SCRANTON, SEPTEMBER 25, 1902.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

State. Governor—S. W. PENNYPACKER. Lieutenant Governor—M. BROWN. Secretary of Internal Affairs—ISAAC B. BROWN.

County. Congress—WILLIAM CONNELL. Judge—A. VOSHIK. Commissioners—COURIER MORRIS, JOHN PENNMAN. Mine Inspectors—J. R. WELBY, M. EVANS, DAVID T. WILLIAMS.

Legislative. Senator—JOHN JORDAN. Representatives—First District—JOSEPH OLIVER. Second District—WALTER R. JR. Third District—EDWARD JAMES. Fourth District—P. A. PHILBIN.

The proclamation of District President Nichols calling on United Mine Workers and their sympathizers to treat the militia with respect is a sensible and timely document, which ought to have tranquilizing influence up and down the valley.

Odell.

THE SLY attempt of the trust interests, working through Senator Odell, to load down Governor Odell with a running mate who could cause him to lose the state this fall, thus paving the way to a formidable fight on Roosevelt two years hence, has been defeated, as has every other machination of the same influence aimed at the same end.

But when the conference was called a few weeks ago to decide whether Roosevelt should be sandbagged in the house of his friends, the fact soon became evident to Platt and his followers that Odell, if silent, had not been idle.

The fact is that between Odell and Roosevelt a perfect understanding exists. It is not for nothing that Roosevelt got his friend Stranahan in the New York column, and that successful old veteran, "Jim" Clarkson, in the appraisership. They are quite a match for the Pays and the Quigs.

The Regiment.

WHILE there has been much criticism of the action of the governor in designating the Thirteenth regiment for service in its home community, it is not wise to dwell upon this now.

Among the intelligent people of our country the feeling toward the soldiers will be one of appreciation of their loyalty to duty and sacrifice of time and, in many instances, money in serving the state at the expense of private interests.

The soldier, like the policeman, is not likely to bother anybody who behaves himself. You do not feel resentment for the bluestock as he passes along his beat. Why? Because you know that he is doing a work which benefits you, which protects your property and even increases the security of your life.

ful citizen and those who are not peaceful.

Let thinking men and women reflect on these things before yielding to the silly prejudice that in some places exists against members of the National Guard.

Seed Time and Harvest.

WE NOTICE that it is the declared intention of some of our fellow-citizens up the valley to call a public mass meeting to protest against the presence of soldiers in the county.

In a disturbed condition of public feeling and prejudice such as exists today the fewer public meetings held the less chance there will be of untoward occurrence. The time to have held meetings of protest was when the seeds of violence were being implanted in the community.

The proceedings at Saratoga confirm the impression that Ben Odell is it.

Roosevelt on Tariff Revision.

(From His Speech at Logansport, Ind.)

WHAT we really need in this country is to treat the tariff as a business proposition and not from the standpoint of the temporary needs of any political party.

The problem, therefore, is to devise some plan by which these shifting needs can be recognized and the necessary readjustment of duties provided without forcing the entire business community, and therefore the entire nation, to submit to a violent surgical operation, the mere threat of which, and still more the accomplished fact of which, would probably paralyze for a considerable time all the industries of the country.

"It is on every account most earnestly to be hoped that this problem can be solved in some manner into which partisanship shall enter as a purely secondary consideration if at all; that is, in some manner which shall provide for an earnest effort by non-partisan inquiry and action to secure any changes, the need of which is indicated by the effect found to proceed from given rate of duty on a given article; its effect, if any, as regards the creation of a substantial monopoly; its effect upon domestic prices, upon the revenue of the government, upon importations from abroad, upon home production and upon consumption.

"In other words, we need to devise some machinery by which, while preserving in the policy of a protective tariff, in which I think the nation as a whole has now generally acquiesced, we would be able to correct the irregularities and remove the incongruities produced by the changing conditions, without destroying the whole structure. Such machinery would permit us to continue our definitely settled tariff policy while providing for the changes in duties upon particular schedules which must inevitably and necessarily take place from time to time as matters of legislative and administrative detail. This would secure the needed stability of economic policy which is a prime factor in our industrial success, while doing away with any tendency to fossilization.

"It would recognize the fact that as our needs shift it may be found advisable to alter rates and schedules, adapting them to the changed conditions and necessities of the people and this would be in no wise incompatible with preserving the principle of protection, for belief in the wisdom of a protective tariff is in no way inconsistent with frankly admitting the desirability of changing a set of schedules when from any cause such change is in the interest of the nation as a whole—and our tariff policy is designed to favor the interests of the nation as a whole and not those of any particular set of individuals, save as an incident to a work which benefits you, which protects your property and even increases the security of your life.

