

HOME MATTERS.

MERRIMENT ITSELF.—Two professors of this art have arrived in this city, and are exhibiting their astonishing powers before a number of some of our citizens, who is a believer in the rappings. The "spirits" are summoned—the rappings heard, and in every respect these figures appear to equal the Rochester Rappings of which we celerate. We have not had the pleasure of being present at any of their exhibitions, but have heard accounts of them received from several who attended, and have been very much amused by their account of what took place.

One of the occasions to which we refer, the room in which the rappers and their audience were seated, was so dark that the lights were gravey summoned to appear. Nothing could be seen more than a faint glimmer of light.

We soon made all present aware that the lights by the vicinity of a very distinct rapping.

One spirit in particular, was born of a number of commonplace questions, to which appropriate answers were returned, and everything was repeatedly asked, when an unbeliever in the ranks of the faithful, asked the possibility of deception, as owing to the darkness any might rap as much as he pleased, undetected. Shaken at this profanity, the spirit fled, and our believing friend was overwhelmed by a torrent of mingled reproaches at his want of politeness and regard at the consequences arising from it. The spirit must be morally offended.—They would not let him go, however, until they had the next regular meeting, offer the following amendment:

Besolved, That the Constitution be altered as to provide for the election of Vice President, and an assistant Secretary, and to provide for a permanent Society, and a permanent Secretary to work to prevent the offended spirits. With much difficulty they decided, and the raps were more heard to resound through the apartment; may the spirits were induced to leave, and the meeting adjourned.

A mortal had offered him, and he was finally introduced to a particular spirit with whom he entered into a familiar conversation. The answer to his questions certainly did not manifest any unusual degree of mental brilliancy on the part of the spirit, but may be attributed to the character of his spirit, when clad in the flesh, which is thus rendered incapable of comprehending them.

Mental questions were then put by the gentleman whom we refer, and the most astonishing revelations were made. One mental question was the account of the Creation in Genesis correctly given.

On motion of Dr. L. W. H. Heaton, to meet on Monday evening next, being the regular meeting, at the place to be announced by the Executive Committee.

ROBERT ROBERTSON, President.

JAMES DODGE, Vice-Pres.

JOHN COOPER, Secretary.

ROBY C. WALKER, Sec'y.
