

NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA

TUNKHANNOCK.

TAYLOR.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Tunkhannock, Oct. 10.—Mrs. George M. Kinner, of Mehoopany, is caring for her sister, Miss Bessie Vaughn, who is seriously ill at her home on Foundry street.

Adolph Simon, of Meshoppen, is stopping in town for a few days. He was brought a short time ago by a county treasurer against the Warren, Bushnell & Glessner company, a corporation which is engaged in the manufacture and sale of farm machinery, having their factory and principal office in Ohio. They maintain a warehouse and office here in charge of D. W. Stark and transact a large amount of business, and the mercantile appraiser assessed a tax against them amounting to upwards of $30, as retailers of merchandise. This they refused to pay, claiming they did not come within the definition of retailers as to be subject to a mercantile tax.

The installation of officers of the Junior Order of American Mechanics took place on Thursday evening, and was followed by an oyster supper, which was much enjoyed by the members of the order.

Robert Graham and family have moved into the Henninger house, on Second street, formerly occupied by Lewis H. Comstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Jordan left on train No. 7 Thursday afternoon for the west, where they go for the benefit of Mrs. Jordan's health, which has been very poor for the past year. Their destination is Las Cruces, New Mexico.

F. H. Shoek is having a new roof put on his photograph studio on Warren street.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Hawley, Oct. 10.—H. E. Kipp, of Wilkes-Barre, returned from Port Jervis, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Avery, of Brookline, N. Y., have been the guests of W. C. Knapp and family. This week the friends of Mrs. Fred White are pleased to see her out after another serious illness.

Miss Lella Clark, of Poughkeepsie, was in town Tuesday.

Mrs. M. Smith and daughter, Alice, of White Mills, wheeled to town, Thursday.

Mrs. E. Hapeman is entertaining her daughter, Mrs. R. J. Coulson, of Denver, Col.

Mrs. Helen Adams, wife of Thomas Malla, after a long period of suffering, died Tuesday morning. She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Hazel, two sisters, Ida, and Edna, and two brothers, Jacob and William. The funeral services were held Thursday morning at St. Philomena's church.

In the death of Thomas Valentine Taft, Hawley mourns one of her oldest and most highly esteemed citizens. An D. D. pastor. Services Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. All welcome.

PECKVILLE. Presbyterian church, Rev. S. H. Moon, D. D., pastor. Services Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. All welcome.

POISONED ARROWS. Bushmen Derive the Deadly Matter From the Black Arrow.

From the San Francisco Call. To describe the methods in the manufacture of arrows, and of obtaining the poison with which they are coated, we must come to the custom prevailing in that quarter of the world called Namaland. The Bushman arrow consists of a very small triangular iron head fixed in a short piece of wood, to which it is tied tightly with thin leather reins, but in such a way that the iron head can be easily removed from the shaft and the arrow is left to drift in the wind.

UNIONDALE. Special to the Scranton Tribune. Uniondale, Oct. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Curtis attended the Grand Army encampment in Washington, D. C.

Friends in Hudson, N. Y., are entertaining Mrs. Robert E. Tennant and daughter, Alberta. The Tennants and Zenos Rounds has returned from a sojourn among relatives in Binghamton, N. Y.

Arthur Foster has become a member of our local band.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bronson are in possession of a fine piece of art. It is a portrait of their late and greatly beloved daughter, Arletta. It speaks volumes of credit for the artist.

Mrs. J. Randall and Mrs. P. N. Woodman, both milliners of Lake Como, for several days' stay, have left in interest of business.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayden are entertaining their niece, Mrs. Fitzgerald, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayden visited friends at Herlick Center this week.

NICHOLSON. Special to the Scranton Tribune. Nicholson, Oct. 10.—Ray Potter is on a sick list.

A. Sisk, of Factoryville, was a caller in town Friday.

Mrs. Clara Brown is visiting friends in town.

Rev. L. L. Lewis was a caller in town Thursday.

The work on the new Methodist Episcopal church is progressing rapidly.

E. L. Shout is having steam heat and electricity put into his home on State street.

Mrs. V. C. Decker and Mrs. C. H. MacConnell were callers in Scranton today.

