MASS MEETING OF LOCALS

Mine Workers' Pass Resolutions Protesting Against Talk of Operators.

Seven locals of the United Mine Workers, representing about 2,500 miners in Carbondale and vicinity, joined in a mass meeting in the Grand Opera house yesterday afternoon to pass resolutions protesting against the utterances of the coal operators in the Washington conference that the miners only hesitated from returning to work because of fear, and that if protection, by means of soldiers, be offered, mining of coal, stopping of the country's needs could be carried on.

From the mine workers' standpoint, the rally was regarded as highly satisfactory. The Opera house was crowded, quite a number of business men and other citizens not within the miners' ranks being present throughout the crowded audience. The miners seemed to respond to the spirit of the occasion, loud applause and open comment, breaking the speeches.

National Organizer Henry Collins, of this city, was chairman. The speakers were: Hon. James J. O'Neil, Mayor of Carbondale; Martin Monahan, of Old Forge, national organizer; and John F. Dempsey, of Scranton, secretary of District No. 1. Resolutions conforming to the wishes of President Mitchell were presented and adopted amid strong applause.

Mayor O'Neil, in his address, condemned the assertion that Carbondale among other communities, was lawless and in a state of anarchy. He also declared as wrong the attitude of the operators in the Washington conference.

Organizer Monahan spoke both in Italian and English and dwelt chiefly on the alleged bribery of the coal company officials to disrupt the miners' union and to cause a break in their ranks. In doing so he paid his respects to whom he termed "Bae, the Divine Bae."

Secretary Dempsey's talk was chiefly a plea to the miners to be loyal to their leader, President Mitchell, particularly at this time which in his opinion is the crisis of the strike. He asked that they give the lie to President Bae that the miners were staying out for money and not because they were fighting against conditions that were intolerable to them.

At the conclusion of the meeting the resolutions, prepared by a committee composed of one member from each of the seven locals, were read and adopted by a rising vote. The resolutions renewed obedience to John Mitchell, promised to remain out until their demands are conceded, notwithstanding the presence of all the soldiers in the United States, and condemned the coal and iron police, who were designated as "Bugs."

Mayor O'Neil was applauded with spirit when presented by Chairman Collins. After touching on the purpose of the United Mine Workers in redressing in their own helpful way what he believed to be wrong, he took up the claim of the operators as to a state of anarchy. The mayor spoke with an earnestness and force that showed beneath a feeling of resentment of the operators' utterances.

"It has been asserted that there is a state of anarchy here," he said; "violence is prevalent and the mob, not law and order rules. I am here as a citizen and as one in authority to deny these assertions as false. The citizens here are law-abiding; have the highest respect for the law, as high as any place in the nation. For anyone to assert to the contrary is false, damnable and libelous. The people here are never more peaceable in my life here; everything is as calm as a Sunday afternoon. We can all go to sleep like children without the fear of danger befalling us. There has been no cry raised from the pulpit, no one in authority has asked for troops for us and it cannot be pointed out that there is any danger, that any man has to remain awake to guard his home."

Mayor O'Neil indicated that he did not care to go into the merits of the issue, but as a citizen, as between the attitude of the operators and the miners' representatives in the Washington conference, he believed the operators to be in the wrong. It was requested by President Roosevelt to not enter into the discussion of the issue. But the operators were guilty of a breach of confidence; they did discuss the issues and they made assertions that were false and accusations that they did not prior to this. In a case of this sort the place, time and persons should be specified and if there is unlawful taking of life, it is a crime. There are due processes of law to be followed. The guilty one may be apprehended and justice allowed. This was the course; not the unsupported statements.

The men here are supporting the schools, they are maintaining the institutions of the municipal government and they are upholding the law. How then can there be a state of anarchy? In conclusion the mayor hoped that the men would keep up and maintain the spirit of order and dignified manhood which they have held during the strike. If they did this, he counseled them, they would win and hoped it would be soon.

The throng of miners were keenly attentive during Mayor O'Neil's talk and they indicated their approval by vigorous applause at frequent intervals.

