The auditorium was crowded and hundreds were turned away. Despite the presence of the immense throng a reverential quiet prevailed throughout the services. The interior of the hall was decorated with the national colors. A large oil painting of the dead president, festooned in flags, faced the audience. Over the portrait was a banner inscribed with the words uttered by the president on his deathbed, "It God's Way." Mayor Erastus C.

Knight presided. "Today in all parts of this broad land," said the mayor, "the American people are mourning, as we are, the part of the sermon, Mr. Washburn took untimely death of President McKinley. Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 14.-McKinley Memorial services were held today in all the churches of Pittsburg and Allegheny, irrespective of denominational lines. Sermons appropriate to the occasion were delivered in which the preachers eulogized the dead president and drew lessons from his life and deeds. In some of the city churches the features of the music were the favorite hymns of the dead president "Lead Kindly Light," and "Nearer My God to Thee." A proclamation by City Recorder J. O. Brown, calling upon the A proclamation by City people of Pittsburg to observe the day caused a noticeable increase in the attendance at the churches.

New York, Sept. 14 .- The first anniversary of the death of President Mc-Kinley was specially observed today in a large number of the churches of this city, while it was referred to by the pastors of almost all the others.

The Rev. Charles L. Thompson preached at the Fifth avenue Presbyterian church, on "Religious Element of National Strength." This is the church President McKinley attended when his visits to this city included

SERMON AT OYSTER BAY.

Mr. Roosevelt Not Pleased with Rev. Mr. Washburn's Remarks.

cclusive Wire from The Associated Press, Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 14.-Rev. Dr. Christ Episcopal church, in the prestice of President Roosevelt and his family and a congregation that filled the church to overflowing, today preached a sermon in which he devoted considerable attention to "Possibility in the larger churches, seemingly with of danger coming by and through the unguarded use of great wealth, concentrated in the hands of a few," and in which he also stated that "if ever circumstances indicated that one was placed providentially in the executive from Brooklyn, Captain E. S. Williams; chair of the nation, then the circumstances that attended the promotion of Mr. Roosevelt so indicated."

The president had requested Mr. Washburn to hold McKinley memorial Marix. services. The announcement that this would be done and that President Roosevelt would be present, served to draw a large crowd to Christ church. which the president attends while here. The first part of the rector's sermon was devoted to an eulogy upon the life and character of the martyred McKinley and to this the precident listened attentively. But when, in the second danger coming through certain trusts and also to laud the president, Mr. Roosevelt became restive. His face colored, and he plainly showed signs of disapproval of the rector's utterances. At the conclusion of the sermon, he turned to Mrs. Roosevelt, who sat beside him and whispered, "He should not have done that."

After the services, the president stated that he had requested Mr. Washburn to hold memorial services, but that he had no knowledge of what the sermon contained, nor had he any intimation that the rector would refer to the trusts or himself. Mr. Washburn also stated that he had prepared the sermon without consulting any member of the president's family.

Mr. Washburn took for his text the fourth chapter of Galatians, fourth verse which reads:

"But when the fullness of time was come. God sent forth His son, made of woman, made under the law to redeem them that were under the law. that we might receive the adoption of sons.

Mr. Washburn's Remarks.

Mr. Washburn spoke of the early history of this country and of its development from the signing of the Declaration of Independence to the present time. He told of the different epochs in the life of the nation and of the men who had risen to meet the difficulties as they presented themselves. Continuing, he said in part:

Among all the leaders of the last thirty years none increased in the stature of thorough manhood more noticeably than did Mr. McKinley. He came to the presidency after several years of business de-pression, the time required for the exalted position of a man of great experi ence and ability, and in him was found the need of the hour. How time proved the wisdom of his measures. How skill fully he steered the ship of state.

