Joseph Rose Threatened to Take Oliver's Life—Funerals Yesterday—Notes and Personals.

James Durkin, of 218 Laekawanna avenue, and Joseph Rose, of 1007 Lafayette street, were arrested at Beddoe court and Sweetland street Sunday night by Patrolman Kliah Peters and Citizen Isaac Price. Both were intoxicated and acted in a disorderly manner.

It developed at the hearing in police court yesterday morning that Rose was exceedingly jealous of a young man named Oliver Harris, of 327 North Filmore avenue, and that Rose had sent threatening letters to a lady friend of Harris' emphasizing his threat with a drawing of a skull and cross-bones.

Harris appeared against Rose and Police Magistrate Hows, who conducted court in the absence of B. Davies, held the prisoner in $500 bail on the charge of making threats. He was unable to furnish bail and was committed.

Rose was fined $15 or thirty days for disorderly conduct, and his companion paid a fine of $4 and costs. Both are young men, and Rose was under arrest during the strike for carrying a concealed weapon and also flourishing it in a reckless manner.

have been received for $1,000 of this amount. A systematic canvass of the church members and their friends will be made.

A class meeting will be held this evening and prayer meeting tomorrow evening. The newly-organized Queen Esther circle will meet Friday evening.

Friday afternoon the Mother's Jewels will meet in the church under the direction of Mrs. W. N. Chase and pack a box which will be sent to the Mothers' Jewels' home at York, Neb. THE YEAR 1902.

It Ends Leaving Things Better Than When It Began.

From the World's Work.

As the end of the year draws nigh we may congratulate ourselves that it will leave the world in much better plight than it found it. When it began there was war in South Africa and there were troublesome hostilities in the Philippines. Now peace is broken, if broken at all, only by the unrest in Venezuela and Colombia and in Hayti that follows the strongest possible war influences; the "Mad Mullah" has attacked the British. And not only is the world at peace, but the great nations are more securely linked together, perhaps, than they ever were before. New forces for peace are at work—especially two of the strongest possessing war influences; an organized and closely-knit commerce, which none can afford to disturb for fear of a lasting loss of trade, and in particular the overwhelming commercial power of the United States, which would gain a still surer lead by the suspension of industrial activity in any important country. The little periodical adjustments of power and of privilege that the nations used to make by special treaties were crude and weak guarantees of order in comparison with the compelling power of modern commerce and all that it implies. The most recent wars were really only frontier wars.

Men without historical knowledge easily believed that their own era is a new era in the world. But men with historical knowledge now see international conditions that are radically different and radically better for peace than any of the battered centuries behind us knew. The unrelenting of the dominant races and the increasing industry to free opportunity on the most fruitful continent and the industrial rise of the republic, fortifying its political power, have put all nations in a new relation to one another and in a new relation to civilization. This revolutionary fact has become plainer this year than it ever was before. Its far-reaching significance we do not yet see; but it looks like a great force that will work for the steadying of governments and for the same direction of endeavor for centuries to come. For it is the natural result of a great law of human development and not an advantage won by the strength of armies or by the skill of diplomatists or by any other power that may change with a change of rulers and of generations. The industrial man becomes stronger, the political man weaker; and economic force is beginning to rule the world as military force once ruled it.

THE CHILDREN'S FAVORITE.

One of the greatest difficulties encountered when children are ill, is the objection they have to taking medicine. The remedy must be pleasant or the patience of the parent is exhausted before it is successfully administered. Mr. G. G. Wagner, of Spring Grove, Pa., overcomes this objection by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says his little boy always asks for it whenever he catches cold. This remedy has become the children's favorite, as it is pleasant to take and it always cures and cures quickly. For sale by all druggists.

count two points, and for three cushions three points.

He submitted the game to Fred Eames, who is considered one of the most expert players that ever came to Denver, who said it was, as far as he knew, an entirely new game. He also commended the plan as an enjoyable game for those trying to learn difficult shots. Then he began to figure on the possible number of points to be made in one shot. He took a diagram and showed how eight cushions might be made between the two balls, and was willing to admit the bare possibility of nine. The latter is improbable.

At the Denver club, where the game has taken root, Mr. Voorhies has made seven points at one shot and Charles Cavender has made six. All the players are trying steadily to make a better record at one shot than has been yet made.

NEW BILLIARD GAME.

Every Cushion Made Between the Carom to Count a Point.

From the Denver Republican.

J. H. P. Voorhies has invented a new game at billiards which is being tried by the members of the Denver club, and is meeting with favor. It is a variation of the French cushion carom game.

The idea came to Mr. Voorhies while he was watching a couple of experts play the three-cushion American game. It occurred to him that the game was a very good one for the very expert, but as games were not usually devised for that class of players, something in the same line, but a little easier, should be made for the general run of players. He then suggested that the cushions taken between the carom be counted. For instance, if a player made one cushion, he counted one for his shot. If he made two cushions between the object balls he should
