Enthusiastic Meeting of the Cambria Republican Club—Number of Interesting Speeches Made.

Co-operative hall was well filled last evening when the Cambria Republican club held a meeting for the purpose of hearing the Republican candidates discuss the issues of the campaign. John H. Jones was chairman of the meeting and called on O. E. Jones, the secretary, who read a letter from Hon. William Connell, and also one from Mr. Morris and Mr. Penman, who were unable to be present. Mr. Connell's letter follows:

O. E. Jones, Esq., Secretary Cambria Republican Club.
Dear Sir: Your kind invitation to attend the opening meeting of the club this evening received. I want to thank you very kindly for the invitation, and to say that it would afford me much pleasure to be able to accept but, owing to a previous important business engagement I find it will be impossible for me to be present, much to my regret.

The ticket you will be expected to support, even if I do say it myself, is all right from top to bottom. My associates on the ticket are all good, honest, stalwart Republicans and deserve your loyal and hearty support from now to the close of the polls on election day. I feel it a duty to my party to do every thing in my power for the success of the entire party and I promise you I shall not be found defaulting in my duty.

I hope every member of the club feels as I do, and there will be no need of having any doubt as to the result. Congratulations the organization and wishing you every success, I am, Very truly yours,
William Connell.

This was followed by a well rendered glee by the Cambria Glee club. Seated on the platform with the chairman were Colonel Ripple, Joseph Oliver, Hon. A. A. Vosburg, Attorney Herbert Taylor and Llewellyn Evans. The chairman introduced Colonel Ripple, who made a short address regarding the character of the men on the Republican ticket. He was greeted by loud applause.

Judge Alton A. Vosburg said the Republican party is a party of men and principles, and it is an easy matter to see why Welshmen are Republicans, for the men from Wales are men of means and there is no other party that men of brains belong to. He said the Republican party is the only one which has tried to help the laboring man, and it is such Republicans as Quay, Stone, Penrose and Roosevelt who are helping fight the miners' cause.

Other addresses were made by Thomas Watkins, Joseph Oliver, Mr. Jordan, Edward James, Llewellyn Evans, David Williams and Attorney

At the close of the happy ceremony the bridal party were driven to the home of the bride, where a wedding breakfast was served, after which they left via the Lackawanna railroad for New York. Philadelphia and other points of interest. Upon their return they will reside in a newly furnished home in Wilkes-Barre.

day on a tour of the various camps. They had a special train. After an hour's conference with Colonel Waters and Quartermaster Vandling, Major Cameron took his train back to the Eighth's camp at Duryea. Assistant Adjutant General E. H. Ringle, of the governor's staff, was also a visitor to camp yesterday. His visit was of a purely social nature.

EXPECTED TROUBLE.
Superintendent Robinson, of the Austin Coal company, telephoned to Sheriff Schadt at 7:30 o'clock last night that the foreigners at Austin Heights were in a threatening mood and trouble could be expected at any moment. The sheriff at once telephoned to the commander of the Eighth regiment, and he immediately sent Company D to the scene on a train. The company remained at the heights all night. No trouble occurred.

Two more arrests were made yesterday for participation in the riot last week at the Exeter colliery. Henry Williams and Michael Ehlinsky were taken before Squire Ehret and held in $800 bail.

Since last Wednesday three companies of the Sixth regiment have made a trip to Sturteville and the vicinity of the Exeter colliery every day. The visit was discontinued today, and the strikers in that locality seem to have settled down to a peaceful basis again.

James Clark, of Binghamton; A. F. Duffy, of Binghamton; James Downey, of Utica, and Thomas Gibbons, of Syracuse, chairmen respectively of the engineers', trainmen's, conductors' and firemen's general committees of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western systems, were here yesterday for a more serious mission which they refused to discuss. They did considerable telephoning about noon time and then left the city. It is understood they came to meet with officers of the United Mine Workers, concerning the matter of hauling non-union coal.

MINERS' MASS MEETING.
A largely attended meeting of West Scranton mine workers was held yesterday afternoon at the large hall of the north of the Bellevue breaker. Between 1,200 and 1,500 strikers stood for over two hours, despite a dreaching rain which fell at intervals. Addresses were made by District Board Member J. Thomas, Vice-President Adam Ryscavage, National Organizer John Fallon, Timothy Hayes, Richard M. Butland and Michael Fitzpatrick.

Nicholas Burke presided as chairman and introduced as the first speaker Timothy Hayes, of North Scranton, who was in a most sanguine mood. He declared he would be already won by the strikers and he congratulated them upon their victory.

"This is not a time for talking," said he, "it is a time for rejoicing. A complete and signal victory is already at our disposal. It is a time for a glorious purification for the great victory which you have won."

Mr. Hayes declared that the dawn of a new era was at hand—the beginning of a new dispensation of peace and prosperity for the miners' organization. The miners can never be induced to a living and a lasting monument to themselves by their sacrifices during the past five months.

District Board Member Thomas followed and began by cautioning the members not to be too entirely confident. "Don't put your hands in your pockets and say that there's no more necessity of your laboring for the success of your cause," he said. "Keep working just as hard as you did on the first day."

"Still," he continued, "the situation has cleared up with things looking last week. We know that for some little time the amount of coal which the companies were producing kept increasing daily. Now it's just the reverse. During the last week the amount of coal being produced has been decreasing. This is a reason for this. Perhaps you can guess it."

