WAYNE COUNTY MAN RUN DOWN AND KILLED

Peter Bloes, of Union, Near Equinunk, the Victim—The Fatality Took Place at the Red House Near No. 1 Mine—He Was Seeking Employment at the Time and Was Absorbed in Watching Hoisting of Cars at No. 1 When Run Down. Bloes Was a Member of Company E, Thirteenth Regiment.

A young man, 22 years of age, identified by letters on his person as Peter Bloes, of Union, near Equinunk, Wayne county, was run down and instantly killed on the Delaware and Hudson road shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon.

The fatality took place at a point on the railroad overlooking the plane leading to the coal chutes of No. 1 mine; it was just the other side of the "Red House." The poor victim was absorbed in watching the hoisting of cars from No. 1 mine opening up to the plane.

He did not observe or hear the approach of an engine in charge of Engineer John Morrison, which was backing down to one of the coal chutes down the valley. The engine was on the side opposite to where Bloes stood. The tender further prevented the victim from seeing the engine until it was too late. The engine struck Bloes and knocked him across the rails. He gave a fearful shriek, which conveyed the first intimation to the engine crew that something was amiss. The man's right arm and both legs were severed and he was expiring when the train car reached him. A revolver in his hip pocket was flattened by the weight of the engine.

The deceased was taken to the Mayfield station of the Delaware and Hudson and after a short stay in Carbondale he was conveyed to Carbondale and given over to the charge of Funeral Director Hansen to be prepared for burial.

The man's clothes were letters addressed to "Peter Bloes, Company E, Thirteenth Regiment, Fort City, Pa." He carried a dress suit case, which contained besides some clothing a small note book on the fly leaf of which was written "Mrs. Georgia Bloes, Equinunk, Wayne county."

In the afternoon, the deceased was identified by his relatives to Corporal Peter Bloes. He had been at Fort City as a member of Company E, Thirteenth Regiment, and was readily recognized. He visited Fort City Sunday and left there Monday morning at 9 o'clock. He was in search of work. Yesterday forenoon just an hour before he met his fate, Bloes applied for work to Yardmaster John Coles, of the Ontario and Western at Mayfield yard. He could not be accommodated and presumably crossed over Alumni road and through a field to the railroad where death overtook him.

Bloes is survived by his widowed mother and several sisters and brothers.

THE FIRST PAY DAY.

Carbondale Miners Receive First Two Weeks' Wages in Six Months.

The first semi-monthly pay among miners in Carbondale, in fact the first wages they have received in six months was yesterday, when Paymaster Ahernson, of the Delaware and Hudson visited this city and distributed to twenty thousand dollars among the hundreds of mine employees of this company in Carbondale.

The pay was a good one despite the few days to Nov. 1, that were represented in the payment. Each of the miners received from twenty to twenty-five dollars from the paymaster. It was a new experience to the miners and one which they appreciated. The distribution of this goodly sum of money will be manifested in trade conditions and will be appreciated by the town's merchants. The evidence of good times which could be seen before the strike, were present about the streets last night.

Food Director Williams' Out. It will be gratified news, the announcement from Food Director Harry S. Williams has so far remained in.

A BULL DOG Is Easier to Shake Off Than the Coffee Grip.

A lady of St. Paul, Minn., never drank anything but cold water until she was married and then commenced to drink coffee.

"She says: 'About one year after our marriage, my husband began to complain of a distress in his stomach and I had such dizzy spells after each meal that we had to see a doctor. We drank coffee three times a day, but did not imagine that coffee was causing all this distress. The doctor said both our livers were out of order, gave us some medicine, and told us that we ought to break off drinking coffee. We stopped it for a while, but missed the hot drink so much we went back to coffee. In five years' time I had a complexion that was faultless and gained a very bad stomach, and my husband's stomach was ruined. He thought he had cancer of the stomach, or something worse, but we had formed the habit of coffee drinking, and the druggists found it no easy matter to break off, although we knew it was killing both of us.

"We kept a coffee stage at the time, and a lady called one day and asked for Postum Food Coffee, saying: 'My children like it; will not drink anything else, and I know it is good for them because they never have trouble with their stomachs.' This interested me, and I told her about my bad stomach. She told me how to make Postum and we began its use ourselves.

strength as to be able to be out in the immediate vicinity of his home on Belmont street for a portion of each of those pleasant days.

