PROGRAMME OF THE HEARINGS

OUTLINE OF WHAT THE MINERS WILL PRESENT.

National President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, Will Read a Lengthy Opening Statement of What His Side Proposes to Show, and Then Go on the Stand as the First Witness—Those Who Will Follow and What They Will Deal with—Arrangements for Sessions.

At 10 o'clock this morning, the mine strike commission will reassemble at the Superior court room in the county court house, to enter upon the task of taking testimony. All the commissioners, an attorney for the lawyers and parties in interest, had arrived last night, and everything is in readiness for the sessions.

At 8:30 this morning, the commissioners will meet at Hotel Jermyn for a preliminary conference. At its conclusion they will proceed in a body to the court room and formally open the sessions. Judge Gray, president of the commission, will state the commissioners' ideas of the method of procedure, and then will likely follow suggestions of the lawyers as to modifications of what plans of the commissioners do not agree with their ideas.

The procedure being settled, President Mitchell, of the mine workers, will present a 6,000 word statement of the mine strike, embodying what they propose to prove and outlining how they prove it. This being concluded, President Mitchell will take the stand to present documentary and oral testimony. Attorney Clarence S. Darrow will conduct the direct examination of Mr. Mitchell. It is likely that he will be on the stand for several days. It had not been decided, last night, what attorneys for the operators would cross-examine him, and probably no decision will be reached regarding this detail until after his testimony is all in.

Second Miners' Witness.

The second witness for the miners will be Rev. Peter Roberts, D. D., of Mahanoy City, who has been working for the past three weeks with President Mitchell and others, at Wilkes-Barre, in preparing the miners' testimony. Dr. Roberts will testify as to the economic side of the anthracite coal question and the social conditions of anthracite miners.

Then will follow testimony from Dr. Walter E. Weyl, statistician, who will go, in detail, into the matter of wages and cost of living. He will also deal with the matter of miners' children being compelled to go to work at a very early age as compared with children of other workers.

District President Nichols, of District No. 1, and District President Duffy, of District No. 7, will then be called to tell of the conditions in their districts. District President Fahy, of District No. 9, will not go on the stand here, as he is to reserve his testimony for the session of the commission which is expected to take place in Pottsville. Should it be decided that no testimony session will be held, the testimony as to conditions in that district will be given here. A Pottsville session is not likely. It might be incidentally mentioned, as the commissioners do not desire it, and President Mitchell, of the mine workers, does not favor it.

Minor officials of each district, such as secretaries and executive board members, will then be examined on general conditions, and then will come the examination of miners from every mining center in the whole anthracite region as to the details of the miners' case. There will be about fifty witnesses from the Seventh, and thirty from the Ninth. It is possible that all of these will not be called. Much will depend on the developments.

Closing Testimony.

The miners will finish up by presenting the testimony of ministers, doctors and school teachers from several parts of the region as to health, morality and education among miners and their families, with a view of showing that the poverty of miners is not due to anything in the way of dissolute habits; that mining is a dangerous and unhealthy occupation, and that miners' children are the first to leave school.

When the miners close their case it is likely a recess will be taken to give the operators' side opportunity to prepare their response. What the operators will present is not known, but from their preparations it can be taken as a surety that they will occupy quite as much if not more than the miners of the time and attention of the commission.

Recorder Wright and Assistant Recorder Nichols and Neill spent a good part of yesterday afternoon in the superior court room for the sessions of the commission. The seven commissioners will occupy the bench seats of the seven superior court judges. Judge Gray, president of the commission, will sit in the center. On his right, in the order named, will be Colonel Wright, Mr. Watkins and Mr. Clark. On his left, General Wilson, Bishop Spaulding and Mr. Parker. To the extreme right of the bench will be reserved a seat for any judge of the local or federal courts who may drop in as a spectator.

Immediately in front of the bench the two assistant recorders will have a desk. To their left will be the stenographer's desk and adjoining that will be the witness box.