Mr. Thomas referred at length to the criticisms of President Mitchell, which so many newspapers and individuals are indulging in.

SATISFIED WITH MITCHELL.
"The United Mine Workers," said he, "are competent to choose their own officers, and the strike is necessary to give them satisfaction. John Mitchell has given them satisfaction and has their confidence. I believe firmly that there is no other man in this broad land who could fill his present position better than he is filling it today."

Mr. Thomas declared that the strike was next introduced and delivered a lengthy address in the Polish language for the benefit of those of his nationality who might be in the audience.

National Board Member Fallon made a long address, following Mr. Ryscavage. "The miners can never be induced to go back single handed," he said. "They will go back as an organization."

He devoted some time to an attack on John Markle, whose recent declarations regarding alleged contract breaking on the part of the mine workers' organization have provoked so much discussion. He declared that it was enough to know that he was a son of George Markle. A son of that gentleman could by no possible chance be "any good," he asserted.

The United Mine Workers' band, of Taylor, rendered a number of selections during the progress of the meeting.

strike—although it can be said less than half the men attended this meeting.
The only time the grievance committee made any error in the year—and that is interesting just now, when the leaders are proclaiming that they did not interfere or attempt to dictate the employing of men to the company—was on Monday and after friendly greeting told us they had been sent by their local according to their laws to ask that we compel an employer to join the union, and if he refused to discharge him. We said to them: "Boys, let us understand each other. Does your union mean to say to us who own this property and have our money invested in it—while you have no interest in it but your day's work and when the conditions don't suit you can take your damn tools and go elsewhere—do you say we cannot employ a man without your consent?" The chairman very honestly replied: "Mr. Law, that is what we very plainly and calmly told them that we would not discharge any man so long as he did our work satisfactorily. We said we would not discharge him if he had not joined the union. And the committee knew we were not going to do anything but employ men who they said no more about it to us. I don't think a man or boy works for us who will say he ever was wronged to death of soft coal due him—and they did not need the help of any leader or union to get their rights at any time."

DIFFERENT KINDS.
There are tyrants in every business or trade and some who are dishonest. But there are just as upright and honorable men connected with the coal companies as any other business or profession, the clergy included, and the miners know it. And there are lots of miners as honest, intelligent and as good as any citizens of this land, but they are not to be classed with the brutes who last week at Grass Island clubbed James Winston to death and then danced in ghastly glee around the broken corpse in broad daylight. God forbid that such men should ever be classed with the miners we know.

We believe that the man who goes around telling men that the man or company who employs them is their enemy and who delights in stirring up strife, is a bad man, even though he be a very respectable job, even if the pay was smaller. And as for the breaker boys, how many men who have graduated from the breaker are in other towns and cities, honored and respected members of our professional and business life—and today the boys in the breaker are as good as dead and can take care of themselves anywhere.

Now, Mr. Editor, we expect, when the strike is over, as it will be some day, and the miners are back in the places and good feeling again prevails between employer and employe, and the miner asks himself, "Well, what did I get for my share of soft coal operators' $1.50 per ton extra for six months?" that then he will do some thinking. Yours,
Wm. Law.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM DEFEATS CARBONDALE
Visitors Had Four Ringers in the Game, but Lost by a Score of 5-0.

Scranton High School won their first football game at Olyphant, Pa., yesterday, by defeating a picked team from Carbondale, which was supposed to represent the Carbondale High school, by a score of 5-0.

The visitors brought with them four members of the old Indians, who are experienced players, but notwithstanding that fact the local boys played all around them.

Two fifteen-minute halves were played, the second in a drizzling rain. The Scranton boys hit the Carbondale line heavily and did not seem to mind the weight of their opponents. For a team, the majority of whom never played before, the High School eleven made a very creditable showing against their more experienced opponents. Thayer, Levi, Kelly and Allen did good work, and Ziehlman, at center, who showed weakness, was replaced by Lavelle. The line-up was as follows:

The Show of Silks

Follows in rapid succession the successful Special Dress Goods Display....

If you're a woman and know anything about Scranton, you know the Silk Department at the Globe Warehouse. An opening there means something. It means that you will have a leisurely opportunity of looking over the largest and finest stock of Silks in Pennsylvania. It means that everything that fashion says is right and proper will be there to greet you. It means that you will be there if you are a woman of fashion, for all that the old world and the new world have that is worth seeing will be offered for your inspection in this show.

French Moire Antiques
The silks your mothers were so fond of are back again with twentieth century charms added to them.

Armure Brilliants
Have a beautiful, soft, water-like ripple in the weave that gives them a new daintiness all their own.

Moire Velours and Moire Renaissance Silks..
Are also leaders in the new season's weaves, the quaint wavy patterns of the former and the bold richness of the latter, cannot fail to impress you as being admirably adapted for two distinct types of womanhood that usually find it hard to get just the right thing. Black and colors, of course.

Besides the above we show all the staple silks, as well as the popular favorites, without which no silk stock would be considered complete. Colors and black in all.

Crystal Glaze Silks....
Are a distinct novelty of this season's production. Its delicate texture and rich, soft, lustrous finish are simply superb. All the leading colors and black.

New Payone Velvets
Are a little harder to finish than the Panné Velvets so much in vogue last year. The finish sets it off so that it will brush perfectly either way; consequently it does not muss up or spot with the rain readily.

Widths of Velvets—19, 27 and 32 inches. All the popular shades and makes on view this week.
