The members of Providence Presby-erian church and their pastor con-legisted and their pastor conterian church and their pastor conducted a Wesley service last night in onor of Charles Wesley, the great hymnologist. Five of his hymns were rendered by the choir under the direction of Prof. Whittemore. The latter The pastor, also sang a Wesley solo. Rev. Dr. Guild, paid a high tribute to Wesley and the effect of his hymns and his labors on religious thoughts.

In the morning Dr. Guild spoke on the topic "Temple Worship," a theme suggested by the resuming of worship in a room that had been redecorated and in part refurnished during the past month. Dr. Guild dwelt on the fact that at the time of the text the appearance of the Messiah was eagerly looked for by the Jews. They had the written statement: "The God, whom you seek shall suddenly come to this temple. They said to one another what a great feast it would be when he should present himself within the holy enclosure of the temple.

The church building is a holy structure and yet it is to be in daily use It is not so holy that it must be closed at the conclusion of the Sabbath day ing of the Loyal Crusaders held in and not used until the next Sabbath The front door of the church ought to always be unlocked so that the building within can be used at any time The defilement of a church is not in the defilement of the building.
