

SOMETHING ABOUT "Bargains in Eye Glasses"

There is no such thing as "bargains" in Eye Glasses. Glasses which are worth $1 for this week only are not worth any more the next week or any other week. In fact they are never worth the money asked for, or better still are too dear at any price. Your eyes need a thorough examination by a reliable Eye-Specialist before you get your glasses, and this examination is worth some money. To get the right glasses is worth everything—wearing wrong glasses means killing your eyesight. Your eyes are your life and no bargain-counter article.

Come and consult me. I charge nothing for consultation, but I charge for examination. Isn't it worth the money to know your eyes are alright, or if they are not, to be satisfied to get the right glasses?

One charge covers the entire cost of examination, glasses and frames.

An alarm of fire turned in from Box 35, at the corner of Penn and Lackawanna avenues, last night at 9:25 o'clock, brought out all the central city companies. A sand car and a double truck passenger car collided at Sunset avenue on the Dunmore Suburban line yesterday morning. The cars were badly damaged but no one was injured. Jaeger was motorman of the passenger car. The force of the collision threw the latter off the track.

HOHMAN WANTED TO SECURE REWARD

Thought Out the Scheme to Have Two Innocent Men Arrested for the Mary Quinn Murder.

It now appears that George Hohman's object in giving alleged information concerning the murderers of Mary Quinn was to secure the $1,000 reward offered by city and county officials for the arrest and conviction of the murderers.

This is Hohman's second attempt to secure a reward for something of which he apparently has no clue whatever. During the street car strike a year ago, he volunteered what seemed to be reliable information to the police regarding the perpetrators of the dynamite outrages.

Investigations were made, but no arrests followed, for the information proved misleading. In relating the story about the Quinn murderers, Hohman had particular stress on the reward offered, and wanted positive assurance that he would get it if he succeeded in bringing the guilty parties to justice.

He even went so far as to present the names of the alleged murderers written on slips of card-board, together with their addresses, and intimated that his wife had also heard the alleged confessions made. When an officer went in search of the men wanted, Hohman accompanied him, and identified one of the men arrested.

At the time set for the hearing, both of the accused men were on hand, but they waited in vain for their accuser, and now he has mysteriously disappeared. The officials were unable to locate him yesterday. His story is not credited now, but its seeming plausibility caused the officials to lend an attentive ear to it at first.

OPENING OF THE INSTITUTE

COUNTY TEACHERS IN SESSION AT THE COURT HOUSE.

W. W. Stetson, State Superintendent of Schools for Maine, Declared Most Child Study to Be Rank Idiotcy—Pleaded for a More Rational System of Education—F. L. Jones, of Indiana, Began a Course of Lectures on the Philosophy of History.

COUNTY SUPPT. J. C. TAYLOR.

The standard of the county teachers' institutes conducted in Lackawanna county in past years is a very high one and there is every reason to believe from the lectures given at yesterday afternoon's opening session of the twenty-fourth annual institute that it will be lived up to this year.

The morning session was conducted in the main court room, as all the sessions will be, and was devoted entirely to the enrollment of the two hundred and more teachers, the distribution of note books and the assignment of seats, followed by an informal social session.

Professor John T. Watkins began the first of a series of vocal lessons at the opening of the afternoon session, and was followed by Frank L. Jones, superintendent of schools for Indiana, who began a course of lectures on the philosophy of history as viewed from a modern standpoint. Superintendent Jones is a young man who typifies in everything that he says and does the vigorous and sturdy manhood of his home state.

The particular topic on which he spoke was "Fundamental Relations in History." He emphasized the necessity of throwing out new questions, the answering of which will require not simply the memory of a date or name or incident on the part of the pupil, but a knowledge of the facts related to the subject under consideration. There is altogether too much pure memory work in connection with the study of history as taught in many schools, he said.

Some Definite Facts.

If the pupil is asked what year America was discovered and who discovered it, the answers to these questions merely require the knowledge of some definite fact, but if a pupil is asked who Washington was chosen as the capital of the United States a great variety of facts and circumstances are required to be known before a correct answer can be given.

It will be necessary, to know that Alexander Hamilton desired to have the new nation established on a financial basis, and with this in view that he felt it necessary for the government to pay off not only the national indebtedness, but the indebtedness of the several colonies; that the representatives from the south were opposed to this and that Hamilton effected a compromise by agreeing to give the support of the North to the placing of the capital in the South if the southern representatives would agree to support his financial plan.

