Man with a Gun Kept the Residents of Swetland Street and Filmore Avenue in a State of Terror.

an hour, late yesterday afternoon, by a man with a, supposedly, drink-de-street corner, began flourishing his revolver and yelling like a wild Commanche. When the people of the neigh- dition of the latter school. borhood rushed forth to ascertain the cause of the commotion, he began to fire at them. They rushed back again to cover, leaving the terror the monarch of all he surveyed.

Word was sent to the West Scranton police station, and Patrolman Klah Peters hurried to the scene. At his approach the man with the gun dodged behind the land company's office and waited. When the patrolman turned the corner of the building he found himself confronted with a revolver leveled at his breast.

With a quick and well-directed blow of his club, Peters laid the fellow low, and pouncing upon him took away the revolver. The neighbors came up at this juncture, and, in their uncontrollable indignation, kicked and cuffed the prisoner and wanted to take him from the patrolman to visit summary punishment, but the patrolman kept them away until their tempers cooled, and then took his man to the station house. It was claimed that he fired as many as fifteen shots, most of them at range of his vision. Fortunately, no furnished by his mother, one was bit.

Concerning Your Clothes

It may be a little early in the season to talk "Fall Suit" to some men; but the constant inquiries we have received concerning the Fall styles produced by the "Atterbury System" proves conclusively that the well-dressed men of this city appreciate our introduction of this new system of clothes making. There's some new features introduced into the Atterbury Suit for this Fall season—and it's these new features that will attract your attention. They are purely original, and belong to the "Atterbury System," having been conceived by the head designer and executed by the organized Atterbury tailors. Some suits have arrived, and are displayed in our show room for your immediate inspection. Will you favor us with a call? It's a source of pride for us to show and explain this "Atterbury System" of clothes making.
