OBSEQUIES OF TWO PIONEERS

Poor Director James McMillan and Mrs. Harriet Freeman Watt sleep in Maplewood Cemetery.

Two venerable residents of Carbondale were laid away in eternal sleep yesterday, amid all the respect that was merited by them during their edifying lives.

At the McMillan home on North Church street, there was a large outpouring of friends, men prominent in municipal life and the employees of the Delaware and Hudson, former co-workers of the deceased, being conspicuous in the multitude.

Rev. Charles Lee, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the congregation of which Mr. McMillan was so constant in his devotions, conducted the service of the dead.

The funeral was held at 10 o'clock, and the interment was in the Maplewood cemetery.

TWO DISTURBANCES OF LAST NIGHT

An Assault in the Dundaff Section. Patrolman James Encounters a Stubborn Prisoner—Stirring Happenings of an Evening.

Two disturbances—one a serious assault in the Dundaff section, the other a stubborn resistance of a policeman, Patrolman James Bell, was the criminal record of last night, the most stirring happening of a single evening in Carbondale in some months.

Henry Buckert, blacksmith, Dundaff street was the victim of the assault. He was badly beaten by two brothers, he claims, William and Frank Monroe, over a trifling happening.

Harry Booth, a fireman, was the man who had the somewhat disastrous encounter with Patrolman Bell.

The bad beating which Buckert sustained appears to be the sequel of a child's quarrel.

The son of Buckert came into the residence on Dundaff street early last evening showing a slightly scarred face, which he cried was caused by one of the Monroe children burning him with a match.

The child's father, after hearing the story, started for the Monroe home a few blocks away to demand an explanation and satisfaction.

He alleges that he was set upon by the elder Monroe brothers, Will and Frank as soon as he entered their place. One of them, he said, had a revolver, which he discharged, shooting him (Buckert) in the face.

Constable Neary was called to the scene. He could see no signs of a pistol wound on Buckert's face, though he was disfigured by the beating he received and was obliged to call for a physician. Buckert claims one of the Monroe's had a revolver, which he fired.

The supposition is that one of the Monroe's did have a revolver, which they used to threaten the father with, and then the son of the father, who was with them, used it to shoot at the father.

William Monroe was arrested and a warrant is out for Frank's arrest. They deny the assault, claiming that Buckert struck them and then fled.

Booth, who had the trouble with Patrolman Bell, was arrested for creating a disturbance of some sort. At the corner of Park place and Main street, he rebelled against going further. He remonstrated by loud profanity. The patrolman went to grab him, whereupon Booth struck out. There was a mix-up in which the patrolman's club was used a half a dozen times.

Booth was laid low and arrested, but released later to appear this morning at 9 o'clock. The happening created quite a stir, attracting a big crowd in front of the city building.

Effect of Strike. The Imperial Restaurant Closed Until Miners Return to Work.

The second business place in Carbondale which the proprietor deemed prudent to close during the continuation of the coal strike, shut its doors yesterday.

The Imperial restaurant in the Opera house block, on North Main street, which James Thompson, Jr., is proprietor, suspended business until after the strike. The depression, which is felt to some extent in every business, particularly affected the patronage of Mr. Thompson, as the majority of patrons were young men who depend mostly on the coal business for their support.

The falling off of the patronage of this place illustrates how far-reaching is the effect of the mine strike in this community. An important factor in the life of the restaurant are the railroad men. The circumstances of little or no coal being moved took them away. Thus the social affairs of the town were quite a source of profit. The luncheon of the intermission period was usually procured here. The social galaxy has almost ceased since the advent of the strike. Hence, the business was appreciably affected. Altogether, it was deemed prudent by the proprietor to abandon business until the majority of the town's wage-earners went back on their way.

TEARFUL OR CHEERFUL?

Whether a woman is tearful or cheerful depends not on what she is, but on what she is physically. Many an indulgent husband is driven almost to despair by the tearful outburst of a wife who has every thing she wants.

Such a condition is usually related to some form of womanly disease. The mental depression has its corresponding somatic basis.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription changes tearful women to cheerful women by curing the diseases which cause physical weakness and depression of spirits.

THE PROPER TREATMENT FOR A SPRAINED ANKLE.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered.

This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain-Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by all druggists.