To learn history merely as a chronological study is valuable, said Mr. Jones, but there are much better ways of learning it. Two of the fundamental relations to be observed in the study of history, he said, are the relations existing between the material world and man's mind, because of the effect of the world of matter on a mind and the influence of man's mind on the material world.

Miss Julia E. Rogers, director of the correspondence course in agriculture at Cornell university, and a woman with a wide reputation as an instructor in nature work, began a course of lectures on that particular line of work immediately following Superintendent Jones. Her topic was "Signs of Preparation for Winter."

Talk About Trees.

Her time was limited, and she therefore devoted her talk to the trees and told many interesting things about the changes which take place in them on the approach of the winter months. The leaves fall from the trees, she said, because otherwise they would be destroyed by the frost and the tree would expend the most of its vitality in trying to keep them alive.

She described at length how the rich nutritive cells of the leaves are withdrawn into the twigs in the fall and stored away for the winter. Nothing exactly definite is known as to what causes the coloring of the dying leaves, she said, but the latest theory evolved seems to be very plausible. This is that a great deal of rubbish is gathered up from the earth by the roots and sent by means of the sap into the leaves. Much of this is believed to be mineral substance and the chemical changes which it undergoes is believed to cause the beautiful colorings.

A typical New Englander in appearance and talk is W. W. Stetson, state superintendent of schools for Maine, who began a course of lectures on "Pedagogy and School Management." He is a quick-witted, brainy man with an utter detestation of shams, as he proved in almost the first sentence he uttered, and he became immediately popular with the teachers.

The first point he sought to emphasize was that the psychology of the future will embody very little of the new psychology, which means little, and very much of the old psychology, and right in this connection he paid his respects to the child study fad.

A Form of Disease.

"There is a form of disease," he said, "known as child study. There may be ranker forms of idiotcy, but if there are I have no knowledge of them." He declared that he was not certain

ABSORBING PROBLEM

Of the Present Day.

The absorbing problem of today is, how to expend one's income so as to attain the best results; that is, get full value for one's money.

It may truthfully be said that this has been, is, and always will be an absorbing problem to those with limited means; the fact remains that, with the price of living necessities constantly rising one must husband one's resources more carefully than ever before if he would live within his income. In saying that prices are rising, we except one article which has come to occupy a prominent place in the family medicine chest, and that is the specific for piles or hemorrhoids known as Pyramid Pile Cure; this remedy is still sold by druggists at the old price of fifty cents, and one dollar, and these prices will remain unchanged. Those who desire the permanent relief and cure, after years of suffering, do not need to be told of its merits; others are advised that it is the greatest boon ever discovered, to all those afflicted with any form of piles; it is suppository in form, is easily applied, reaches the seat of the trouble, and gives immediate relief and a lasting cure.

The reader may have tried salves, ointments and lotions without benefit, and feeling that his money has been wasted, resolves to suffer on rather than experiment further. The reason for the failure of these treatments is, that they do not reach the seat of the trouble, and hence do not remove the cause, as does Pyramid Pile Cure. A little book describing piles, their cause and cure, is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and anyone who desires a copy by sending name and address to above firm. As showing the estimation in which this remedy is held by the public it may interest the reader to know that its sales now exceed those of all other pile remedies combined.

down all child study, but only those persons who seek to make of it an intricate and obtuse subject.

The first four years of a child's life, he said, should be spent at home. The next four years, when his attention should be given to the kindergarten, and then for the next four years he should be taught the fundamentals. After that he will have so far developed as to be able to reason things out for himself. Too many teachers, he said, want the child to reach definite conclusions during his first years in school.

There are many foolish things taught in the line of nature study, too, he declared. Children should not be asked how the grass grows, but should be taught to drink down the message which the growing grass brings to them. Better work will be done, he said, if teachers hold their text-books farther away from their noses and stand up straight.

County Superintendent J. C. Taylor, who is presiding at the institute, announced that just before the message of the Susquehanna county teachers are desirous of having the Lackawanna county teachers unite with them in running an excursion to Washington during the week of Dec. 15. He suggested that the teachers give the matter some thought with the idea of taking some action later on. The sessions will be resumed this morning at 9 o'clock.

FOR FLORENCE MISSION.