The country had never been so pros perous as on that day when the report of a pistol startled the nation and numbered Mr. McKinley with our martyred presidents. Who can read history believe that the course of events pens by chance? It was by no accident that Judas betrayed the great Nazerene to be crucified. But who can tell why Mr. McKinley was so suddenly taken from the earth in the hour apparently of his greatest usefulness? Fortunately,

David was vice-president.
Only in one thing do some of his friends fear he is making a mistake, that is re-garding the trusts. He had better let garding the trusts. He had better let them have a free hand, they say, and work out their eads. But he has studied trust methods and s convinced that the good of all demands that the trusts be brought under control of the national government. Is not this sound judgment? Is not this a conservative proposition? How can one have any knowledge of human nature and not see the possibility of danger coming by and through the unguarded use of great wealth concentrated in the hands of a few? You hear of "good trusts" and few? You hear of "good trusts" and "bad trusts." What does this mean, if not that unscrupulous men already at the head of certain trusts are planning methods to cheat, rob and oppress?

Ignoring the Scriptures.

What course will the generality of business pursue when they see wealth within the reach of their grasp? To hold that no danger may come through great ac-cumulations of wealth is to ignore the Genesis to Revelation the Bible is filled with precepts and warnings regarding the power and use of wealth. It declares that the love of money is the root of all the love of money is ... a prophecy of evil, and it utters a prophecy of evil, "Howi, ye that all may read who will:

under control of the national government? Shall trust methods be in the hands of the few or the many? There is certainly danger ahead. The first utterances of the president favoring governmental control have brought upon him caustic criticism. This shows the animus of the power he is seeking to control. AMERICAN FIRMS AHEAD.

They Are Supplanting the English in South Africa-High Cost of Living in Johannesburg.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. London, Sept. 14.-The British trade iournals continue to comment on American enterprise in South Africa and the extent which American machinery dominates the market. The Engineer says American firms at Johannesburg are completely supplanting the English firms at Cape Town. chiefly by carrying a large stock and making quick delivery.

Recent advices from Johannesburg show that South Africa at present is the dearest place in the world to live in. A correspondent writes that it is high time to sound a note of warning and check the premature influx of people, which promises to lead to great difficulties and serious distress. The worst sufferers, it is added, are women workers - teachers, typewriters, and shopgirls—who are met with the almost invariable reply that "no single vomen lodgers are admitted." Rents increase every month, and have nearly doubled since peace was declared. Families of moderate means have to spend from 40 to 50 per cent. of their income to secure the merest accommodation which decency requires. The prices of all food are exorbitant and beer costs $1 a bottle. In the meanwhile wages are about the same as be fore the war.

The correspondent asserts that a clerk n London on a salary of $750 a year s more fortunate than one in South Africa at $1,250.

BATTLE WITH LYNCHERS

Sheriff and Deputies Have Desperate Struggle to Preserve Law and Order at Butler.

MOB WANTED TO HANG JOSEPH BENNETT

Demanding His Life-An Attempt Battering Rams-Through Vigithe Mob Is Kept Back-Several Persons Are Injured.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Butler, Pa., Sept. 14.-Shortly before midnight last night a frenzied mob of about two thousand men surrounded the county jail clamoring for Joseph Bennett, a well known character, who brutally maltreated the 6-year-old daughter of John Wagner, a tailor, who lives near the West Penn depot. Bennett was discovered with the little one in his arms and was only saved from lynching at the time by the opportune arrival of a number of policemen. Bennett was safely lodged in the jall and large number of people. The damage the maddened crowd determined to take him forcibly from the prison and hang him. During the exciting hours that followed, the door of the jail was pattered in, one man was shot and several others injured.

When Bennett was lodged in jail all the officers of the city were on duty, but their efforts to suppress the mob was fruitless, though they had been able to keep the maddened crowd from entering the prison.

The story of Bennett's crime and the resultant occurrences are about as follows: Bennett, who has been in trouble many times before, had been drinking all day Saturday, and in the evening induced the child to accompany him to a store, where he bought her Bennett was finally located by Lewis Patton under a boxcar in a dark corner of the yard. Patton took the child from Bennett and had her sent to her home. A large crowd soon col-

Bennett wsa crawn from under the car and half dragged, half carried to Railroad Conductors, Order of Railon a street car and taken to Main street, two squares from the jail. Three police officers took charge of him and Pennsylvania. There were two meetstarted up Main street for the prison. Here it was that the infurlated mob began to get in its work. The streets were crowded with people, and all seemed to join the mob in the middle of the street.

