used for the accommodation of Sisters during the retreats held each summer, when all of the Sisters of the community, numbering about 250, will be at Mt. St. Mary.

The first floor of the seminary side of the building contains the reception room, library, recreation hall, refectory, parlors and kitchen. On the second floor are the class and study rooms, laboratories and fourteen music rooms each supplied with a new piano. On the third floor front are the commercial and art departments and in the wing are the sleeping apartments, the pupils having the choice of the dormitory or individual rooms. This floor also has an oratorio and infirmary and is well supplied with lockers, lavatories, etc. The fourth floor has additional sleeping accommodations, a big clothes room and the seminary museum. Seven staircases run from the bottom to the top of the building, furnishing access from one floor to the

CHARTERED IN 1883.

In 1883 it was chartered by an act of the legislature of the state of Pennsylvania, and empowered to confer upon its graduates the usual academic honors.

With its many changes of site, the building, still labored under one great disadvantage—the grounds were insufficient. This was so well recognized by those in charge that they were desirous of changing the site to some locality more suitable than the central city.

In 1889 a thirty-acre tract of open and wooded ground was offered for sale on Seminary Heights, two miles from the central city. This being an ideal location for the seminary, it was at once secured. Near enough to the busy city of Scranton to catch the inspiration of its energy and enterprise, yet sufficiently remote to be free from all disturbing influences.

For many years after the purchase of the site financial reasons delayed the construction of the building.

Grown old in the service of God, the kind friend and father of the Sisters and founder of Saint Cecilia's academy, had been called to his reward, and was succeeded in the bishopric of his coadjutor, our present honored bishop, Right Reverend M. J. Hoban, D. D., who at once took a lively interest in the accomplishment of the long-desired end. In July, 1900, with his assistance and encouragement, ground was broken for the erection of the building, and the corner stone was blessed and laid by him in November of the same year; although it was not until May, 1902, that the building was completed.

At last, forty-four years after the opening of their first academy in Pennsylvania, have the sisters secured what, through all these years, they have longed for—their own building, with its unflagging energy. From Saint Joseph's to Saint Alphonsus', to Saint John's, to Saint Cecilia's with its final culmination at Mount Saint Mary's the retrospective view is soles and toward for the many fatigues and trials and disappointments of the long journey.

GARDNER STABBED.

He Alleges That John Troy Is the Man Who Injured Him—Troy Says He Is Innocent.

Frank Gardner was stabbed and seriously injured Saturday night by John Troy, who was yesterday committed to jail by Magistrate Storr to await the result of Gardner's injury. The latter is at the home of his father, Joseph Gardner, in South Scranton. Troy is also a resident of that part of the city and a foreman in the employ of the Westinghouse people in the improvement of the long-desired end. In July, 1900, with his assistance and encouragement, ground was broken for the erection of the building, and the corner stone was blessed and laid by him in November of the same year; although it was not until May, 1902, that the building was completed.

Seven leaders scored points on Saturday in The Tribune's Educational Contest, as follows:

Charles Burns, Vandling, 7; William T. S. Rodriguez, Scranton, 2; Oscar H. Kipp, Elmhurst, 2; Herbert Thompson, Carbondale, 12; Charles W. Dorsey, Scranton, 1; Miss Edna Coleman, Scranton, 1.

The only change in position was achieved by Miss Coleman, who passed Walter Halstead and took twenty-fourth place from him. Miss Coleman is the only young lady who has scored points so far this month.

Through a mistake in Saturday morning's paper, A. J. Kellerman was credited with three points which should have been added to Don Capwell's score. The error is rectified this morning.

Oscar Kipp is now in front of the September leaders, Capwell dropping to second place. Thompson comes up to third, changing with Rodriguez, who is fourth this morning.

The contestants who have scored points, but are below thirty-third place, are:

34. John Mackie, Providence, 16
35. Thomas Dempsey, Oliphant, 13

BURGLARS AT FACTORYVILLE.

Postoffice and Two Stores Entered Friday Night.

When the village of Factoryville awoke from its slumbers Saturday morning, it discovered that some time during the night a gang of burglars had made the rounds of the business portion of the town, entering the postoffice and two stores and attempting entrance to several other places.

Nothing of value was taken from the postoffice or the first of the two stores, Gardner & Goodwin's butcher shop, but at the store of Bliss & Hunt, $3 in money, a few watches and some inexpensive jewelry were secured. No clue to the thieves was left behind.
