PERFECT QUIET IN THESE PARTS

Another Day Passes Off Without a Renewal of the Strike Disorder Which Marked Last Week.

SPECULATION ON MITCHELL'S VISIT

EIGHTH REGIMENT HAD A QUIET DAY

Local Coal Company Officials Say the Philadelphia Conference Is Probably Nothing More Than Another Scheme to Give False Hopes to the Strikers—Widely Varying Statements Regarding Losses and Gains to the Working Forces at the Collieries—Peckville Has a Midnight Mystery That Causes Uneasiness. Soldiers and Strikers Play Base Ball Together at Duryea—School Children Refuse to Be Kept Warm by Supposed "Unfair" Coal.

Lackawanna county, yesterday, experienced another day of perfect quiet. If there was any disorder it was of such a trivial nature that no report of it got beyond its immediate scene.

Colonel Watres' patrols brought in no word of any bother, the coal companies' officials had nothing to give out about disturbances and none of The Tribune's correspondents communicated anything that bore the semblance of lawlessness.

Only one call was made on the Thirteenth yesterday, and that proved to be a fake. About 3 o'clock word was telephoned to camp that a crowd of strikers congregated at the Delaware and Hudson bridge near the Providence station, was intercepting workmen bound to and from the Marvline. A detail of ten men from Company D, in command of Lieutenant Russell, was hurried to the scene on the troop train, arrived at the bridge the soldiers encountered three young men and a couple of small boys sitting on the side of the railroad bank having a chat. Two of the three youths are non-union employees of the West Ridge colliery and the third is working at the Delaware and Hudson coal house in Green Ridge. They and others from the neighborhood who was attracted by the coming of the soldiers averred positively there had been no crowd at the bridge any time during the day, and as far as was known no workman had even passed that way.

ONLY A FEW IDLERS. Police Lieutenant Palmer and Patrolman Ross corroborated these averments. They had visited the locality several times and saw no one about except a few idlers in or about the swing in the adjacent Frear's grove.

The police were very much exercised at the troops being called into the city. Patrolman Ross, who has been doing duty each morning and evening at the Marvline, stated that there never was any large crowd around the Marvline until the troops began coming there. Now a big crowd flocks to the scene every time the troops put in an appearance.

Colonel Watres and Major Whitney accompanied Captain Jones and his cavalry on a tour of the region around Olyphant, yesterday afternoon, which was made primarily to make the troops acquainted with the locality. As yet they have not had opportunity of showing what they are capable of in the way of quick response to a call.

Lieutenant Colonel Stillwell is superintending the installation of shower baths for the use of officers and men. They will be located in a wooden building at the easterly edge of the camp.

The Third battalion of the regiment at present stationed at Shenandoah, has not yet arrived in this county. The tents arrived yesterday morning and were put up during the day, so that everything will be in readiness for the battalion when it arrives.

THIRD BRIGADE BAND. It is expected that the celebrated Third brigade band, of Pottsville, under the leadership of Lieutenant Gebhardt, will be ordered out this week, and if it is Colonel Hoffman has been

THIRTEENTH'S PRISON STOCKADE. It is to Hold Any Civilians Who May Be Arrested by the Soldiers

The water will be heated by steam supplied by the Raymond washery. Judging from the preparations under way at the camp the soldiers expect a long campaign. Tents are being floored and waited for a height of about three feet with boards, oil stoves are being put in, earth is being banked around the bottom of the canvases. Yesterday Company D set up in its mess tent, two large breaker stoves, contributed by a former captain of the company, General Manager May, of the Erie's coal department.

PECKVILLE EXCITED. Peckville was very much excited yesterday over a strange occurrence of the night before. About 11 o'clock p. m., a resident of the town passing along the "green," an isolated place at the western end of the town, saw a crowd of fifty or sixty foreigners huddled together in a clump of woods and talking in low tones. He telephoned to the camp and ten minutes later the troop train bearing Captain Huff and squad from Company H were in sight. As the headlight of the train was discernible coming out of Olyphant, a man who had been standing in the

of a thousand soldiers and civilians. The Duryea team won, but the soldiers took their defeat good-naturedly.

VISITORS IN CAMP. Now that the work of laying out the camp has been practically completed, the strict orders against admitting visitors within the guard lines have been very much relaxed. The officer of the guard has been granted the privilege of exercising his own discretion as to the admission of decent appearing, orderly persons, and yesterday several hundred were allowed to visit the camp. There is no rule against the admission of women, but all foreigners are kept outside.

Major Holmes, commander of the Second battalion of the Eighth regiment, took occasion to deny most emphatically, yesterday, the stories which have been afloat regarding alleged desertions from the regiment and the difficulty which the officers have had in keeping the men in line.

"These stories are absolutely untrue," said he, "and have been circulated by persons desiring to sully the name of the National Guard of this state. A reference to our company rolls will show that we have now nineteen more men in the regiment than we had the day before we were called out for this present tour of duty, and

Not the slightest semblance of disorder manifested itself about Duryea yesterday and the two battalions of the Eighth regiment and two companies of the Fourth encamped near there passed another quiet and uneventful day.