There will be rejoicing over his progress towards health and throughout the city it will be regarded as good news. The heroic fight which Mr. Williams made against the terrible stage of typhoid fever awakened the sympathy of the community and there will be a corresponding good feeling now that he has come out ahead in his battle.

ABOUT CEMETERY LOTS.

Protest Offered to Maplewood Cemetery Association for Today's Meeting.

The annual meeting of the lotholders of the Maplewood Cemetery association will be held this evening. In anticipation of the meeting there comes a protest from an interested party, which it is intended should reach the association. For this reason, the opinion which contains the protest, and which appeared in last evening's Leader is herewith re-printed. It is self explanatory.

"This subject," says the protestant, "has been in my mind ever since I visited Maplewood last summer and noted the way things were being conducted there. I think the selling of lots in the pathways is an outrage and the lot holders should put a stop to it at once and before all of them are made to suffer by seeing their vested rights infringed upon. Many of the lots run through from path to path. By the closing of one path the adjacent lots would then be open at only one side and the purchasers of the new path-lots would be required to walk over the older graves to get to the resting places of their friends. The cemetery has been regularly platted and the paths laid out are being dedicated to the public and the owners of adjoining lots as are the streets of the city. Those who purchased lots years ago did so from the cemetery maps and with a view to the walks which surrounded and made the property accessible. A higher price was given for the lots because of the accessibility for corner lots—as like other real estate they were considered more desirable.

"A practice that is now coming into vogue is to sell single lots in the wide walks adjoining the streets and the original outside lots are set back in the block or section and numbered less valuable from a sentimental as well as financial standpoint.

"It seems to me that the association ought to have some feeling in the matter outside of a mere business one and that there would be enough subscribed by the present lot holders to buy the cemetery in regard to the selling any more lots within the sacred enclosure. There being another cemetery now near the city does away with the former necessity that existed in this matter."

"THE SHOW GIRL" HERE.

A Good-Sized Audience Flocked with Its Comedy Features.

An audience that crowded the balcony of the Grand and almost occupied all the seats on the first floor, greeted Bloes' "Show Girl" last night. "The Show Girl" is a comedy play, which is the author's best work. It is a comedy play, which is the author's best work. It is a comedy play, which is the author's best work. It is a comedy play, which is the author's best work.

"The Show Girl" is very delicate, that is, she is a fragile creature; she is not better to call the piece a good vaudeville show. In saying this, it is not meant to convey that the performance was unsatisfactory. On the contrary, the good-sized audience was quite pleased with the various comedy features; but it was not what was expected from Barnet.

THE HOOK AND LADDER.

Permanent Organization Will Be Effected at Columbia Quarters.

There will be a meeting of those interested in the E. E. Hendrick hook and ladder project in the Columbia Hose company meeting room at 7:30 this evening. Those who have been approached with a view of membership are urged to be present. The temporary organization will be made permanent and the project will be thoroughly canvassed.

OLYPHANT.

Council met in regular session on Monday night with just a quorum present. The street commissioner's time for the month of September and many other bills were passed for payment. It was decided to extend the time limit in which the 5 per cent. rebate will be allowed on the payment of taxes to Jan. 1, 1903.

The building committee was authorized to proceed to make necessary repairs to the borough building. The meter question was next discussed at some length. Some time ago several of the largest consumers of the electric light asked council permission to put in meters and pay at meter rates instead of the old system. It proved to be satisfactory for the first few months to the users, but the light committee discovered that the meters had been read wrong and only one-quarter the amount of current used had been charged.

When the correct figures were charged the rates went away above. Sheriff J. S. Reardon, wife and son of Niagara Falls, N. Y., returned home yesterday after spending the past week as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Horan, of Scott street.

Miss Beatrice Swartz, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swartz, is very ill with pleuro-pneumonia at her home on Brook street.

His Iron Life Belt. Some time ago a ship which carried a few passengers, while crossing the Atlantic, was caught in a heavy storm.