The Press Gallery.

At right angles with the bench and against the easterly wall will be the press gallery. It will occupy what is usually the witness box. Two rows of long tables and chairs, capable of accommodating twenty-four persons, have been placed in the box. This, it is thought, will suffice to accommodate the newspapermen who will make detailed reports of the proceedings. Special writers will be accommodated with front seats among the witnesses.

Three long tables, set at right angles

with the bench and surrounded by twenty-four chairs have been allotted to the attorneys. The miners have been given the table most distant from the witness box while they are presenting testimony, so that their witnesses may be prompted to keep their voices up and thereby make it more certain that the commissioners on the end of the bench farthest from the witness box will hear all the testimony. If the examiner is close to the witness, the latter, as experience in every court room teaches, naturally speaks in a loud enough to make his voice reach his questioner. After getting into the habit of talking loud on direct examination, the witness will continue to keep his voice up during the cross-examination.

The central table will be for the representatives of the coal carrying companies, and the table nearest the witness box will be for the lawyers of the independent operators and the non-union men.

The rest of the space within the bar enclosure will be devoted to the parties in interest, such as the general managers and superintendents of coal companies, officials of the mine workers' union, and the expert accountants and statisticians assisting the attorneys of the different parties.

Seats for Witnesses.

The eighty stationary seats for witnesses and spectators have been augmented to one hundred by the addition of two rows of chairs in the space just outside the bar enclosure. There is little possibility of any except those for whom special provision has been made, being able to gain admittance to the court room. The witnesses will take up all the seats outside the bar enclosure, and, of course, the general public will not be admitted within the enclosure.

The attorneys on the operators' side will be Francis C. Gowen, of Philadelphia, for the Lehigh Valley Coal company; A. H. McClintock, of Wilkes-Barre, for the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal company; Simon P. Wolverson, of Sunbury, for the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company; David Wilcox, of New York, and James H. Torrey, of Scranton, for the Delaware and Hudson company; Wayne McVeagh, of Philadelphia, and Major Everett Warren, of Scranton, for the Erie company; W. W. Ross, of New York, for the Delaware Lackawanna and Western company; John B. Kerr, of New York; ex-Justice Alfred Hand, and J. E. Burr, of Scranton, for the Ontario and Western company; George Bedford, of Wilkes-Barre, for Marik & Co.; H. A. Fuller, of Wilkes-Barre; J. H. Burns, and H. C. Reynolds, of Scranton, for the independent operators of the Lackawanna and Wyoming regions.

John T. Lenahan, of Wilkes-Barre, and Joseph O'Brien, of Scranton, will appear in the interests of the non-union men.

The miners' attorneys are: Clarence S. Darrow, of Chicago; Henry D. Lloyd, of New York; James Lenahan, John Shea, James Shea, of Wilkes-Barre, and John J. Murphy, of Scranton.

Dr. Weyl, though not an attorney, will sit in with the miners' counsel, James Matwick, of New York, an expert accountant and student of sociology, who was associated with Dr. Weyl. Rev. Peter Roberts and Mr. Lloyd in assisting Mr. Mitchell in preparing his case, will also participate in the hearings.

Mitchell Arrives.

Mr. Mitchell and his party came last night from Wilkes-Barre and took up quarters at the St. Charles. Besides those already mentioned, there were accompanying him his private secretary, Miss Elizabeth C. Morris; Miss Estella Lightner, a stenographer from the mine workers' headquarters at Indianapolis; Miss Catherine Murphy, of Archbold, who is assisting in the stenographic work; Miss Elizabeth Fahy, of Scranton; District Secretaries George Hartlein, of Shamokin, and J. P. Gallagher, of Hazleton; National Board Member John Fallon, of Wilkes-Barre, and the following district board members: Terry Gingley, of Girardville; Miles Dougherty, of Shamokin; T. J. Richards, of Minersville, and Peter Gallagher, of Freeland.