Colonel T. F. Hoffman went to Wilkes-Barre yesterday afternoon and had a lengthy consultation with Colonel C. Bow Dougherty, commander of the Ninth regiment regarding the territory to be looked after by each command. When the Eighth regiment was dispatched to this region from Shenandoah last week, Colonel Hoffman received no orders regarding the territory which would come under the control of his command and yesterday's meeting was held for the purpose of settling this point.

It was decided that the Eighth regiment should exercise general supervision over the district lying between the Scranton city line on the north and a line drawn east and west through the Schooley colliery at Pittston. The Ninth regiment will take charge of the region extending south of the Schooley colliery and in and around Wilkes-Barre.

The Third battalion of the regiment at present stationed at Shenandoah, has not yet arrived in this county. The tents arrived yesterday morning and were put up during the day, so that everything will be in readiness for the battalion when it arrives.

THIRD BRIGADE BAND. It is expected that the celebrated Third brigade band, of Pottsville, under the leadership of Lieutenant Gebhardt, will be ordered out this week, and if it is Colonel Hoffman has been despite the fact that we have lost twenty-eight bandmen who were enlisted as members of the several companies."

This fact is especially interesting when it is noted that two companies of the Eighth regiment—E. of Mahanoy City; K. of St. Charles—and one company of the Fourth—G. of Pine Grove—are composed almost entirely of members of the mine workers' organization who obeyed the strike order and quit work.

HAVE UNION CARDS. Over seventy-five per cent. of the members of these three companies hold union cards and are paying their dues regularly. Captain Ombenbaur, of Company G, is a member of thirty-two years' experience and an active member of the mine workers' organization.

Major Holmes said that the regiment had not made a practice since it was called out of doing any active duty unless there was a great and urgent need for its services. No details have been sent to escort non-union men or guard collieries except where there has been actual disorder.

"But if there is any serious trouble," he continued, "and we are called upon we will not shoot into the air. We will shoot low. That's been the order since we have been on duty and that is the order today."

Some of the officers think that there is a very strong possibility of Battery C, of Phoenixville, being called out, and they are confident that if it is ordered out it will be stationed with the Eighth.

The camp has been formally christened Camp A. Wilson Norris, in honor of a former adjutant of the Eighth regiment, who died of fever while the regiment was in service during the Spanish-American war.

Lieutenant Colonel J. B. Hutchinson, who is the chief of police at Harrisburg, arrived in camp yesterday after a furlough of over a week, his presence having been required in Harrisburg at criminal court.

MITCHELL'S VISIT TO PHILADELPHIA. No one could be found about here, yesterday, who would throw any light on the mysterious Philadelphia visit of National President Mitchell and the district presidents on Monday.

District President Nicholas had not returned from the Wilkes-Barre, up to last evening, and none of the other officials would admit they knew anything concerning the matter.

All the coal company officials hereabouts expressed entire ignorance of the affair further than what they learned from the newspapers, and two of them who are in close touch with New York said they were certain that the mysterious individual who conferred with the mine workers' officials was not a representative of the coal operators.

Speculation as to the inside facts of the meeting led to the exploitation of a story to the effect that some intermediary submitted a proposition that the mine workers' organization should withdraw from the conflict and allow each company to settle with its own employees by conference or arbitration. The story is not a new one.

Widely varying statements regarding losses and gains to the working forces at the collieries now in operation were afloat yesterday.

THE OPPOSING CLAIMS. The strikers claimed that so many men have left the Cayuga during the past week that operations had to be suspended. The company denied that there had been any loss; that the few men who quit were more than made up for by new men secured, and that the colliery is operating as usual. Superintendent Tobey is authority for the statement that the company yesterday had twelve men more than it had at any time since the strike began.

The West Scranton sub-district officers of the mine workers sent over word to the central headquarters that sixty-five men quit work yesterday at the Oxford colliery of the People's

Coal company. President Crawford, of this company, said, last night, that he has only lost three men. The men were paid Saturday and two of the three are enjoying the not unusual post-pay vacation. The third man was discharged for drunkenness. Monday and yesterday, Mr. Crawford states, the force at his colliery was increased by a net gain of eight men, all of them union men. National Organizer Collins reported that the Erie company's colliery at Forest City has been hoisting only six tons of coal a day, for the past two days and that it was likely to shut down because of desertions. General Manager May states that this colliery has hoisted not less than fifty cars a day and is gaining in its working force right along. The report that one hundred men were taken to the William A. colliery, yesterday, with a view of resuming operations proves to be unfounded. The men left here for a point further down the state and not to engage in mine work. SELLING BY BAG. Pickers and fishers are now selling coal by the "bag" at ten to thirty cents a bushel, according to the distance to market. A notion peddler from South Washington avenue flats hired a car from the Delaware, Lackawanna and West-
