OPENING OF THE SEASON

BOWLING ONCE MORE JUMPS INTO POPULARITY.

Teams Comprising the Scranton Bowling League Played Their First Games Last Night in Presence of Large Crowds-Good Work Done by the Re-organized North Scranton Team-Backus Bowlers Took Three from Hampe Team-The Independents Made Poor Score.

The bowling season is now on in full swing. The eight teams comprising the Scranton Bowling league rolled their first games last night and large crowds of enthusiasts were present in all instances to lend encouragement to the

The quality of the bowling ranged from very good to very ragged. The re-organized Cambrians, now known as the North Scranton team made a score of 915 in their first game and the very good total of 2.508. On the other hand the new Independent team rolled two deplorably bad games and came out with the absurdly low total of 1,996.

The North Scranton team had the West Side team as their opponents. The players on the latter team rolled three nice, steady games, keeping their totals up above 750 but the North Enders were entirely too strong for Fiem. The score:

He Was Dead.

The English papers tell this story of an neident in a revision court: A certain person who figured on the register was objected to by one of the agents on the ground that he was dead. The revising barrister declined to accept the assurance, however, and de-manded conclusive testimony on the

Thereupon the agent of the other side rose and gave corroborative evidence as to the decease of the gentleman in ques-

"And pray, sir, how do you know the and pray, sir, now do you know the man's dead?" demanded the barrister. "Well." was the reply. "I don't know. It's very difficult to prove."
"As I suspected," returned the frate barrister. "You don't know whether he's barrister glanced triumphantly around the court. His expression grad-ually underwent a change as the witness esolly continued:

"I was saying, sir, that I don't know whether he is dead or not, but I do know this-they buried him about a month ago on suspicion."

It is not possible for the proprietors to publish more than a very few of the numerous letters received in praise of Chamberlain's Colle, Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy and telling of its remarkable cures. They come from people in every walk in life, and from every state in the Union. The following from Mr. T. W. Greathouse, of Prattsburg, Ga., speaks for itself: "I would have been dead now but for the use of Cham-berlain's Colic, Choiera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me of chronic diarrhoea, after seven years of suffering. I can never say too much in praise of that remedy." For sale by all drug-interests or the honor of the country are breatened, when the national consci s aroused, an army will spring from the soil, so vast, so docile, so intelligent, so formidable, that it need not fear to try conclusions with any army on the face of the earth.

But that was only half the lesson; the other half was equally important-that when that citizen army has done its work. it makes no claim, it expets no conditions of disbandment, but melts away into the vaster body of the nation, as the toam-erested sunlit wave melts back into the profound depths of the ocean. The great host of 1865 censed to exist as an armed force; but in every town and hamlet of the land it lived as a part of the body politic-a nucleus everywhere of courage, patriotism, and self-sacrifice. This was a new product the republic might proudly show to the world, saying. "These be the peaceable heroes I breed from great

There were many brilliant deeds done in the war that resulted in enduring fame to fortunate individual soldiers; but the disbandment of that army, flushed with victory and idolized by the country, re-flected honor upon all our race, a glory in which individual claims are lost atoms of cloud in the crimson splendor of a stormy sunset.

A Noble Record.

For four years you showed yourselves good soldiers-equal to the best the world had seen. For thirty-seven years you have been good citizens; and who shall say in which capacity you have wrought best for the republic? Each year you come together with thinned ranks but un-diminished spirit to feed anew the undying flame upon the altar of patriotism.

I should not have said your ranks are thinned, for the place of each fallen comrade is filled with a loying memory. and who can ever forget the faces which ever had a chance to grow old—the brave young warriors who fell in battle and gained the prize of immortal youth? For them there is no shadow of struggle r poverty; no trouble of gray hairs or ailing strength; no care of the present or fear of the future. The unfading light of morning is forever in their eyes; the blessing of a grateful national hat-lows their names. We salute them with loving tears, from which the bitterness is gone. We hear their young voices in the lear notes of the bugle and the murmus of the fluttering flags. Our answering searts cry, "Hail and farewell, young omrades, till we meet again!"

Our fathers ordained that in this repub lie there should be no distinctions; but man nature is stronger than laws, and nothing can prevent this people from showing honor to all who have deserved well of the country. Every man who has borne arms with credit has earned and is sure to receive a special measure of regard. And it is our peculiar privilege to remember that our armies and navies, lar and volunteer, have always been by of esteem. In distant genera-under different flags in conflicts and small, by land and by sea, they always borne their part nobly. The who fought at Louisburg beneath the r flag of England; the men who with Washington at Yorktown; Lincoln in the Black Hawk war; Crocket in the Alamo; with Taylor uena Vista; with Grant at Vicks and with Lee at Appenattox were stuff of which not only soldiers, citizens, were made. And in our time the young men who stormed the f San Juan, and have borne our the such honor to the forbidden city of a and the jungles of Luzen, have n that their progenitors bred true, men of teday are as good Americans he men of yesterday, and the men of orrow, with God's blessing, will be same. The dominant characteristic of every American army that has ever stepped to the tap of a drum has been valor and humanity. They have—in the long run-carried nothing but good to any they have occupied. As our comrade McKinley-of blessed memory-said; gion but in benediction."

By order of the president of the United States, these historic grounds, the property of the nation, are during this encampment dedicated to your use. They will receive from your presence an added sacredness and value. In the history of the twentieth century, which is opening with such brilliant promise, not the least luminous page will treat of this meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic-soldiers and citizens whom the republic delights to honor.

When the cheers which succeeded Mr. Hay's speech had subsided, General Ell Torrance, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, was introduced to espond to the words of welcome.

