SCRANTON, NOVEMBER 11, 1902.

Theoretically, Dr. Hillis is mistaken when he says that the coal operators have deserted the non-union men...

Republican Progress.

THE ONE BIG lesson of last week's election is that the country is still solidly Republican.

It was never broader or firmer or deeper than it is today. In spite of the fact that many sound money Democrats who co-operated with the Republican party in 1896 and 1900 have been won back to the old colors...

The electoral college now contains 476 votes, 229 being necessary for a majority. Including states which voted earlier than the November election, and also New Hampshire, which last week by a fluke elected a Democratic governor...

REPUBLICAN. DEMOCRATIC.

Table showing electoral college results by state for Republican and Democratic parties.

DOUBTFUL.

Of the states in the Republican column, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, with an aggregate of 45 electoral votes, voted in 1896 for Bryan and free silver.

Better let Judge Pennington make his own cabinet.

Safeguard Interstate Commerce

SPECIAL effort is to be made at the short session of congress to secure favorable action upon the amended Elkins bill to enlarge the jurisdiction and powers of the interstate commerce commission.

Section 1 provides that any definite order made by the commission declaring what rate or rates or regulation or practice affecting the same shall be substituted for those found, after hearing and determination of any formal complaint made to the commission, to be unjustly discriminatory or unreasonable, shall become operative within 30 days after written notice to the affected carriers, and shall remain operative for one year.

Once again congress will have a chance to move whether it is influenced most by duty or pressure. Secretary Root's demand for the restoration of the caution will put every member on record.

The chief lesson of the Mollath trial is that when in trouble it pays to have friends and a fortune.

These orders are not subject to review.

Section 3 provides that if any carrier shall refuse or neglect to obey or perform any order of the commission above authorized, obedience and performance shall be summarily enforced by writ of injunction or other process to be issued by any circuit court of the United States upon petition of the commission; and in addition thereto the offending carrier is subjected to a penalty of not less than $5,000 for every day's continuance of the violation of such order.

Section 4 declares that any act of an agent or officer of a carrier corporation which constitutes a misdemeanor under the interstate-commerce law shall be held to be a misdemeanor by such corporation, and subject the corporation to like penalties prescribed against individuals.

Section 5 provides that in any proceeding for the enforcement of the statutes relating to interstate commerce, all persons, in addition to the carrier, interested in or affected by the rate, regulation or practice under consideration may be included, and orders may be made with reference to such additional parties in the same manner as to carriers.

Section 6 authorizes the commission, whenever it has reasonable ground for belief that a common carrier is transporting freight or passengers at less than published tariff rates, or is rendering any additional service beyond what is specified in its published tariffs, to present a petition to the circuit court of the United States having jurisdiction, alleging such practice, whose duty it shall be to summarily enquire into the circumstances and, upon being satisfied of the truth of the allegation, to enforce observance to the published tariffs by proper orders and process, which shall be enforceable both against the parties interested in the traffic and against the carrier.

Section 7 provides that all existing laws relative to testimony in cases or proceedings under or connected with the "act to regulate commerce" shall also apply to any case or proceeding authorized by this act.

The need of provisions like the above have been repeatedly shown, never more clearly than in the case of Cove Bros against the Lehigh Valley Railroad company, involving discriminating tolls against independently owned anthracite coal. At present the interstate-commerce commission is little more than a clerical body useful for purposes of inquiry but without power to enforce its judgments.

A strike of railway employees is the next danger to be feared. As a rule the brotherhood men are averse to striking and fortunate in securing the majority of their demands by more peaceful means. But the recent intervention of the president in the coal strike is a strong temptation to certain classes of workmen to strike for the purpose of getting the president interested in their grievances.

It is to be hoped that this tendency will be discouraged by the more astute leaders of organized labor and that fewer instances of more strikes shall be the rule of the future. The goose, prosperity, which has been laying the golden eggs may not always be so fruitful as she is today and it would be a pity to torment her unnecessarily or for any but the very gravest reasons.

In the regular order General Wood will be at the head of the army list for fourteen years. But the regular order is a pretty poor order, since it recognizes nothing but seniority of commission and appoints its rewards according to the accidents of birth and death.

Once again congress will have a chance to move whether it is influenced most by duty or pressure. Secretary Root's demand for the restoration of the caution will put every member on record.

Dr. Hillis Wants a Revival of Ethics

A SERMON was preached by Rev. Dr. Hillis in Plymouth church, Brooklyn, Sunday morning which recalls the days when the pulpit of that famous church was a power throughout the land.