Mr. Mitchell had a conference at the Jermyn, last night, with Attorneys Darrow and Lloyd, and at 10:30 retired. Informal conferences between officials and counsel of the companies were taking place in the hotel all evening.

Commissioner Wright and Assistant Recorder Moseley and Nell met General Wilson, Judge Gray and Mr. Parker upon their arrival over the Jersey Central at 10:30 p. m. and accompanied them to the Jermyn. Bishop Spaulding was met by Rev. J. J. Griffin, private secretary to Bishop Hoban, and escorted to the episcopal residence on Wyoming avenue, where he will be entertained during the sessions.

A dozen or more out-of-town newspaper men and special writers for magazines and other periodicals had arrived last night. A number of others will come this morning.

INQUEST IN RYAN CASE.

Deceased Was Burned with Electricity While Trying to Cut a Live Wire.

An inquest was held in the court house last night in the case of Martin Ryan, who was so badly burned with electricity on November 6 in front of 227 Lackawanna avenue, by grasping a live wire, that he died soon afterwards. The jury empaneled by Coroner J. F. Saltry consisted of B. T. Jayne, John Elsiele, Joseph Murphy, G. W. Snyder, J. F. Mitchell and J. F. Hammes, and it returned the following verdict:

We find that Martin Ryan came to his death on November 6, 1902, by being burned by electricity while employed in connecting wires in front of 227 Lackawanna avenue, and that the accident was due to a mistake on the part of Ryan in cutting the wire in the wrong place.

We find that the Lackawanna hospital responded to the ambulance call as promptly as possible.

Michael McManus testified that Ryan was in the employ of the local electric light company. He was a lineman of ten or eleven years' experience and was a very careful and competent man. With the deceased he was engaged in putting wires in the building at 227 Lackawanna avenue on the day of the accident, but was not present when the accident occurred. Ryan had put in a "jumper," a piece of wire which connects the two wires used to complete a circuit. This makes the wire beyond the "jumper" "dead" and connections can be made with safety. After having his "jumper" in place Ryan started to cut the wire to make a connection to run into the store. He seems for some reason, that no one can understand, to have attempted to cut the wire on the "live" side of the "jumper" and received the shock which caused his death.

Dr. S. A. Voorhees, who tried to revive Ryan after he fell to the sidewalk, said a call for the ambulance was sent to the Lackawanna hospital, and after waiting thirty or forty minutes Ryan was placed in a wagon and taken to the hospital. He never regained consciousness at hand more could have been done for Ryan, Dr. Voorhees said, but he could not say that Ryan's life would have been saved.

Morris Lipson and F. W. Thomas, who worked in the store in front of which the accident occurred, said that in their judgment it was from thirty to forty minutes from the time the accident occurred until the man was taken to the hospital in a wagon.

Dr. Lindsay, who is in charge of the hospital ward containing Ryan, and Dr. Noecker, the ambulance surgeon, testified that when the call came to the hospital, Kelly's livery was phoned to send the ambulance to the hospital. In less than ten minutes the ambulance arrived. At the same time the wagon came which contained Ryan. Dr. Lindsay said the man was dead when taken into the operating room.

Dr. P. F. Gunster was in the hospital at the time the call came and corroborated the doctor as to the promptness of the response.

Joseph Kelly, at whose livery the ambulance is kept, said he received the call at 3:50 and four minutes later the ambulance left the stable. It would reach the hospital inside of three minutes.

BIG EUCHRE PARTY.

Nearly 500 Persons Played at St. Thomas College Hall Last Night for Benefit of New Church.

The largest and in every way the most successful progressive euchre party ever conducted in this city was held last night at St. Thomas college by the ladies of the congregation of St. Peter's cathedral, for the benefit of the new church which is soon to be established in South Scranton.