PRICEBURG. There will be a meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union in the Fifth Street Methodist church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

FREE ELECTRIC BELT OFFER. There is a new invention for the prevention and relief of rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, and other painful conditions. It is a simple, effective, and safe device, and is offered free to all who are afflicted with these troubles. Write for full particulars to the inventor, J. H. B. Co., Chicago.

the puff adder, which is sometimes called the "ringhake." Having found the snake, by a clever thrust of the stick the animal is imprisoned just behind the head by the two prongs of the stick. The prepared stone is then placed in the mouth and the upper jaw forced tight back. By this rough treatment the poison glands are compressed and two deadly drops are caught on the stone. The poison is then well mixed with the resinous matter and is ready for use.

AMERICAN MANNERS.

We Are Not Without the Courtesies, Though We May Appear So.

From the New York Commercial-Advertiser. Americans are irreverent, but they are intentionally rude only to those whose self-esteem is much too obvious. If you are pompous and arrogant and assertive, they will rejoice to "take you down"; but otherwise they will show the essence of true politeness, which is a regard for the rights of others. In a crowd they will not try to jostle you out of your place; they will even good humoredly inconvenience themselves to make a place for you.

American irreverence and American impertinence are, indeed, never studied or outrageous, but semi-humorous and often based on a kind of fundamental friendliness. Thus, when Prince Henry was riding in Broadway last spring in an open carriage, several young fellows called out cheerily, "Hello, Hen!" Of course, a foreigner would interpret this as a deliberate insult, a gross offensiveness directed against a royal personage by a crowd of hoodlums delighting to outrage a prince. But probably it was nothing of the sort. It was not courtly, that greeting, but what it doubtless meant was: "You're a good fellow—we're glad to have you with us!"

The bad manners of the American, in fact, oftenest arise from excessive friendliness, a too great readiness to clap you on the back and assure you of his comradeship. If, as Kipling says, the American would "march with Destiny for beer," it is not because he despises Destiny, but because he wishes to treat Destiny as he would himself. He is a fair show in the game.

When it comes to fundamentally serious matters, then the American shows the inherited graciously and even the tactfulness of the Anglo-Saxon, with the kindness of the transplanted race still evident. Captain Philip at Santiago, when he checked the cheering of his victorious crew, was typically national; and, indeed, all Americans respect and feel the majesty of death.

Nothing could have shown this more impressively than the hush which fell upon 70,000,000 of people at the hour of President McKinley's funeral. Nowhere in the whole country was there observable such a scene as that which London witnessed when the hoodlums came out and yobbed in drunken revelry on the night of the postponed coronation and while the king lay very near to death. Visit the mausoleum at Charlottenburg near Berlin, where Prussian kings and queens are buried, and watch a typical German crowd go pushing, squeezing and guffawing past the tombs and then compare them with the silent throng of "irreverent" Americans who daily stand uncovered beside the burial place of Grant or before the sepulcher of Washington.

The contrast has its lesson; and we need not value it the less because it justifies our sense of national self-respect and helps to nullify the foreign gibe about our national bad manners.

THEATRICAL.

"Human Hearts" Today. "Human Hearts" will have its final presentation at the Academy this evening and Monday. It has been drawing large and enthusiastic audiences at every performance.

Last Appearance of "Phroso." "Phroso," the marvelous mechanical man will be seen for the last time at the Dixie theater this evening. The White and Stuart Comedy company also appear in a new play which is exceedingly funny and well acted.

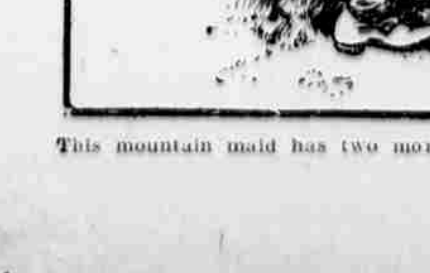

"The Climbers." The sale of seats for "The Climbers" this afternoon and evening at the Lyceum has been very large for both performances, though there are still a number of good seats left.

"King Dodo." At the Lyceum next Wednesday and Thursday nights and Thursday matinee will occur the first appearance of the Castle Square Opera company in Piquette and London's successful comedy opera, "King Dodo."

NOTICE. Hallett and crew will run No. 52, Friday, Oct. 10. Baxter and crew will run No. 51, Friday, Oct. 10. Thomson and crew will run No. 52, Saturday, Oct. 11.
