PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

WHAT WITHERS, BLOOMS AGAIN.—A delicate child, pale and prematurely wise, was complaining on a hot morning, that the poor dew-drops had been too hastily snatched away, and not allowed to glitter on the flowers like other happier dew-drops that live the whole night through and sparkle in the moon-light, and through the morning onwards to noon-day.

"The sun," said the child, "has chased them away with his heat, or swallowed them up in his wrath."

Soon after came rain and rainbow, whereupon his father pointed upwards.

"See," said he, "there stand the dew-drops, gloriously re-set—a glittering jewelry in the heavens, and the clownish foot tramples on them no more. By this, my child, thou art taught that what withers on earth, blooms again in heaven."

Thus the father spoke, and knew not that he spoke prefiguring words; for soon after, the delicate child, with the morning brightness of his early wisdom, was exhaled, like a dew-drop, into heaven.

Signs of Rain.

Forty reasons for not accepting the invitation of a friend to make an excursion with him.

1. The hollow winds begin to blow,
2. The clouds are black, the grass is low;
3. The soot falls down, the spaniels sleep,
4. And spiders from their cobwebs peep;
5. Last night the sun went pale to bed,
6. The moon in halos hid her head;
7. The boding shepherd heaves a sigh,
8. For see, a rainbow spans the sky;
9. The walls are damp, the ditches smell,
10. Closed is the pink-eyed pimpernell.
11. Hark, how the chairs and tables crack,
12. Old Betty's joints are on the rack;
13. Loud quack the ducks, the peacocks cry,
14. The distant hills are seeming nigh.
15. How restless are the snorting swine,
16. The busy flies disturb the kine;
17. Low o'er the grass the swallow wings,
18. The cricket, too, how sharp he sings;
19. Puss on the hearth, with velvet paws,
20. Sits wiping o'er her velvet jaws.
21. Through the clear stream the fishes rise,
22. And nimbly catch the incautious flies.
23. The glow-worms, numerous and bright,
24. Illumed the dewy dell last night.
25. At dusk the squalid toad was seen,
26. Hopping and crawling o'er the green;
27. The whirling dust the wind obeys,
28. And in the rapid eddy plays;
29. The frog has changed his yellow vest,
30. And in a russet coat is dressed;
31. Though June, the air is cold and wild,
32. The mellow blackbird's voice is shrill.
33. My dog, so altered in his taste,
34. Quits mutton-bones, on grass to feast;
35. And see, yon rooks, how odd their flight,
36. They imitate the gliding kite,
37. And seem precipitate to fall,
38. As if they felt the piercing ball.
39. 'Twill surely rain, I see with sorrow;
40. Our jaunt must be put off to-morrow.

Dr. Jenner.

Too much fancy is not necessary in our conversation or writings; it begets vain and puerile ideas, which tend neither to make us wise or better. Our thoughts should be produced by good sense and right reason, and ought always to be the effect of our judgment.

FOUR USEFUL MAXIMS.—1. Never regret what is irretrievably lost.

2. Never expose your disappointments to the world.

3. Never complain of being ill used.

4. Always speak of your friends, but of your enemies speak neither good nor evil.

NEW YORK ADVERTISEMENTS.

HENRY WATERMAN'S PATENT HAMMERED SAWS—The subscriber would call the attention of dealers, and others, to this superior article. By his patent process of hammering, the saw is more thoroughly tempered than it can be by any other method. It is well known to machinists, that the surface of tempered steel is the hardest part. Where saws are tempered according to the usual method and hammered by hand, it is necessary to polish them, thereby grinding off the most serviceable part of the saw. These saws are not polished, and only require a trial to be appreciated. They have already been put to the severest test in some of the largest Saw Mills in this vicinity, and pronounced unequalled.

We are now prepared to execute orders for all sizes of Mill, Pit and Circular saws.