"During the past year we have made history rapidly," said Dr. Hillis. "From combinations of wealth that have lessened the cost of production we have gone swiftly to combinations for plunder, that represent stock watered indefinitely, and foisted upon the public by greedy and unscrupulous stock jugglers."

"In a discussion of the laws of God and the country, we are not concerned either with organized capital's struggle for larger dividends or organized labor's struggle for larger wages. These are the two giants, and need no sympathy or justification. Every sensible man believes in capital and its honest combination, and every reasonable man believes in not simply the right of labor to organize, but its duty, in the interest of self-defense against oppressive employers."

"The non-union men, who represent 50 per cent. of the trades, whose sons are forbidden the right to become apprentices, and whose wrongs are above all other wrongs whatsoever, justify a plea. Organized capital has deserted non-union men. Organized labor mistreats them. And, just as one hundred soldiers, organized and with a leader, can scatter a crowd of ten thousand, so the non-union men, a hundred representing organized labor, terrorize and browbeat the eighty non-union men, who are being driven lower, made more and more normal and more patriotic, until at last, in their despair, they are ready to turn against the capitalist who will not defend them, and the union men, the protectors of whose laws are refused them."

"Some pulpits have fixed their eyes so intently on the great wrongs of the labor movement, that they have no kind word for the eighty non-union families. The politicians will not speak; most papers will not speak. Today's newspapers and editors will be picked in pieces by some writer who wants to square himself with the union, instead of keeping square with the law. Meanwhile, there is a word that stands: 'Thou shalt not kill.' There is another word that stands: 'Love your enemies.'"

Dr. Hillis said that he had personally but quietly investigated conditions in the anthracite region. "In the anthracite coal country," he said, "I have seen men, aggregating over two thousand, and going to the schoolhouse at 8 o'clock, to remain until 5 o'clock, receive $1.20 a day, for only 26 cents' worth of work; the helper and less than one-half what the miner himself receives; while the priests and the Protestant pastors average twice as much. All summer they carried revolvers, had been in daily peril of clubs, of stones and poison, and at last, worn out with the nervous strain, they had felt the sympathy of all the most of the non-union men have already gone."

"If corporate capital could honestly say, 'I need more men and God, there is not one dollar of watered stock, in these mines or in our railway stocks, the dividend is paid on the absolute cost, they would hire the sympathy of all the public; and if the union men would say: 'We do honest work; we ask an honest wage; we want our share of the products of labor; and we appeal to the sense of justice and fair play in our fellows; we will not kill nor permit killing; we forewear the club and the firing brand and the boycott; we stand on the constitution, and appeal to the laws of the land,' from that hour all non-union men would become union men, as well as citizens. And public opinion would make labor invincible. But so long as union men say: 'The boycott, the strike, the sympathy of all the men, so long as they excuse it, instead of publicly and forever committing themselves against it, that long will society remain the prey of men who first make work dear and then make it scarce, so that they may starve.'"

"We need a revival of ethics. We do not need more gold, nor more land, nor more tools, but this country does need to commit the Ten Commandments to memory. The time has come for selfishness, growing fat through their gains, their withholding the wage of the poor, and their watering of stock, to stop going to horse-shoeing, to give up their wines and their women, and their devilry in general, and go to church, fall on their knees and make restitution of their ill-gotten gains, and say to church and state on the breast, saying, 'God be merciful to me, a sinner.' And the time has come for union men to throw away their guns and clubs, and to use their noble idea of union for mutual betterment, for unity of action, for the diffusion of intelligence. Let them, too, fall on their knees, and ask God to fill their hearts with love for their non-union brethren."

THE TRIBUNE'S SECOND ANNUAL Junior Educational Contest.

A Contest in Word-Building. Who Can Make the Most Words Out of the Letters in T-H-E H-O-M-E P-A-P-E-R.

THIS IS much easier than last year's contest, and twenty of the brightest boys and girls will secure Christmas Gifts in cash for making the largest number of words out of these letters. It is lots of fun to think out the words and hunt them up in the dictionary, and besides it will help you with your spelling. You will be surprised at the number of different ways these twelve letters can be used.

Rules of the Contest.

Presents will be given to the boys or girls, whose parents or guardians are subscribers to THE TRIBUNE, building the largest number of words out of the letters contained in "The Home Paper."

No letters must be used any more times than they appear in these three words. As an example, only one "A" could be used, but there might be two "H's" or three "E's."

Only words defined in the MAIN PORTION of "Webster's International Dictionary" (edition of 1898) will be allowed. Any dictionary can be used, but in judging the contest THE TRIBUNE will debar all words not found in Webster's.