"There are two or three different methods by which it will be possible to provide such readjustment without any shock to the business world. My personal preference would be for action, which should be taken only after preliminary inquiry by, and upon the findings of a body of experts of such high character and ability that they could be trusted to deal with the subject purely from the standpoint of our business and industrial needs; but, of course, congress would have to determine for itself the exact method to be followed. The executive has at its command the means for gathering most of the necessary data and can act whenever it is the desire of congress that he should act. That we have the machinery for carrying out the policy above outlined I feel certain, if only our people will make up their minds that the health of the community will be subserved by treating the whole question primarily from the standpoint of the business interests of the entire country, rather than from the standpoint of the fancied interests of any group of politicians.

"Of course, in making any changes, we should have to proceed in accordance with certain fixed and definite principles, and the most important of these is an avowed determination to protect the interests of the American producer, be he business man, wage worker or farmer. The one consideration which must never be omitted in a tariff change is the imperative need of preserving the American standard of living for the American workman. The tariff rate must never fall below that which will protect the American workman by allowing for the difference between the general labor cost here and abroad, so as at least to equalize the conditions arising from the difference in the standards of labor here and abroad—a difference which it should be our aim to foster, insofar as it represents the needs of better educated, better paid, better fed and better clothed workmen of a higher class than any to be found in a foreign country. At all hazards and no matter what else is sought for or accomplished by changes of the tariff, the American workman must be protected in his standard of wages, that is, in his standard of living, and must be secured fullest opportunity of employment."

Some busybodies are trying to make an ado over the fact that at Detroit President Roosevelt shook General Alger's hand. Did they expect him to sweat Alger in the nose?

It begins to look as though Palma's critics were all holding office now.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

During the four years of Cleveland under the Wilson free trade tariff, from 1882 to 1886, our exports of domestic merchandise amounted to $3,366,828,898. During the four years of McKinley, from 1887 to 1890, under the Dingley protective tariff, which took the place of the Wilson free trade act—the total value of exports of domestic merchandise was $1,816,191,260, an excess of $1,550,637,638 over that of the four preceding years of Clevelandism.

During Cleveland's four years—1882 to 1886—the total value of exports of American domestic products, in excess of the total value of foreign products imported into the United States, was $366,538,881. During the four years of McKinley—1887 to 1890—the total value of exports of American domestic products, in excess of the total value of foreign products imported into the United States, was $1,575,121,531, an excess of $1,208,582,650 over the four preceding years of Clevelandism.

The total amount of tin plate imported into the United States during the four years of free trade under Cleveland, from 1882 to 1886, was 26,628,891 pounds. During the four years under McKinley, from 1887 to 1890, our total import of tin plates was 16,577,146 pounds, a decrease of 10,051,745 pounds. During the four years of Cleveland and the Wilson tariff—1882 to 1896—we manufactured 331,623,361 pounds of tin plate. During the four years of McKinley and the Dingley tariff we manufactured 2,865,691,287 pounds of tin plate, an excess over the four preceding years of Clevelandism of 2,534,067,926 pounds.

During the four years of Cleveland and depression, from 1882 to 1886, we produced 32,385,198 tons of 2 1/2 ton pig iron, the ton of pig iron. During the next four years of McKinley and prosperity we produced 43,679,444 tons of 2 1/2 ton pig iron, an increase of 11,294,246 tons.

The total quantity of tons of 2 1/2 ton pig iron and steel railroad iron produced in the United States during Cleveland's term, from 1882 to 1886, was 5,095,236 tons. During the next four years under McKinley the total production was 7,621,833 tons, an increase of 2,526,597 tons over Cleveland's four years.

DISMISSAL!

"Forgive, you pray; again, 'forgive!' But still you throw To Stella, passing there below, A glance too lingering and sweet; And still you greet Fair Ida, with that tender smile— Yet all the while 'Forgive, you pray; 'forgive!'"

"I love, you cry; 'I love but you!' And yet you bend O'er Rose, and will not end From whispering to Isabel Quick words, that tell In her bright eye and glowing cheek; Then me you greet, To cry, 'I love but you!'"

Go to, poor trifler! You must know That he who loves is indicated by the effect found to proceed from given rate of duty on a given article; its effect, if any, as regards the creation of a substantial monopoly; its effect upon domestic prices, upon the revenue of the government, upon importations from abroad, upon home production and upon consumption.