The captain of the ship, seeing the passengers in danger, ordered them to be washed overboard, ordered them to lash themselves to anything that would keep them afloat in case the ship was wrecked. But after a time, however, the storm passed off and a Suffolk man who was one of the passengers was missed. Thinking the worst had happened, a search round the boat was at once made, and after awhile he was found in the bow of the boat, fast asleep, with the anchor tied to him!—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Connolly & Wallace, Scranton's Shopping Center

The best store runs along like a good machine—serving you quietly and well, but without your knowing why or how.

It's not that every store doesn't do the best it can, but that some stores can do better for you than others.

Women's Handkerchiefs

You must take the finest, most beautiful things—in linen and workmanship—for granted today, for we want to tell you of the plain, and some not so plain, that you can have for 25c to 75c.

Most of these come from Switzerland and Ireland. This year Ireland is sending drawn work and little squares in a wonderful variety of designs. Such handkerchiefs are 25c and 35c, up to 75c. The linen is sheer and soft—sheer and softer at 75c, of course, which is the best in this class of work.

Last year everybody wanted scalloped handkerchiefs, embroidered. This year everyone seems to want hemstitched handkerchiefs, embroidered. Switzerland does the best of this kind of work, and the variety at 25c and 35c is infinite—we couldn't begin to tell you of the number of designs at 35c in scallops.

But, in spite of your liking, the handkerchiefs with the hemstitched edges are far stronger and better for use than the scalloped, for the scallops, unless they are worked by hand, are sure to wear out with the constant washing.

The designs at 75c are finer, the linen is sheerer, the work altogether prettier, daintier and more unusual. There is as great a variety at 75c as at 25c. If you want your handkerchiefs to wear, pay more and get fewer—it pays in the long run.

House Coats and Bath Robes.

The comfort-loving man doesn't wait till Christmas—nor his wife, either; though if you have your mind set on a surprise you can easily smuggle a house-coat or bath-robe into the house—or we'll hold it for you.

HOUSE-COATS—$5.00 each. It is always well to make your selections early, but particularly so this year, because we can't duplicate the stock we have now at these prices.

No old coats from last season to worry us—we start fresh every season. All kinds are ready, from the comfortable unlined double-face woollens to the lined cloth coats.

Look first at those for $5—the best lot we ever had. BATH-ROBES—$4.00 to $12.00. Men are really just finding out how necessary they are—the demand is growing faster than for any other garment.

It is hard to keep enough of the right kind on hand, but just now we have a very good variety.

Towels and Table Linen

The good reliable things that every housekeeper wants in her outfit.

TOWELS—Substantial bleached huck towels, hemmed and bordered; 17x34 inches, 10c each. Extra heavy and good huck towels, either hemmed or hemstitched; 21x40 inches, 20c each.

TABLE LINEN—Strong silver-bleached table linen in the broken block patterns; 60 inches wide, 40c yard. Splendid quality half-bleached Irish table linen, in a range of good patterns; 63 inches wide, 50c a yard. Fine bleached double damask table linen, in several pretty patterns; 70 inches wide, 75c yard.

NAPKINS—Full bleached Scotch damask napkins, several patterns to choose from; 19x19 inches, $1.50 a dozen. Snow-white Scotch damask napkins of good quality; 18x18 inches, $1.25 a dozen.

Large, well-made bleached damask napkins, in a range of good patterns; 21x21 inches, $2 a dozen.

Women's Fine Gloves.

We don't believe you know what fine gloves we have. It's our own fault. We've been talking too much about the gloves at lower prices—which are all good in their way and excellent for the money, every one of them. But there are lots of women who want better money. And, of course, finer quality means more money.

The woman who wears $2.00 gloves can get them here just as well as the woman who pays 75c a pair. Among the new styles is a heavy cape walking glove, that all the best makers of the world are sending.

Fownes', $1.50 pair. The fall colors are the tints of leaves that have been touched by the frost—rouge, russet, tan and oak-tan. Black and white, too, in Jovyn gloves. Suede and glace at $1.50 and $2.00 pair.

Children's Gloves.

The children have told us how they feel about it. "If we've got to wear gloves," they say, "we'd like to have them as loose and comfortable as possible."

So we're making children's gloves with shorter fingers and broader palms. A special counter, and fitters who know the right size at a glance.

Fownes' gloves, $1.00 and $1.25. Adlers' gloves, 50c, 75c and $1.00. Knit and woolen gloves, 20c to 50c a pair.