Organizer Monahan in his address in English said the great question in the strike was not the calling out of the militia, but one of bribery. Agents of the operators, he said, are among the miners trying to bribe them to break the ranks. The operators are in the last ditch and are approaching United Mine Workers, right and left and on every occasion. But these men are true to the organization and when offered money to create discord or aid in any way, they will not be so easily won over to the United Mine Workers' office and report the attempts at bribery.

Mr. Monahan asked if according to "Bae, Divine Right Bae," the men were staying out simply because they wanted protection. No, they were not, he said, but were out to remain until the demands are granted. "We want them and we must have them before we go to work. Let them send federal troops or any others; it won't make any difference." He alleged that there are agents of the coal companies in the big cities recruiting men to work in the mines on the strength of representations that they were to be employed on railroad work at $2.50 per day. Their car fare home was promised in case the work was unsatisfactory. In a case a few days ago, at a mine down the valley, the seven men were not allowed transportation when they refused to take work at which they were not familiar. These same men had to be taken care of by the United Mine Workers. These are men who have just come to the country, he said, who do not know what a labor union is or the meaning of a strike.

Finally Mr. Monahan vouched for the fidelity of the Italian mine workers who he assured would not go back until the strike was declared off.

Secretary Dempsey covered a good deal of the ground gone over by Organizer Monahan, and in addition made an earnest plea for loyalty to President Mitchell. "You men need John Mitchell now, and John Mitchell needs you."

The resolutions which were prepared by the committee, composed of John Barrett, of local 844; Michael McCann, of local 84; Hon. Thomas Mooney, of local 909; John Meldon, of local 1397; William Pureck, of local 1700; Felix Paone, of local 1806; and Thomas J. Murphy, of local 1811 submitted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the committee of the United Mine Workers of America, called on all local unions to meet this day for the purpose of giving expression of their sentiment on the present strike and to elect a national committee to represent the United Mine Workers of America, as well as all the states, were among us, their presence would not have one of us from the stand who would not be there.

Resolved, That we condemn the uncalculated attack made upon us by the presidents of the coal companies, and we say we are men and women and being unlawful acts of all kinds to further our ends, and we say to the honorable president of these United States, when the coal company presidents made these charges against us, they knew that the facts did not warrant anything of the kind, as lawlessness of every kind is now, and has been since the strike, cried down by both groups. Public opinion is for the union. We further wish to condemn without measure the actions of the thugs or so-called deputies, who have been and are still, trying to create trouble, so that the public may be made to believe that their overt acts were committed by striking miners.

Resolved, Further, that we offer our services to the local authorities at all times for the proper keeping of the peace in our midst.

ANOTHER PIONEER ENTERS INTO REST

Patrick Lunny, One of the Town's Early Citizens, Succumbs, After Lingering Illness.

Another of the pioneers of Carbondale has entered into eternal sleep. He is Patrick A. Lunny, who succumbed at the residence, 104 South Main street, shortly after the noon hour yesterday. He had been sick for about six years, with a complication of diseases, the climax to a life of unceasing activity, being the cause of death.

The death of Mr. Lunny marks the passing of one of the characters of Carbondale. He came here in his youth from New York city, where he was a newsboy on that city's busy streets. He was a vigorous, active young man, and entered into the activities of the growing village. In this way, the events of those days were strongly impressed on his mind. His mirth and humor, characteristic of his race, lent a charm to the early-day stories that he was wont to relate when pressed for news. There was an historical importance, also, attached to his knowledge of the pioneer Carbondale. For years he was engineer on the old Gravity, when water power turned the wheels. For many years, Mr. Lunny was engaged in the wholesale beer business. About five years ago, acquiring a competence, he retired from work and spent his leisure hours about the drug store of his son, Mr. Lunny. He was a genial soul, whose company was always a pleasure. His gentleness and kindness won him many friends, who will mourn the loss of him.