Shouts of "Lynch him!" "Get a rope!" were raised. Then the mass of people crowded around the prisoner and began beating and kicking him. After struggling for half an hour, the officers succeeded in getting their man inside the prison. The haffled mob then, with one accord yelled "Smash the jail." The cry was echoed and echoed and it seemed but a moment antil probably twenty-five men came through the crowd with a rush, bearing a heavy timber which had been secured at a new building neaby. Wild cheers rang out as the people divined that an effort to force the prison was about to be made.

The crowd bad a rope ready and had selected a tree near the jail, to which t was intended to hang Benentt. Sheriff Thomas R. Hoon and the entire police force, with several deputies, occupied the stairs leading to the fall door and by a united effort they stopped the battering ram before it reached the door. Plucky Deputy Sheriff.

A rush was made to the side door of the prison, and before the officers were aware of the intention of the noo, the door went down beneath a fierce blow from the battering ram. Deputy Sheriff J. Rainey Hoon was inside this door, however, with a drawn revolver, and prevented a rush into the

While the deputy had the crowd at pay at the side door, the mob in front began throwing bricks, stones and any and everything with which their hands came in centact at the front door. Windows were smashed, transoms broken, and a number of persons cut and bruised by the flying missiles.

In the rush made upon the fail Deputy Sheriff Rainey Hoon was struck on the head and rendered unconscious but recovered quickly after being carried into the sheriff's private apartments. The sheriff himself received a number of cuts and bruises. Policeman Joseph Dougherty was knocked down and sustained a number of deep cuts on the head and body. Louis Hill had his right leg broken; George Klein, who was among the mob, was shot in the leg by one of the guards. None of the wounded are seriously hurt. During the night, up to 3 o'clock, the mob made three separate attempts to enter the prison, but when the last attempt was made the flerceness of the attackers had materially decreased. Sheriff Hoon's address to them shortly after 3 o'clock in which he sternly said that if the crowd was not dispersed was won by Walter Bardgett, Buffalo, nstantly he would shoot to kill scemed to impress those who remained about the edifice that the officer would carry his threat to the letter. In a short time all was quiet and further danger averted. All day today the mob troubles of last night have been the sole topic of conversation on the streets and Sheriff Hoon has received many congratulations on the masterly manner in which he handled the excited crowd. Crowds proach the jail. The building is roped off and patrolled by porcemen on the outside, while a number of armed guards are on the inside. Sheriff Hoon says he expects no more trouble but If it comes he is prepared for it and he leaders of the gang will not get the consideration they did last night. Bennett's little victim is improved to night, and unless blood poison follows she will probably recover,

The principal feature of the afternon meeting was an address by Thomas D. Nicholls, of Scranton, president of District No. I, United Mine Workers of America. Mr. Nicholls made a plea for financial assistance for the striking miners. He explained the grievances of the miners and that it was the purpose of the latter to continue or strike until they had von a victory. The money that is being received, he said, was being distributed among the needy miners at the rate of $2.50 for each two weeks to every miner who was married and 35 cents additional for each child. The single mirers received $1.50, but this retief, as a rule, is only given to older men who have been unable to seek other employment. This money, Mr. Niicholls said, was barely sufficient to furnish the striking miners with bread. A collection was taken up at both sessions and several hundred dollars esting. It was called the unknown-distance race, and was for amateurs. It was an innovation, nothing like it having been tried before on either side of the Atlantic. When the riders mounted their wheels none of them knew whether the distance to be ridden would be a half mile or ten miles. The referee had several slips in his hat and after the race started he was to draw one out. The one he drew was marked four miles. The riders had been instructed that a pistol would be fired at the beginning of the last lap and this accordingly kept them close together throughout. When the pistol was fired, Glasson was riding in third position and Hurley fourth, and Glasson immediately sprinted and led down the backstretch by over a length. In the homestretch Hurley drew up to even terms and at the tape won out by about half length. Glasson was second, and Lindley third. Time, 9.03 4-5.