He spoke warmly in appreciation of the reception given himself and his comrades, which had been, he said, all that they could expect. Referring to the fact that the ex-soldiers of 1861 had disappointed the predictions of European publicists that they would be a menace to the peace of the country, he declared that there never had been the least danger.

"We were good soldiers because we had been good citizens," he said. "We had been made good citizens at our own firesides and there never has been the least reason to anticipate harm to our national institutions because of our soldiery."

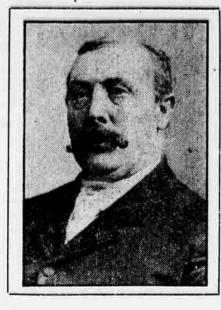

He closed with an expression of the desire of the old soldiers for the prosperity and perpetuity of the republic. Secretary Moody was next introduced. He spoke for Secretary Root, who was detained by official business. Mr. Moody expressed regret that the shallowness of the Potomac had pre-vented some of the war vessels coming to Washington for the inspection of the old soldiers, and then dwelt for a few moments of the inspiration that the example of heroes of 1861 had been to the sailors of the present day. He said that Captain Clarke, of the Oregon, had told the men under his command when at Bahia, Brazil, that they might meet the Spanish fleet and that after reminding the men of the strength of the opposing fleet, had said to them, "if we do meet it, it will not look so well." Captain Clarke had related this incident to him and had added: "I was with Farragut, you know." The secretary said he had asked Admiral Dewey how he had felt in contemplating the mines and torpedoes in Manila Bay the night before attacking the Spanish fleet in the harbor of that city, and that the admiral's reply was he simply had asked himself what Farragut would have done if confronted with similar conditions. The secretary concluded that men inspired by traditions as these never could turn their back on the flag. Governor Bliss, of Michigan, spoke very briefly. Mr. B. F. Bingham, commander of the Department of the Potomac, delivered the welcoming address on behalf of the local Grand Army, and was followed by a few words of thanks to all by Colonel McElroy for their assistance in rendering the occasion so magnificent. A fine specimen of the national colors was unfurled and with the firing of the national salute of 21 guns, the exercises closed. The music for the occasion was supplied by the George W. Cook drum corps, of Denver, and the military band stationed at Fort Meyer, both of which played a number of patriotic airs, which the audience applauded liber-

To the Voters of Lackawanna County:

I Beg to Announce That I am a Candidate for the Office of County Commissioner on the Citizens' Ticket.

I have filed nomination papers for my candidacy for the office of County Commissioner and such move was made only upon the urgent request of many friends who, in the interest of good government, directed me to this duty My nomination papers bore the endorsement of 292 sound representative citizens of this community.

Having taken up the fight, I appeal to the voters of this county to consider my position and recognize the character of my past record. With no small amount of pride I point to the following notice which appeared in the

"It is not every county which can present such a showing in the management of its finances as can Lackawanna this year; but then it is not every county which can boast of commissioners who not only venture to cut the rate of taxation squarely in half, but who actually follow that up by showing a clean reduction of outstanding indebtedness from $315,000 to $160,-000, or well nigh 50 per cent. The only possible inference from such an exhibit is that Commissioners Franz, Flanaghan and Halstead, instead of indulging in loud talk, have been quietly sawing wood. And from what I have seen of their methods, this is precisely the milk in the cocoanut. They are business men first and politicians afterward. And the outcome of their labors would seem to clinch the contention that this is the order which taxpayers most need."

In the interest of the people of this county permit me to call your attention to the fact that in addition to standing resolutely for honest government I have been an aggressive and persistent fighter for improvement on the county roads, bridges und other affairs under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioner and a watchful guardian of the county's finances.

I have not the means to hire carriages on election day and have no committeemen to extoly my virtues from the street corners, but I do go before you as a plain, honest citizen, who promises, il elected, his best service, and one who can point to his past record as a guarantee of what may be expected of me in the future.

THE MARKETS

Wall Street Review. New York, Oct. 6 .- Today's reactionary stock market was typical of a well or dered liquidation. The bears were alert and aggressive all day to take away the market from the long interests, but they showed their fear of overrunning the market by the frequency with which they bought to cover their short contracts. This operation caused a number of checks to the downward course of prices This operation caused a number of checks to the downward course of prices and of rallies reaching from 1 to 2 points in a few stocks. Reading was twice lifted above last week's level by these rallies and rumor was busy in Wall street all day regarding the next developments in the coal strike situation. The continued manifestation of interest in the subject by President Roosevelt gave rise to the expectation of new steps to be taken by him. There were many inconsistent reports as to the intentions of Governor Stone of Peunsylvania concerning the use of military. The anthracite group was inclined to resist the reactionary tendency on this account. St. Paul also made a visible resistance to the decline and shared in the occasional rallies. The determination of the stockholders to issue new stock to the extent of $25,000,000 and the subscription rights thus implied helped the stock. It will be seen that neither of these stocks entirely escaped the prevailing pressure to sell, which carried the general list down from 1 to over 3 points with a large sprinkling of 4 point losses. There were some heavy declines in the inactive list. Wells Fargo and points with a large sprinkling of 4 point losses. There were some heavy declines in the inactive list. Wells Fargo and United States Express dropping lifteen points, New York Air Brake 10, Northwestern nearly 9, Lackawanna 7½ and Brooklyn Union Gas and Rock Island 6 each, Some of the losses were curtailed by the rally which was in progress at the close o fthe market due to covering by shorts. Total sales today, 976,300 shares. Bonds were weak but in less degree than stocks. Total sales par value, $3,995,000. United States 3s coupon advanced ½ per cent, on the last call. Sterling continued to advance today in spite of the renewed stringency of money here and easier money abroad, showing the hopelessness if immediate relief by gold imports.
