We have not had but a few Irish comedians in the past twenty years, Mack Is easily the leader and the only one that HE WAS DEAF. Mr. John E. Haley, Carbondale, says: "I had been deaf for a long while. I could not hear in church. I shunned my neighbors because I could not understand what they said. I had noises in my head and my whole nervous system became af-fected. I lost flesh rapidly and in six weeks I lost over 25 pounds. I tried three of the best doctors in Carbondale, but without any result. Something seemed to tell me that I ought to try Doctor Byers' Treatment. I went to his offices and placed myself under his care. That was five months ago. My hearing hus been restored. Last Sunday I went to church and heard every word the preacher said. I now meet with my friends and converse with them, and I assue you I will never cease sounding the praises of Doctor By-ers' name for restoring my hearing. His power over disease comes from a Higher Influence than human. God bless the Great Quaker Doctor." Mr. John E. Haley, Carbondale,

Seats For "San Toy" This Morning. It may be true that an Englishman has no sense of humor, that his country is the land of the fearful and malevolent pun, that a map should go with every real joke when told to one of King Edward's subjects, but it must be admitted that Englishmen can and do write and compose the best musical comedies. Under the head of one of the very best of these musical plays will undoubtedly be placed "San Toy," the work of five of these writers, Edward Morton, Sid-ney Jones, Lionel Monekton, Harry Greenbank and Ardian Ross. The old adage that "too many cooks spoil the broth" has not come true in this case as "San Toy" is conceded to be as nearly : perfect specimen of the musical comedy as has yet been offered to the public "San Toy" ran for months and months in London, eclipsing the runs of all the other plays of its class, leaving even that nuch vaunted "Florodora" away behind n the race for popular favor. In the company presenting "San Toy" are Samuel Collins, George K, Fortesque Hobart Smock, Sarony Lambert, Nagle Barry, Joseph Canto, Nellie Lynch, Norah Lambert, Isabel Hall and a large chorus, the organization numbering in al over sixty-five people. The company's orchestra will be combined with the local orchestra, the whole to be conducted by John Braham. "San Toy" will be proand night.
