WANT THEIR THRES UNITED. JUDGE E. C. NEWCOMB HAD A BUSY DAY. Heard Testimony in Thirteen Cases in Which All Varieties of Domestic Woes Were Set Forth—Helen May Bach Deserted by Her Husband After She Had Come to This Country with Her Children to Join Him—Brutal Husbands Who Abused Their Wives.

Viola V. Tripp vs. Almond Tripp. Mrs. Viola V. Tripp sought a divorce from Almond Tripp on the ground of desertion. They were married Jan. 1, 1885, at Waverly, and lived afterwards in Justus and Jermyn. June 9, 1891, it is alleged, he deserted her.

Mrs. Tripp, her father, Alvarid White, and her brother-in-law, Edward Holgate, testified that the husband turned his wife out of doors and said he would never live with her again. Judge Newcomb asked a number of questions of each witness which would tend to the belief that he suspected collusion between the husband and wife to have the court declare a fraudulent marital knot.

Della Kelly vs. John Kelly. Mrs. Della Kelly, who conducts a pastry shop at 107 Spruce street, presented evidence to support her contention that her husband, John Kelly, now in the county jail for making threats on her life, is a husband whom the law should help her get rid of.

Jessie Kimball vs. Frank P. Kimball. Jessie Kimball, who is suing her husband, Frank P. Kimball, for a divorce, testified that she was married to him on July 27, 1896, and that they lived first at Coxon and afterwards at Chinchilla, at both of which places Kimball conducted hotels.

Albert C. Coddington vs. Elizabeth Coddington. The libellant, Albert C. Coddington, testified that he married his wife at Bath, N. Y., March 3, 1894 and went to Cayutaville, N. Y., until 1896, and soon after he returned to Scranton. In September, 1897, his wife deserted him. Before that she was in the habit of making trips without his consent.

Caroline Smith vs. Philip J. Smith. On Dec. 24, 1885, Miss Caroline Hartman and Philip J. Smith were married by the pastor of the Hickory Street Presbyterian church in South Scranton and went to live with her parents on Prospect avenue for a time, and then rented part of the house of Christ Schreuer. About ten years ago Smith disappeared and Mrs. Smith has since had to support herself and their three children.

Henry Scheuer vs. Pauline Scheuer. The Scheuers were married May 11, 1889, and lived together in South Scranton for about eleven months. Yesterday's testimony was to the effect that Mrs. Scheuer left her husband and returned to her mother's home about eleven months after they were married and has not since returned to her husband's home.

Helen Mary Bach vs. Michael Bach. Desertion was the ground on which Helen Mary Bach seeks a divorce from Michael Bach. They were married twenty-five years ago in Austria and the husband came to this country leaving his wife in Austria. Some years later his wife and their children came here and the reunited husband and wife

SOME PECULIAR CASES. They Were Heard at Yesterday's Meeting of Poor Board—Report of Superintendent Beemer. The poor board was confronted with two peculiar cases at their meeting yesterday, in which a deserted husband figured in one, and an abandoned wife in the other.

Selma Williams vs. John Williams. Desertion and cruel treatment were the grounds in the case of Selma Williams against John Williams. They were married in Wales twelve years ago, by a magistrate, and came to this country five years later, taking a residence on Spring street, North Scranton.

Catharine Coggins vs. John Coggins. John and Catharine Coggins were married Oct. 24, 1883, at Olyphant and for eleven years afterwards she dragged out a hard existence her husband doing little or nothing to support her.

Lorin Shotwell vs. Christiana Shotwell. The divorce case of Lorin Shotwell against Christiana Shotwell came to a sudden termination yesterday. Shotwell lives at Old Forge where he was married Dec. 4, 1900.

Morris Brown vs. Morris Brown. Annie Brown and Annie Brown were married in Binghamton, N. Y., in 1894 and went to Scranton to live, and from there to Clark's Summit.

GRINDSTONE BROKE, WORKMAN KILLED. Henry Wirth Was Working at Stone and Was Terribly Injured by a Fragment of Flying Stone.

A frightful accident occurred at the Cliff works of the American Locomotive company shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, which resulted in the injury and subsequent death of Henry Wirth, of 626 Willow street.

The grindstone was operated by a belt and was 72 inches in diameter and about six inches thick. It broke in a dozen or more pieces, one of which at least passed through the roof of the shop.

It had only been in use since Wednesday, and must have been defective. None of the workmen could explain it otherwise. Wirth was considered one of the most popular employes in the shop, where he had worked a number of years with several of his brothers.

Deceased was 49 years of age and is survived by his wife and four children, Lucy, Emma, Madeline, and Harry. He was a brother of Deputy Register of Deeds William Wirth. His untimely death is mourned by his mother and the following brothers and sisters: Charles, Fred, William, Christ, George, Mrs. Charles Schull and Miss Mary Wirth. He was a member of Camp 430, Patriotic Order Sons of America and was formerly a member of the Scranton Athletic club. The remains were taken to the family residence at 626 Willow street last evening by undertaker Hessinger, but as yet, no arrangements have been made for the funeral.
