BRILLIANT PROGRAMME.

Was Rendered Last Night by Phila delphia Symphony Orchestra. The concert given by the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra at the Lyceum last evening, was fully up to the standard set by that admirable organization last year, although the circumstances were a little more propitious last evening, the spirit imbued into their work by the men themselves was not a bit more vigorous or more refreshing, for such spirit we have never seen hereabouts, and such spirit is sure to win success even under the most depressing circumstances.

Of the work of the orchestra last evening many kind things might be Excepting the former concert pleasure of hearing such an orchestra, such an exquisite balance of parts, such magnificent spirit, such smoothness and such a careful regard for the dynamic expression. They played with understanding and at times, especially in the string section, with a brilliant virtuosity that was dazzling. The programme, while somewhat ethical for a Scranton audience was taken in the abstract and as a whole full of beauties and highly interesting.

The Drorak symphony was given its first reading in Scranton, and we appreciate Mr. Scheel's courage in introducing to us a novelty. The symphony was composed by Drorak shortly after his arrival in America, and is builded on negro and Indian melodies, in a highly interesting way. The character in the first movement at once strikes one as unique. The recurring negro and yankee rythme in this movement suggests the primeval forest in the strings and reeds, while the treatment of the bassi forms a background of on for the rent. Dilmuth had a horse of digestion and the body and brain unrest, of suspicion, of future transformation. The harmonies and general treatment in this movement are very novel, full of warmth of color.

In the second movement a beautiful dirge effect is sustained by the solo English horn accompanied by muted strings, interrupted by oboe and flute in a beautiful decresendo to the climax It is a peaceful tone picture of simple Indian life This number was treated with sympathetic delfcacy and was probably the best played number of the vening. The third movement was haracterized by a peculiar rythme, and good work by an octette of reeds and fine tone quality from the trumpet. This movement taxed the ensemble work of the orchestra. The finale was given with spirit and the fire and vigor of youth-Mr. Scheel evidently believes in the spirit of youth, his men are mostly young-that was splendid. This novement suggests the military in character, and brought out notably good work from the violas 'celli and bass. The climax was well done.

The Goldmark Scherzo is full of unipassionate. This is a well scored composition, dainty and beautiful and was performed in a highly creditable way. As is usual with Saint-Saens this opus 39-Phaeton-is treated unusually. There was some beautiful coloring in large assortment of Picture Frames the climax by the strings, some novel to select from. We invite you to call stringuendos, a fine brass quartette and late Rev. F. A. Doney, yesterday bean interesting harp part. There were gan suit, through Attorney C. L. Hawsome thumping, roaring, crashing ley, to recover $2,000 damages from the climaxes that were vast in effect.

The Fingal Cave overture was given a spirited reading by Mr. Scheel and the shading and general nuances were nicely brought out.

The usual encores were given, and included Mendelssohn's "Spinning Song," "Asa Dance," from the "Peer Dance, by Brahms.

The piano number selected by Mr. under less favorable conditions, and, it is safe to say that a comparison would not do justice to Mr. Spanuth's performance, which was very musicianly, broad and dignified. Mr. Spanuth gave a highly creditable reading of this great concerto; his technique is ample and his climaxes were marked by clear work, full of feeling and depth. Sinphrasing and the poignant qualities of grief, despair, joy, were given a manly endition. memories for many days. Inadequate ompaniment, although Mr. Scheel worked hard. His encore was from

It was shown in the crossexamination of Sabia that the tax collector levied on the mowing machine. and that Frank Webster paid the taxes and has the machine; that mice ate the buckwheat, and that Patchen was to give him cider the next fall for the vinegar and the barrels.

Upon this showing Attorney C. Balentine, who appeared for the defendant, asked for a non-suit, which was granted by Judge Newcomb.

PUTTING IT STRONG

But Doesn't It Look Reasonable?

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is curable, nor is it such a dif ficult matter as at first appears.

The trouble with Dyspeptics is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves, or going to opposite extreme or else deluging the already over burdened stomach with "bitters" "af ter dinner pills," etc., which invariably increase the difficulty even if in some cases they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomacl simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a rest. Now how can the stomach become rested, recup crated and at the same time the body nourished and sustained.

This is a great secret and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspensia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stom-

The sufferer from Dyspepsia according to directions, is to eat an abundance of good wholesome food and use the tablets before and after each meal and the result will be that the food will be digested no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be, because, as before stated, the tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is wholly inactive. To illustrate our meaning plainly, if you take 1,800 grains of meat, eggs or ordinary food and place it in a temperature of 98 degrees, and put with it one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as Brown is plaintiff, and Bittenbender & perfectly as if the meat was enclosed within the stomach,

The stomach may be ever so weak fendants and had his property levied yet these tablets will perform the work which he kept in Brown's stable, and will be properly nourished and at the this too was levied on. Brown alleges same time a radical, lasting cure of Dyspepsia will be made because the much-abused stomach will be given, to he claims the horse. The jury will be some extent, a much needed rest. Your charged this morning. In the case of druggist will tell you that of all the many remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia none of them have given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the cheapest and give the most good for the least money.

FALL RALLY OF THE CITY UNION

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WORK-ERS IN CONFERENCE.

Henry L. Peabody Chosen as President and Miss Chamberlain as Secretary for the Coming Year-Address by Rev. Joseph H. Odell and Rev. William Davis on "Christian Service" and the "Life of the Christian Endeavorer"-Must Be Consistent to Meet God's Favor.

The City Union Christian Endeavor society held its fall rally last evening at Grace Lutheran church, corner of Prescott avenue and Mulberry street, where representatives from many churches assembled. A programme of some length was carried out, and officers were elected as follows:

President, Henry L. Peabody; secretary, Miss Chamberlain, of Dunmore; treasurer, H. W. Skivington; superintendent of good citizenship work, A. B. Dunning; superintendent of corre-spondence, John Thomas.

The church choir sang an anthem, and congregational singing was indulged in at intervals during the service. Prayer was offered by Rev. Jenkin R. Reese, the retiring president of the city union, and Rev. Luther Hess Waring read the Scripture lesson. Fifteen-minute addresses were delivered by Rev. Joseph Odell and Rev. William Davis. The former talked on the subject of "Christian Service," the salient points of his discourse being in relation to the law of the transmission of energy. Nothing can be transformed unless there is action, and this law always applies to Christian service. Some workers in the cause easily become discouraged when results are slow, but the harvest is absolutely certain when begun right. Nothing of the spiritual that Christians give to the Lord is ever lost, it is transformed into something, and this Christian service is a blessed privilege for all. God accepts every endeavor, and it is a test of Christian life to do what you can for His cause.

Rev. Davis, who is pastor of the Bellevue Welsh Calvinistic Methodist church, spoke on the "Life of the Christian Endeavorer," and showed now consistent it must be to meet God's equirements, and pointing out that there can be no noble and complete manhood and womanhood without the life of Christ within, and unless the individual is in touch with the divine life