The deceased is survived by his wife, who was Miss Kate Glennon, and to whom he was wedded about forty-five years ago, and three sons, Thomas, Patrick and John A. Lunny, the North Main street druggist; one sister, Mrs. Kate Corcoran, of the West, and one brother, Daniel Lunny, of Pittston, former chief of police of Carbondale.

The funeral will take place Saturday morning. The procession will leave the residence at 9:30, and arrive at 10 o'clock a high mass of requiem will be sung in St. Rose church. Burial will be in St. Rose cemetery.

OWEN FINNEY DEAD

A Well-Known Resident of Dundaff Passed Away.

Owen Finney, a prominent and respected resident of Dundaff, died at his home last evening, during the hour between 6 and 7 o'clock. Mr. Finney had been ill about one week with typhoid fever. Death came to him quietly and he passed away surrounded by many sorrowing relatives.

Mr. Finney was 60 years old and had lived here all his life, and was quite well known and generally respected throughout this part of the county. He was a man of steady habits, with qualities that won for him a wide circle of friends. He is survived by one brother, Howell, and two sisters, Mrs. Rev. S. S. Day and Miss Jennie Finney, of Florida. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

BELL IN PLACE

New Chiming Piece in Tower of Methodist Church.

The new sweet-sounding chime for the First Methodist church was erected yesterday in the new tower of the reconstructed church.

The placing of the new bell in place is something of more than passing importance, for the interest is wide-spread. The cost of the bell is several hundred dollars, but the purchase of the bell was made from the old bell, which was cracked in the recent fire.

The bell is larger than the old one and next to the one in St. Rose church, the largest one in the city.

THE SOCIAL WHIRL.

Mirthful Hours Passed Away Among Many Young Folks—The Brokers' Dance.

A number of friends of Miss Gertrude Smith were entertained at her home on Belmont street, Tuesday evening. The evening was very pleasantly spent, several interesting diversions being indulged in. Several vocal solos, rendered by Miss Edith Carey and Willis Wilson, were well received. Refreshments were served at a late hour, after which several flashlights were taken by Francis Kirk.

Among those present were: Misses Edith Carey, Mary Ruten, Gertrude Smith, Lizzie Deagan, and Messrs. Richard Wilson, Harry Robinson and Francis Kirk.

The guests at the surprise party in honor of Mrs. M. J. Oliver at her home on Sumner avenue, Wednesday evening, were: Messdames Clark Atwood, William Correll, Charles Lee, James Bae, set, Edwin Kenworthy, Fred Sluman, Owen Reese, Randall Stevens, James Smith, Theodore Townsend, Vincent Swingle, John Lingfelder, William Anderson, George Purdon, Jason Foster, Fred Howell, E. J. Bly, Henry Lewis, Samuel Vail, A. B. Cook, Joseph Nicholson, Charlotte Histed, Boyd Chase, Charles Tucker, Walter Nye, and Misses Annie Stephens and Emma Jung, and Messrs. Frederick Sluman, E. J. Bly, James Smith, Merion J. Oliver, Rexford Lafayette Nicholson and Boyd Theodore Oliver.

Among the younger society people of the town there is eager anticipation of the dance to be given by the very social "Brokers" in the Burke building on the evening of Wednesday, October 15.

Characteristic of the young men in this circle of entertainers, more than ordinary preparations are under way for the night's pleasure. It is intended to provide a surprise in the decorations of the dance room. Decorations, lavished in quantity, but tasteful in design, will transform the hall and make it a picture of light and color. There will be an abundant floral display, which will be enhanced by a flood of light in various electrical illuminations. Bric-a-brac will also be generously displayed. The music will be in keeping. Perhaps no better music could be provided for a function of this character in Carbondale as the augmented Mozart orchestra—twelve pieces—will spread the melody of the latest dance music. It will undoubtedly shine among the social events of the season. Invitations have been issued in large numbers to expected guests here and at Wilkes-Barre, and other valley towns.

JERMYN—MAYFIELD.

The employees of the local silk mill yesterday became imbued with the strike sentiment and at noon all but about a dozen went on strike, the immediate cause being the discharge of one of the girls for refusing to sweep the floor underneath her frame.
