Fourth Page—Scraps from my Note Book, by Laurie Todd, &c. Mr. Crook will lecture this evening in the Reformed Presbyterian Church, (late Rev. Mr. Livingston) Fifth Ward.

To-morrow evening, in the Fourth Common Methodist Church, Allegheny. His lecture will be on "The Liberty of the Press."

Government Buildings in Pittsburgh. In the appropriation bill recently passed by the Congress, there is a provision for the erection of a new building for the office of the Receiver of Public Money, and for the office of the Treasurer of the United States.

Mr. James, the newly elected Senator from Ohio, is a free-trader. He is a manufacturer of iron, and has been for many years one of the most prominent manufacturers in Ohio.

Among the number of foreigners who have been crowding to our shores for the past few years, there are none more interesting than the Scandinavians, whose wide spread tribes occupy the greater part of Northern Europe.

It is but a few years since these people began to immigrate to this country, but already they have formed settlements in Wisconsin and Illinois. They have two weekly newspapers published in their own language, and are about to issue a periodical in a Scandinavian language.

The Scandinavians, who are now settling in Wisconsin and Illinois, are of various nationalities, but the most numerous are the Swedes, the Danes, and the Norwegians.

It is a remarkable evidence of the happy effects of our institutions, that they can embrace and assimilate so many different nationalities, and yet preserve the unity of our Union.

The meeting was organized at about ten o'clock, and was presided over by the Rev. Mr. G. W. Whitcomb, of Allegheny.

The meeting was held at the residence of Mr. G. W. Whitcomb, and was attended by a large number of friends of the cause.

THE WORK OF SIXTY-THREE YEARS.

The installation of a new pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, is an event of no ordinary importance, and one which will attract attention to the early history of this city.

The London Daily News, speaking of Webster's liberal statements, says: "Such is the honest language employed by our Foreign Secretary, would make the fair stand upon any head, and even should it be upon a wrong one."

CELEBRATION OF THE PORTUGUESE TRIESTE.

In fulfillment of a long incubation on it, it is indeed painful to give, in this place, a report of a disastrous catastrophe of the 23rd inst.

That day being the anniversary of the birth day of His Majesty the King, joined with the national festival, the people of Trieste were celebrating the anniversary of the birth of their monarch, and the anniversary of the death of their king.

After a few moments of anxious gaze, on the fitting up of the great clock overlooking the sea, the spectacle of a burning ball, in the place of that which frigate the Donna Maria II. The ship had blown up, and but a small part of the stern, in possession of the flames, was left to float in the bay.

These officers, for the most part, young men, had promised, at a future date, to add to the royal page of Portugal.

It is not possible to describe the horror and consternation of all who were present at this disastrous scene: it is not in our power to depict faithfully and yet not hazard the attempt to realize such feelings they must be experienced.