The entire hall, from the stage to the entrance doors, was packed with the players who were seated at 120 tables. Play began at 8 o'clock and continued until 11 o'clock. It would seem that with such a large number playing some confusion would result, but things moved with remarkable smoothness and there were no hitches.

The prizes and those who won them are given below, the winners being decided by cutting the cards: Ladies' first prize, oil painting, Mrs. Collins; ladies' second prize, sofa pillow, Miss Sarah Holley; ladies' third prize, centenary, Miss Anna G. Dea; ladies' fourth prize, salad dish, Miss Mary Walsh; ladies' fifth prize, fern, Mrs. Fleming; gentlemen's first prize, $10 gold piece, P. McCrea; gentlemen's second prize, umbrella, James W. Buck; gentlemen's third prize, pair of shoes, M. J. Burns; gentlemen's fourth prize, box of cigars, Robert Campbell; gentlemen's fifth prize, box of handkerchiefs and atomizer, Hugh Devers.

The committee of ladies which so successfully managed the affair comprised the following: Miss Kate E. O'Malley, Miss Jennie A. Kenney and Miss Kate Kearns.

VIADUCT IS NOW IN SIGHT

SATISFACTORY PLANS HAVE BEEN SUBMITTED.

They Have Been Approved by the D. L. & W. Co. and the Scranton Railway Company, and Are Satisfactory to the City, Except in a Few Minor Details—Accompanied by a Bond for $100,000 from the D. L. & W. Co.—What the Plans Provide for.

The West Lackawanna viaduct is now in sight.

Plans that are satisfactory to the city, with the exception of a few minor details, have been submitted by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, after having received the approval of the Scranton Railway company, which two corporations are to pay for the construction. Accompanying the plans was a bond for $100,000 from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company guaranteeing the cost of construction.

The revised plans show a much more serviceable, durable and ornate structure than was provided for in the original set.

From the easterly end of the tracks to Ninth street, the grade will be practically level, and from the same starting point to Seventh street the grade is a little less than seven per cent. The reduction in grade of one per cent. is accomplished by lowering the viaduct where it crosses the tracks, so that it will have only an eighteen feet clearance instead of twenty-one feet, as could be legally demanded by the company.

Width of Viaduct.

The width of the viaduct and its roadways and sidewalks remain the same. The total width of sixty feet will occupy the street from curb to curb. The ten-foot sidewalks at present on each side of the street will be given to the abutting property holders in part compensation for the damages the city will have to pay.

Solid concrete, instead of block stone, will be used from Seventh street to the easterly side of Eighth street, and from the westerly side of the tracks to Ninth street. From the easterly side of Eighth street to the tracks the viaduct deck will be supported on iron pillars, set on a concrete base. Steps, with broad heads and broken midway by a spacious platform, will lead to the viaduct from Eighth street.

The sidewalks of the viaduct will be of flagstone, with solid concrete curbing. The level part of the roadway, from the easterly end of the tracks to Ninth street, will be paved with asphalt and the rest of it with Warren's Bituminous Macadam, a new paving material which Director of Public Works Roche wants to test. The railings will be highly ornamental and nothing about the construction will be cheap.

Provision will be made for carrying double tracks, and telephone and telegraph wires, and manholes to the sewers and other conduits will be carried up through the masonry from the present street grade.

Materials Used.

Following is a synopsis of the material features of the structure:

Foundation excavation, cubic yds.	1,250
Barrowed filling, cubic yards	8,800
Concrete, cubic yards	1,200
Steel and iron, pounds	246,200
Flag railing, square yards	1,455
Bituminous macadam paving, square yards	1,825
Asphalt paving, square yards	1,750
Flag sidewalks, square yards	1,455

It is thought possible that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company has had some contractors figuring on the work of construction, and that bids will be received just as soon as the city advertises for them.

Director Roche will do all in his power to get the work under way at once. It is a surety, almost, that the long-wanted viaduct will be a reality before next summer.