Concert Given at St. Luke's Parish House Last Night.

The concert given by the vocal club, Madame Timmerman-Randolph's pupils, for the benefit of the Florence mission, was well attended, notwithstanding that the rains descended and the floods came about the time when the patrons started for St. Luke's parish house.

The programme was a delight from beginning to end. Mrs. H. H. Brady, jr., was among the favorite soloists and sang with even more fervor than her usual spirit and charm. Miss Grace Spencer's great solo, "Ave Maria," with violin and obligato accompaniment, was brilliantly interpreted.

Miss Ethel Shoemaker, whose talent will be known far beyond the circle where it is now heard, was particularly happy in the "Flower Song." She was the soloist in the chorus, "The Hunt's Up," conducted by Mr. Chance. No one created more enthusiasm than Miss Brady in her solo, "The Song of the Beautiful Voice," which she sang with a real contralto tone with a superb range. Her rendering of the "Ave Maria" was one of the gems of the evening.

Ralph Williams gave two solos from the song-cycle, "Summer-time," that afforded unalloyed satisfaction. The singularly pure quality of his upper tones was pleasingly evident in the duet with Mrs. Brady.

Mrs. T. C. von Storck sang charmingly a little German song, and another in English, in a particularly sweet voice. Miss Isabel Clarke's big contralto, so resonant and flexible, was especially well placed in her two solos. Miss Dorothy Rose Gullen gave a lovely "Protestation" with Mrs. Williams' obligato accompaniment. Miss Elizabeth Ruppel, who sings with so much grace, gave two pretty solos. Her voice is remarkably like Mrs. Brady's in quality.

Miss Henrietta Harris and Miss Alice Burrill sang charmingly in little solos. The chorus work directed by Mr. Chance was excellent. Charles Doersam and Miss Genevieve Baker were the accompanists. Fred Widmayer played the violin. The following sang in the chorus:

Mrs. R. E. Watres, Mrs. T. C. von Storck, Miss Grace Spencer, Miss Henrietta Harris, Miss Rose Gullen, Miss Eleanor Reynolds, Miss Elizabeth Ruppel, Miss Anna Salmon, Miss Alice Burns, Miss Clara Langford, Miss Ethel Shoemaker, Miss Isabel Clarke, Miss Isabel Mitchell, Miss Mamie Delaney, Miss Mary Keef, Miss Via Jones, S. H. Kingsbury, Earl Hollister, Ralph Williams, R. M. Surdam, assisted by J. W. Waite, Mr. Gleason, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Battin.

ENGINE JUMPED TRACK.

Delaware and Hudson Passengers Received a Shaking Up.

The Delaware and Hudson passenger train due in this city from Wilkes-Barre at 10 p. m., ran into some culm which had washed on the track near the Lackawanna stone bridge last night and the locomotive jumped the rails. The train was brought to a sudden stop and the passengers received a severe shaking up, but no one was injured.

The track was blocked for over an hour, and the train leaving for Wilkes-Barre at 10:41 was delayed for some time. The locomotive was somewhat damaged.

THORNTON INSURANCE CASE.

Re-Trial Resumed Yesterday Before Judge Archbald.

The re-trial of the Thornton insurance case, from Wilkes-Barre, was resumed yesterday afternoon, before Judge Archbald in United States court. Mrs. Thornton was the only witness on the stand. She testified in direct examination to the character and value of the furniture alleged to have been destroyed in the fire, and gave numerous details of the time and other circumstances of the purchase of the same.

On cross-examination, Mr. Leuhman asked Mrs. Thornton a series of questions hypothesized upon her cross-examination at the former trial. In a number of instances Mrs. Thornton denied that she had made the answers which the cross-examiner queried her about.

Mrs. Thornton was on the stand at adjourning time.

CHEERED WITH PROSPECTS.

Presbyterian Clergymen Encouraged Over Strike Settlement.

The pastors of a number of Presbyterian churches met in Rev. S. C. Logan's study yesterday and discussed the general outlook for the church movement in the Lackawanna valley, and expressed themselves as being cheered with the prospects of peace in their field of labor during the coming year.

The unity of church work in the city was discussed, and officers were elected for the coming year, as follows: Chairman, Rev. W. R. Moon, of Packville; secretary, Rev. S. C. Logan; vice-president and treasurer, Rev. Joseph H. Odell.
