SHOWERS FREQUENT DURING DAY AT ALLENTOWN.

In the Morning Occurred the Grand Cavalcade, When All the Cattle Entered for Exhibition Appeared on the Track-Later, the Roadsters Appeared for Inspection-In the Afternoon a Number of the Horses Were Judged and Following This Came the Races—The Summaries.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Allentown, Pa. Sept. 24.-The second day of the Lehigh county's fifty-first annual fair was not very attractive as far as weather conditions were concern ed. A cold foggy morning undoubtedly kept away many thousands of intendvisitors. Notwithstanding more than 30,000 spectators were inside the grounds this afternoon and the huge grandstand, with a seating capacity of 12,000 was nearly filled before the first race was called at 12.30 o'clock.

Showers were frequent during th afternoon and a cold wind made those without top coats and wraps stiffen hug themselves to keep the blood circulating. The races lasted more than six hours, but long before the last heat of the afternoon was over nine-tenths of the spectators left the bleak, exposed stands and bleachers and sought shelter and warmth.

The day's proceeding began early. A 10 a, m, a general cavalcade was held, headed by the Allentown and Pionee bands, and followed by stallions, geld ings, mares and colts, single and double teams, cattle, etc. They were driven three times around the further side of the track. All the horses enthe speed events, appeared in the cavalcade and an interesting and lengthy procession they made. The cattle were

FOR INSPECTION.

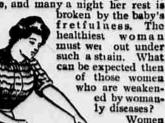

At 10.45 the roadsters appeared in front of the grand stand for inspection. These included the standard and nonstandard entries for premiums. They were walked around the truck once and trotted around the second time. At 11.30 a. m. the road teams appeared in front of the judge's stand for inspection under the same conditions as the preceding class. The first race was scheduled for 13

m., but it was half an hour later be fore Starter Frank Smith, with his cyclonic voice, appeared in the judge's stand. There were four races on th slate, but after three heats had been paced in the last one, it had to be postponed until tomorrow at noon for the deciding one

The track was in splendid shape for fast going and the races, with the exception of the first one, which looked like a gift to the winner, were excellent So close were some of the finishes that spectators stood up in their seats, threv

During the afternoon the following classes of horses were judged in front of the stables:

The first race of the day, the 2.30 trot had but three starters and proved a tame spiritless procession. In fact it looked so eculiar that after the second heat the three drivers were called into the judges stand and had to listen to a little lecture and a caution that there must be a better account given of the third heat. THIRD PACE This brought out a field of seven, and although it was decided in straight heats, it was won strictly on its merits. The negro driver of Gold Bug came in for a good deal of chaffing, as he ran his horse good deal of chaffing, as he ran his horse for three-fourths of a mile to avoid the flag, he being left at the start in the first heat. The third heat was a fine one, and the finish was of the kind that would make you take your hat off, six of the seven being lined up across the track, all within a length of the leader. It took the judges considerable time to agree how to place all but the first two. They finally

FOURTH RACE-(Unfinished.) This brought out a field of ten starters and was another "crackajack" race. The large bunch was unwieldy and hard to line up, but when the word was given, it was to a fine send-off. The first quarter of the first heat was negotiated in 324 seconds, and the first half in 163%, and the hopes of the spectators were raised to a high pitch, in expectation of seeing the track record (2.134) smashed. The leaders eased up, however, in the last half and finished the heat in 2.144. The winner was done up by the fast going, however, and could not keep the pole in the next heat. This was a startler from the word "Go!" the leader being changed at frequent intervals. Mace was in front record (2.13¼) smashed. the word "Go!" the leader being changed at frequent intervals. Mace was in front at the quarter, Joan at the half, Mace again at six furlongs, and coming home, Garnet started from fifth place like a whirlwind and under heavy punishment, took the heat by a nose, with the other drivers all plying the whip in earnest. The third heat was won by Garnet under like conditions, and then it being too like conditions, and then, it being to close to night to finish, the race was postponed until 12 sharp tomorrow. Sum-

Saturday afternoon and evening is in dicated by the unusual inquiry at the box office. It is evident that this famous Clyde Fitch play will rival the tre-mendous business that has been done by William A. Brady's preceding attractions. Its fame is national because of its enor-mous run of five months in New York, all last summer in Chicago, and more recently, fourteen weeks in Philadelphia where the "standing room only" sig went out at every performance. The ef-fects will be perfect, including the beau-tiful apple orchard of real trees in the ontrasting hues of autumn and spring ime. Diagram opens this morning at o'eloek.

"The Devil's Daughter."

Brennan's "Devil's Daughter" pany, a popular extravaganza, which played an engagement of twenty-two weeks at the Pan-American, Buffalo, comes to the Star today.

The company is a sterling aggregation of artists from beginning to end. Leading the list of players is Clarence Wilbur, a comedian such as the burlesque stage may well be proud of, and second to him is popular Flo Jansen, in whom Mr. Wil-bur finds a congenial and harmonious partner, and their performance is a never ceasing delight. Others of prominence in the case are Miss Hattie Fox, a brilliant prima donna, who is singing as the de-mure Quakeress; Miss Madge Woods, Miss Violet St. Clair, Mr. Henry Bickenson, Mr. Sam Greene and Al every one of whom is a versatile and elever entertainer.
