SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

In Connection with the Fire Early Yesterday Morning.

What appears to be a very bungling job at incendiarism was discovered by Superintendent Ferber at the fire in Mrs. Mary Jordan's house on North Washington avenue at 2 o'clock yesterlay morning.

Fire had been started in three places, but two of the fires were smothered before any serious damage resulted. The other blaze was started under a stairway, and the flames spread upward to the attic, damaging the building quite badly.

In one place the plaster on the wall had been broken and the laths were pushed down between the studding and then saturated with oil. Under the stairway the fire was started with rags and paper. The damage amounted to about $400.

Probate of Will Stands.

In the estate of James Monroe. ceased, Judge Vosburg, in Orphans' court yesterday, handed down an opinon dismissing the appeal from the probate of the will and the probate is allowed to stand except as to the clause appointing the executors, which is void. The question involved in the appeal

The question involved in the appeal is whether or not the failure of the testator to sign a clause in the will following his signature, renders the in-strument invalid. From the evidence taken it appears that the will was drawn, signed by the testator, and wit-nessed by John L. Keogh and Della Keogh. The same day, a few hours inter, the following paragraph was ad-ded after the testator's signature, to-ded after the testator's signature, to-wit: "And I, James Monroe, hereby Sold by Wm. G. Clark and H. C. San-Sold by Wm. G. Clark and H. C. San appoint Mary Monroe and William derson
