LAFE SMITH IN TOWN.

The Waymart Sleuth Visits Carbondale on an Important Mission.

Lafayette Smith, known to local fame as Lafe Smith, is in town today and terror to the hearts of the Moosies, is once more in the public eye after a busy season catering to the wants of excursionists at Lake Lodore.

Lafe and his eagle eye were in town yesterday. He came to Carbondale on an important mission; what it was cannot be disclosed, as yet, but it wasn't to buy any ten-story buildings.

Lafe encountered some of the newspaper men, who are always glad to see him, as he is to greet them with a hearty shake of the right hand that held his faithful army musket through the grim and bloody days of the civil strife. After a whole-souled "How in the world be you?" he was ready to discuss current topics, run a ten-mile chase after a fleeing prisoner. After a "tech" on the weather, a word about the Wayne county fair and a passing comment on Constable Eddie Neary's jealousy of his record, Lafe took to talking a spell about the strike.

"Yeh-s, I read in The Tribune 'emanning that the soldiers vuz to Forest City," said he. And then in the next breath, with much spirit: "They'll call out the old soldiers, yit; see if they don't."

"How about your army rifle, Lafe?" was asked of him. "The one you carried through the war?" "Oh, I wouldn't use that 'un; no, siree. If it shud come to such a thing, I'd have to take along my sixteen shooter. In the war I had a .45; the other'n, the army feller, goes 'bout a mile, straight's a line. But I guess Lafayette wouldn't do no harm to nobody, would he, even if he did carry his army musket, eh?" concluded Lafe as he noked the nearest newspaper in the ribs so hard that the scribe thought it was a ball from the army gun that was rattling his side slats.

The reporters tried hard to pump Lafe for a story on what brought him to Carbondale, but showed him that that he is, he wouldn't say a word. The air of mystery that he wore, however, justifies the presumption that there will be something doing in the criminal capturing line before many days.

NEW ENGINE TENDER. An Experiment Being Made in the O. & W. Yards at Mayfield.

What to railroad men is a novelty in locomotive tanks is to be seen at the Ontario and Western yard at Mayfield these days.

Engine No. 181 is equipped with one of the Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., tanks, the invention of the young multi-millionaire, who has shown himself to be quite a mechanical genius.

The tank, instead of being oblong, like the present type, is round, that is, the rear part, not unlike the cap of a big oil tank. The fore part where the coal is carried is square, but the other half is round. A long-standing objection to the tenders in use is that in switching the view of the engineer is obstructed. In the Vanderbilt type this is removed, the engineer being afforded a full view of the train behind him. The tender is being tried at the yard, with a view perhaps of adopting the same if it proves acceptable.

THEATRICALS TONIGHT.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" Will Be at the Grand.

The long interval in theatrical attractions will be broken tonight by the production of "The Prisoner of Zenda," at the Grand.

The diagram, which opened Wednesday night, is well marked, and the expectation is that the legion of readers of Anthony Hope's novel will be well represented at tonight's performance.

The company is under the direction of Shipman Brothers, whose "Puddin'-head Wilson" was so well received in Carbondale last season. Edwin Mordant, the romantic actor, and Oia Humphrey, a charming actress, will head the capable company. The scenery will be in keeping with the well-selected cast.

FAIR—BALL GAME—RAIN!

W. Pluvius Plays Havoc with People's Expectations.

In the words of the irrepressible "Chuck" Connors, two diversions will be put on the tramp for fair, if J. Pluvius, the man from up there, continues to shed the copious tears that gave us free baths yesterday and the day after.

The dawn of today will be awaited with anxiety and apprehension by the patrons of the Wayne county fair and the rosters of "our fets." Today was originally intended as the last day of the fair. Yesterday, on account of the rain Wednesday, it was decided to hold two days' racing, but yacht racing or rowing and canal boats would be more

HARD ON CHILDREN.

When Teacher has Coffee Habit.

"Best is best, and best will ever live." When a person reads this way about Postum Food Coffee, they are glad to give testimony for the benefit of others.

"Miss Evelyn Purvis, of Free Run, Miss, says: 'I have been a coffee drinker since my childhood, and the last few years it had injured me seriously. One cup of coffee taken at breakfast would make me become so nervous that I could scarcely go through with the day's duties, and this nervousness was often accompanied by depression of spirits and heart palpitation.'

"I am a teacher by profession, and when under the influence of coffee, have to struggle against crossness when in the school room. When talking this over with my physician, Dr. Johnson, of Eden, Miss., he suggested that I try Postum Food Coffee. I purchased a package and made it carefully according to directions; found it excellent in flavor, and nourishing. In a short time I noticed very gratifying effects; my nervousness disappeared, I was not irritated by my pupils, life seemed full of sunshine, and my heart troubled me no longer. I attribute my change in health and spirits to Postum alone."

In order. Today—but who knows what it will be?—there will be two days' racing, perhaps, and the fair will close tomorrow, wind and weather permitting.

The Simon Long team were to be our guests today, and they would be greeted by an immense crowd. It's mighty doubtful, though, if the game can come off. There is a speck of encouragement in the weather man's card of last night. It reads: "Rain tonight and Friday forenoon, followed by clearing."

But a weedy man, like the rest of us mortals, sometimes makes an off guess; but it's hoped that this time he's a good guesser and that there will be enough sunshine, after the "clearing," to dry the sod of Duffy's field. If it be otherwise, there will be many a disappointed base ball crank in Carbondale tomorrow night.
