TROOPS SHOOT AT STONE THROWERS

found that death was due to a fracture of the skull. An inquest was deemed unnecessary.

SHERIDAN TROOP IS ORDERED TO OLYPHANT

Word of the coming of the Sheridan troop, of Tyrone, to assist the Thirtieth in patrol work, as told in the Associated Press dispatches, was first given to the men in camp by The Tribune and, as may be believed, the news was joyously received.

No one welcomed it more than Colonel Waters. He had received private advice from Harrisburg that cavalry was to be sent to his assistance, but until the details of the matter were communicated through The Tribune, he was not at liberty to discuss it publicly.

That the men are to be relieved from a part, at least, of the duties of their duties, is a great gratification to the colonel. Having shared their every hardship, he was in a position to realize what real severe service they have been called upon to perform.

CROWDS OF VISITORS

Saturday and again yesterday, despite the rain, there were big crowds of visitors to the camp. Most of them had to content themselves with a view of the camp from a point forty feet outside the lines.

One of the main reasons for excluding visitors is this most of the soldiers are out every night, and what sleep they get must be gotten in the daytime.

Press parades took place Saturday and yesterday on the field to the west of the camp. The parade today will take place either at 4 or 5 o'clock p. m.

A stockade of twenty-foot poles is being constructed, after the plan of "Sorrow Castle," at Camp Alger.

An out-of-town Sunday paper which contained a cheap and mean attack on the regiment was peddled in the camp yesterday morning.

Henry Collins, national organizer of the United Mine Workers, waited on Colonel Waters Saturday to ask that Captain Bigelow and Company E be taken away from Forest City.

INDUSTRIES HARD PRESSED

A number of leading industries are hard pressed for fuel and may any day be compelled to shut down. One of these, the Scranton Axle company, saved itself from idleness by arranging to take coal from a "cropping" located on its land.

EIGHTH REGIMENT IS IN THIS COUNTY

The Eighth regiment has moved from the Fuller & Co. store, at lower Duryea, to the large field in Lawrence, near the Brick church, which is just over the line in Lackawanna county.

Colonel Hoffman stated that he was pleased with the camp and the cordial way the troops were received.

The soldiers are all in excellent health, except Private H. D. Hubbler, who was injured at the Phoenix artillery engine room, Friday night, by having a piece of iron fall on his hip.

Saturday evening, while John Dick, of Duryea, was sitting on his porch, a bullet went through his hat, fortunately not injuring him.

Rev. W. H. Swift, of Honesdale, chaplain of the Thirtieth, conducted the first religious service of the present tour of duty, yesterday morning, in Company D's mess tent. The tent was crowded and the soldiers joined with unmistakable zeal in the services.

I fear that in this whole field of public duty, the conscience of our people is strangely blunted. We speak of our rights as citizens, but I fear that we sometimes forget that our right is also our duty.

Now the right of free speech must be maintained at any cost. My first recollection of any political campaign was in which the battle cry was the blithely of a new party: "Free speech, free opinion, free institutions, free liberty and free government."

God is calling to us to be just. At the great meeting held in the armory after the death of President McKinley our own Colonel Waters said with great force: "There is no law and order where there is no God."

DANGER OF INDIFFERENCE

Second, the danger of settling back again into indifference. "There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood leads on to fortune."

Put the teaching, whose legitimate goal is morality; the teaching that has the life of the nation in its hands; the teaching that will surely undermine the walls of beneficent government, must be suppressed.

be said that very little has been done toward throttling it; but we have our mission, friends, and that is agitation, agitation, agitation, until something is done to clip the wings of this foul brood, able at any time to fill the land with misery.

LIBERTY AND LICENSE

Opinions that are expressed through public prints, or the human voice, that are particularly light to estimate the value of law, the courts of justice, established government—life, must be suppressed.

Said Archbishop Ireland, I think it was: "God of nations, thou art not a God of the market. We must ask ourselves whether liberty is to be allowed on earth, such as we have worshipped in our dreams and sought to embody in the institutions of America."

Now the right of free speech must be maintained at any cost. My first recollection of any political campaign was in which the battle cry was the blithely of a new party: "Free speech, free opinion, free institutions, free liberty and free government."

MUST BE SUPPRESSED

Put the teaching, whose legitimate goal is morality; the teaching that has the life of the nation in its hands; the teaching that will surely undermine the walls of beneficent government, must be suppressed.

BELIEF IN GOD

The belief in God, I say, is the great remedy for—the great bulwark against anarchy and as the good bishop says, "Churches stand for order and the churches keep alive the sense of God's nearness."

Brothers, the blow has fallen, smiting not one, but all—Over the world of nations, Liberty's blood-drops fall.

Brothers, the truth is spoken, smiting the ill at root. Cursing the seed of evil, judged by its harvest fruit!

Anarchy's irreverence, falling God, falls mankind. Christ's are the only ethics point to draw men's hearts to the Father's star!

Choose, O ye kings and rulers! Choose, ye courts and schools! Anarchy's reign, red-handed over mere human rules.

IMPULSE TOWARD ANARCHY. Friends, whatever undermines the sacred character of law is an impulse toward anarchy.

For God, and the young American life is woefully, sadly innocent. We see its manifestation in young children and other children—not the children of the status, but children in the best homes.
